School, Homes, Wild Life Threatened

Gusty winds and low humidity served as catalysts for fires which crackled over 175 acres of crisp grass and brush and threatened a school, homes and a wild life refuge in Marin County yesterday.

Largest blaze was at Stinson Beach, where flames licked to within a foot of homes, caused evacuation of an elementary school, threatened the Audubon Society's Canyon Ranch, and destroyed a $17,650 crop of Christmas trees.

The fire swept over 100 acres up the Bolinas Ridge, overlooking the lagoon, before it was controlled by 48 firemen and seven airplanes "bombing" with fire-retardant chemicals.

Another fire flared up twice, at 3:28 and 5:55 p.m. along the Sonoma-Marin County border, burning 75 acres on the Simon Azevedo and Moore Brothers ranches. It was finally contained by 24 firemen and one aerial bomber.

The Stinson Beach fire started

Bolinas Woman Begins Shots After Skunk Bite

Mrs. Heidi Ryan, owner of a hardware store on Wharf Road, Bolinas, was bitten on the left big toe and the right foot.

According to a sheriff's report, the skunk was seen in front of the College of Marin marine laboratory Monday morning by Don Hendrickson and Patrick O'Brien, Bolinas youths.

The skunk behaved strangely, ignoring traffic and humans, said the report. Mrs. Ryan walked out of her store nearby, and the skunk darted through the open door. When she followed it, she was "bitten rather savagely."

Hendrickson and O'Brien chased the skunk out of the store, and O'Brien killed it with a shotgun blast.

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, Marin County health officer, said today tests have proved conclusively that the skunk was rabid. Mrs. Ryan has already started the 14-day series of Pasteur innoculations. The vaccine is given daily.

This is the seventh rabid animal found in Marin this year, but Mrs. Ryan is the first person to have been bitten by a rabid animal in Marin in several decades.

Marine Bombers' Mistake Kills Viet Army Villagers

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Marine bombers missed their target and dropped 500-pound bombs by error yesterday on a friendly village occupied by Vietnamese forces and their families.

A U.S. military spokesman said the mistake bombing killed 28 soldiers and civilians and wounded 17. The bombs also wrecked about 100 huts in the village in the northern province of Quang Ngai, 350 miles north of Saigon.

The U.S. Command also disclosed that American troops have launched four new search-and-destroy operations and are operating in the Mekong Delta for the first time in the Viet Nam war.

In other war developments, a reconnaissance company of South Vietnamese troops uncovered a huge cache of Viet Cong ammunition and explosives 38 miles south of Saigon in the Mekong Delta.

U.S. authorities began an immediate investigation of the Marine bombing of the friendly village, and Marine helicopters flew the wounded to a government hospital in nearby Quang Ngai City.

Many of the casualties were Montagnards, mountain tribesmen from whose ranks U.S. special forces teams have drawn

San Francisco Riot Quelled; State, Federal Probes Slated

Officials Tense As Heat Wave Lingers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Order was restored in two Negro districts today after nighttime rioting and violence, touched off by the fatal shooting of a 16-year-old Negro by a white policeman.

State and federal officials moved to head off possible renewed violence as Bay Area temperatures soared to nearly 90.

The state attorney general's office said the U.S. Department of Justice had been called to investigate the shooting and the rioting.

A spokesman said the state Department of Civil Rights also will investigate.

SPOTTY REPORT

There were spotty reports of juvenile gangs still roaming Hunters Point and Fillmore districts. Two trucks were stoned in the Fillmore area. But it was otherwise quiet.

The boy whose death touched off the rioting was fleeing from a stolen auto when killed.

Police command cars stood by on side streets in the two Negro neighborhoods. National Gaurdsmen were at the ready.

Patrolman Alvin Johnson, who fired the shot that killed Matthew Johnson, 16, said:

"I did everything I could to avoid doing what I had to do.

MAYOR THERE

Mayor John F. Shelley, who was in the Hunters Point area until past 2:30 a.m. and Police Chief Thomas Cahill consulted other officials about plans for averting further violence.

Shelley was cautious about whether the worst was over.

"Let's hope to God it is," he said.

Lawrence E. Mitchell, KGO-TV cameraman who lives at 23 San Benito Way, Novato, was hit by a brick thrown in the direction of Mayor Shelley as the San Francisco mayor pleaded with the rioters for order.

Rioting started in the Hunters Point District, where until now there has been no racial violence, and jumped hours later five miles across the city to the Fillmore District, where a near rit was suppressed last summer after a Negro patrolman stopped Negro youths from robbing two white couples.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown called up 2,000 National Guardsmen and with Mayor John F. Shelley imposed a curfew that stopped the violence some four hours after it started without the Guard going into the streets.

Brown conferred by telephone this morning with Mayor Shel-

Officer Sorry He Killed Boy, Triggered Riot

"I didn't want to kill that boy," said Alvin J. Johnson of Mill Valley, whose fatal shot touched off rioting last night by Negro gangs in San Francisco's Hunters Point.

Shaken by the 16-year-old boy's death and its violent aftermath, Johnson, 51, a 23-year veteran San Francisco police officer, today said, "I did what I had to do, but I'm certainly sorry it happened."

TWO CHILDREN

Johnson, father of two grown children, was suspended after the shooting, pending an investigation.

Shaken, he told how it happened:

"I was on patrol, driving a marked police car down Griffith Street toward Oakdale, and I saw this car coming toward me.

"It was about two, maybe three car lengths from me, and then it stopped in the middle of the road. Two people jumped out—one from each side—and started running away.

'HOLD IT'

"I yelled 'Hold it! I want to talk to you!' But they ran.

"I got back into the car and drove up the hill. Then I got out of the car again and I saw one of the boys. I said 'Hold it,' but he sort of threw his hands up in the air and began running away.

"I yelled 'Hold it, or I'll shoot!' but he kept running.

"Then I fired three times in the air. But he didn't stop.

"He was running up to the Auction Ends Foreclosure Proceedings

By PAT PERRY

Two men stood on the Marin County courthouse steps in the early morning sun today. One read aloud from legal papers: ". . . will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, lawful money of the United States, all payable at time of sale . . ."

The other man stood, hands folded, listening intently. Passers-by glanced curiously, but none stayed.

This scene, little-known yet paradoxically well-publicized, is repeated with increasing frequency in Marin County. It's a trustee's sale, last step in the business of foreclosure—a public sale, a regular auction, which the public seldom attends.

There have been 21 such sales in Marin in the last two weeks.

To bid at a trustee's sale you must have a cashier's check for the full amount of your bid; and no matter how great a bargain foreclosed County property may be, it's difficult nowadays to come up with several thousands of dolars in cash on the nail.

Today at 9 a.m., the San Francisco Auxiliary Corp., a trustee for San Francisco Federal Savings and Loan Assn., sold at auction "Lot 1, Map of Dusel Court, Novato, a deed of trust dated March 15, 1962.

Actually "Lot 1" is a pair of duplexes facing Highway 101 opposite Hamilton Air Force Base, vacant and in need of repair.

School Quakeproofing Could Cost $100,000

It would cost $75,000 to bring Short School in San Rafael up to Field Act earthquake-resistance standards, and $25,000 to bring Laurel Dell Primary School up to those standards, a structural engineer told the San Rafael Board of Education last night.

Harold M. Engle Sr., whose firm made an inspection of the two elementary schools and San Rafael High School at the board's request, recommended Short School be abandoned.

"Any long use in its present condition is inadvisable," he said. "It's an obsolete type of building."

Short School survived the 1906 earthquake which shook down San Francisco, but Engle said the shock in San Rafael "was not of major damage-producing intensity."

He said the 62-year-old building could suffer extensive damage in a moderately severe shock, and "in a destructive shock of long duration the possibility of collapse . . . cannot be ruled out."

He said a brick chimney on the building "represents a distinct life hazard."

Acting Supt. William C. Jordan suggested, however, the building might be "shored up" at a cost of about $2,000 as a temporary measure. "We're down to four classrooms now, and they're in the safest part of the building," he said.

Jordan explained today that two classes have been consolidated so one classroom—adjacent to the chimney—is empty.

Engle said Laurel Dell Primary School, constructed in 1929, is "basically not a bad old building" and readily susceptible to rehabilitation.

State's General Fund Borrowing $50 Million

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's general fund revenues totaled about $290 million during July and August and the fund is borrowing about $50 million this month to tide it over the year's low revenue period, State Controller Alan Cranston reported today.

Cranston said expenditures from the general fund for July and August were about $476 million. Cash on hand Aug. 31 was about $13 million, he said.

Klansman Found Not Guilty In Rights Worker Slaying

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A Negro-dominated jury has found a 43-year-old steelworker and member of the Ku Klux Klan innocent of a murder charge in the slaying of a white civil rights worker.

A Circuit Court jury of eight Negroes and four white men took 85 minutes last night to reach its verdict of acquittal in the trial of Ku Klux Klansman Eugene Thomas for murder in the slaying of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, a white civil rights worker who died in a hail of gunfire from a passing auto on March 25, 1965, a few hours after the Selma-to-Montgomery march ended.

The verdict made Thomas the second member of the hooded order to win state court acquittal in the killing of Mrs. Liuzzo.

EUGENE THOMAS
Acquittal ires attorney

While the Detroit housewife was a participant in the march to dramatize Negro voting rights demands, no mention of her as a civil rights volunteer was made in direct testimony in the one-day trial. There was only one mention in the testimony of Thomas, a Bessemer steelworker, as a member of the Klan.

State Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers, who directed the prosecution for the state, expressed disappointment at the verdict. He called it a "complete breakdown of justice and law and order."

Thomas, who had listened attentively to the testimony which preceded the verdict, told newsmen he "got a fair trial."

The state closed its case without calling a paid witness for the FBI, Gary Thomas Rowe. He had testified in three previous trials that he was an eyewitness to the killing of Mrs. Liuzzo.

Rowe, a former Birmingham bartender who said he joined the Klan to get information for the FBI, testified he was in a car from which the fatal shot was fired, and that Thomas handed his gun to another Klansman, Collie LeRoy Wilkins, to do the shooting.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Pro-LBJ Policy Candidate Wins

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Leonard Farbstein, who keyed his campaign on support for President Johnson's Viet Nam policy, has scored a narrow victory over a vigorous administration critic in a special Democratic primary.

Farbstein

The margin in yesterday's 19th Congressional District rerun primary was only 929 votes out of more than 33,000 cast.

Farbstein, 63, a five-term congressman who has made a specialty in recent years of winning by close elections, polled 17,080 votes in the unofficial tally.

Air Search Ends

FORT SMITH, Canada (UPI) — A massive air search for four California residents, missing in a Cessna aircraft since Sept. 7, has been called off, officials said yesterday. Aboard were Ukiah lumber company owner Frank M. Crawford, his wife, Vivian, Vic Roach, and Earl M. Maize, Jr., Willits.

Project Gains Told

SANTA ANA (AP) — The State Water Project is moving southward "at the rate of a million dollars a day," State Water Resources Director William E. Warne said today. He said construction of the $2 billion project is on schedule "from the big dam at Oroville . . . down the reaches of the 444-mile long California Aqueduct into Southern California."

Rhodesia Talks End

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — British Commonwealth Secretary Herbert Bowden ended a nine-day visit to Rhodesia today and said he was not optimistic that an agreement would emerge from his talks with Prime Minister Ian Smith. But he said the discussions had helped clear the air.

Typhoon Peril Abates

TOKYO (AP)—Typhoon June, originally reported heading for the main Japanese island of Honshu, appeared today to be veering harmlessly away into North Pacific, Japanese weathermen said.

U. S. Exhibit Closed

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Student demonstrators have forced the closing of an American space exploration exhibit on the university campus at Allahabad, 350 miles southeast of New Delhi. The students shouted against American involvement in Viet Nam and protested the Indian - American educational foundation which President Johnson proposed.

Airliner Hijacked

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — An Argentine Airlines spokesman said today a DC-4 flying between Buenos Aires and Rio Gallegos was hijacked by a group of nationalists and forced to change course to the Falkland Islands. There was some speculation that the piracy was in connection with the current visit of Prince Philip, husband of Britain's Queen Elizabeth, in Argentina.

Defunct Bank's Director Sues Accountant Firm

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An auto dealer who was a director of the now defunct San Francisco National Bank replied yesterday to a $40 million suit filed by the government by charging that the suit should have been directed against the banker's auditors.

Cecil A. Whitebone filed a third-party complaint against accounting firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co., asking that the company be assessed the "damages suffered by the bank by reason of their conduct."

He also asked $100,000 punitive damages for himself, and reimbursement for any damages won against him by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

The FDIC had sued Whitebone and other bank directors for $40 million. The FDIC charged the directors were liable, because they had "a moral responsibility to see that the bank was administered in an honest manner."

Peace Corps Leader Flays U.S. 'Momism'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Peace Corps director Jack Hood Vaughn has taken a page from author Philip Wylie's "A Generation of Vipers"—and added one of his own.

And, he hinted, there's too much popism also.

APRON STRING

Mothers "have nothing to lose but their apron strings" in letting their offspring make up their own minds about joining the corps, Vaughn declared.

Peace Corps dropouts explain that "their fathers advised them privately, and in no uncertain terms, that mother will be worried," Vaughn said.

Mothers' fears for their daughters are unfounded, he said, adding:

"Our gals tell us they feel safer on their sites overseas than they do on the streets of many American cities.

FIND RELIEF

"Women volunteers seem to find relief from the social pressure of viewing every escort as a potential husband...young ladies seem to discover what they really are and not what they ought to be like."

Just as unnecessary, Vaughn said, are fathers' worries that their sons will delay their careers. Businesses increasingly seek returned Peace Corpsmen, he said.

Vaughn said he chose California as the place to start his latest recruitment drive because it has taken the lead in training volunteers and has already supplied 3,800 of the 11,000 Peace Corpsmen serving since the organization was founded five years ago.

San Felipe Plan Clears Hurdles

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A planned $89.8 million project to carry water into four Northern California counties has cleared its initial hurdle at the federal level.

Gov. Brown's office was informed yesterday by Interior Secretary Stewart Udall that the Bureau of the Budget has approved the San Felipe Project and sent it to Congress, where it will be considered in the next session.

The project would transport water from the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta to Santa Clara, San Benito, Santa Cruz and Monterey counties. It would provide enough water to irrigate 107,000 acres.

Firemen Quell Rash Of Fires In Bay Region

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Several brush fires fanned by gusty winds, blazed in Northern California yesterday. All but one were reported under control.

A 30-acre blaze in the Lovel Canyon area near Glen Ellen in Somona County was reported burning out of control by the State Division of Forestry.

The other fires, which broke out earlier in the day, were in or near the San Francisco Bay area.

CORE To Meet

Nominations for new officers will be made tonight at a meeting of Marin Congress of Racial Equality at 8 p.m. at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church, Marin City. The employment committee will report on its progress in registering men at Marin County unions.

GOP Spokesmen Not Optimistic Over Manila Parley Prospects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans discount the political impact of President Johnson's pre-election trip to the Manila summit conference of leaders of nations battling Communist forces in Viet Nam.

They believe the meeting offers little hope of Viet Nam peace initiatives.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen gave this GOP viewpoint in an interview: "You're not going to stop the war there at this point."

Dirksen, who has supported the President's course in Southeast Asia, indicated he suspects the seven-nation Manila meeting in mid-October might wind up with a promise for the extension of the "Great Society" to all of Asia.

"That is where we Republicans will come in," he said. "We will want to know how it is proposed to finance an extension of the Great Society benefits to the whole world."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said in a prepared Senate speech that while the meeting is desirable as a show of unity over Viet Nam policy, "it would be unfortunate if the Manila conference, like the Honolulu conference, promised much and accomplished little."

"The gap between the reforms pledged at Honolulu and the reforms carried out by the Saigon government still remains embarrassingly large," he said. "Therefore, I urge the President to clarify his objectives and to make sure they are attainable, and not to raise expectations that cannot be fulfilled."

He said the Communists' rejection of recent U.S. peace overtures may result in "mounting pressures for escalation of force in Viet Nam."

Dirksen told a news conference that unless there is some "awful blunder" at Manila, he does not believe the President's visit to Asia will affect the Nov. 8 congressional election results.

SP Fare Request For Sleeper Denied

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The California Public Utilities Commission yesterday denied a Southern Pacific Railroad request for a sleeper fare hike on the Lark, a streamliner running between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The increase would have resulted in a further decline of sleeping car passengers riding that train, the commission said yesterday.

Nuclear Plants Not Quake Prone

LOS ANGELES (AP) — You needn't worry about a nuclear power plant spilling out radioactivity because of an earthquake, two scientists say.

Dr. Craig B. Smith and Dr. Ralph B. Matthiesen shook a nuclear reactor at the University of California at Los Angeles for three days with rotating vibrators. Their conclusion, announced yesterday: two worries about nuclear plants and earthquakes are ill-founded.

A jolt will not cause the reactor to pour out excessive power because before a dangerous radiation level could be approached automatic mechanisms would shut the reactor down, the scientists said.

Also, they said, it's unnecessary to worry about quake-caused cracks in the earth spilling parts from the reactor. Fuel itself won't spill, and buildings as strong as nuclear power plants are not knocked down by quakes, they declared.

Slayer In Texas Sentenced To Die

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) —Jerry Michael Ward, 22, was sentenced yesterday to die in the electric chair after a jury that heard precedent-setting testimony convicted him of murdering a high school girl.

The death penalty, returned by a Criminal District Court jury, means an automatic appeal.

Vatican Envoy Denies Viet Peace Chore

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A special papal mission arrived in Saigon today but its leader denied reports from the Vatican that it was seeking to advance Pope Paul's search for peace in Viet Nam.

Archbishop Sergio Pignedoli, the apostolic delegate to Canada and head of the mission, expressed surprise at the large number of newsmen who met him at Saigon airport.

Vatican sources said yesterday that the mission would gather information to help the Pope's peace campaign and try to ease the tension between the Buddhist majority and the Catholic minority in Viet Nam as well as study other problems of the church in Viet Nam.

Archbishop Pignedoli told newsmen: "This is merely one of a series of meetings being held in capitals around the world so that bishops can be personally informed of the findings of the Vatican Council."

Blazes—Robin Singed

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Burt Ward, who plays Batman's daredevil partner Robin, ran into real life trouble yesterday when a movie set explosion went awry and he was burned. After treatment, he went back to work, but his cape was singed by the fire.

Fire Destroys Trees; School Threatened

at 11:50 a.m., 20 minutes after the State Division of Forestry announced a critical fire hazard and banned all open burning from the Golden Gate to the Oregon border. The ban is still in effect.

The blaze, cause of which is yet undetermined, started on or near the property of John Riordan of San Francisco, just off Shoreline Highway. Terrie Jasmine, tenant of a house there, saw it start:

"I was standing on my porch when the ground just exploded around that tree out there. The whole blasted thing just went PHOOM! By the time I got to my car, the blaze was all around the house."

As the fire raced over the dry land, it burned 3,250 four to eight-foot pine and fire trees at the Bolinas Bay Christmas Tree Ranch. Pushed by gusts up to 35 miles per hour, it came to within a half mile of the Audubon Canyon Ranch to the northwest.

Harold Frick, proprietor of the Christmas tree ranch, said he was not insured against the blaze, which consumed about half of his trees.

The fire was stopped by county firemen just over the ridge from the canyon, which is the nesting place of egrets. "If it had got in there it would have caused serious damage," said Chief Louis J. Bloom of the county fire department.

NEAR SCHOOL

To the south, the fire came within a quarter mile of the Stinson Beach School. Principal Keith Oveson ordered the school evacuated. First through fourth grade children were sent home shortly after noon.

Chief Bloom was unaware the school was evacuated. He said he did not order the children sent home because winds were blowing away from the school until late afternoon, after school was out.

The fire came to within a foot of a house and a cottage on the Riordan property, near where it started. Jack Myers, who lives in the house, fought the blaze with a garden hose until the fire knocked down a power line, cutting off electricity to his water pump.

AT TANK

Myers said the fire burned all around but did not ignite a 100-gallon tank filled with kerosene behind the house. The flames got into trees near two more homes south of the Riordan property, but the danger was eased when a low-flying bomber dumped fire retardants on the area.

Chief Bloom said it took three hours to contain the fire, which began between Morse's and McKinnan Gulches. Firefighters came from the county fire department and volunteer departments at Bolinas, Stinson Beach and Olema.

The county force had plenty of water at all times during the fire, Bloom said, but the Stinson volunteers were forced to use one of their trucks for carrying water from the town to the fire.

HUMIDITY READING

Humidity when the fire broke out was registered at 21 per cent at the Woodacre fire station, Bloom said. It dropped to 17 per cent during the fire. The day started with almost 100 per cent humidity, the chief said.

At one point during the blaze, Deputy Sheriff William Wallace, driving up the steep terrain, spun the wheels of his patrol car and the friction started a separate blaze under the auto, Chief Bloom said.

RIOTING

ley and decided to carry on with his campaigning schedule in San Diego. Brown said Shelley reported the situation seemed to be in hand after daybreak.

During the rioting 11 persons were treated at Mission Emergency Hospital but none was described as seriously injured.

Most of the violence was on Third Street, between Newhall and Oakdale streets, a lower middle class area of two-story buildings, most of them with stores on the ground floor and residences above.

Police closed off a 12-square block area at Hunters Point, which is in the southeastern part of San Francisco and became a Negro neighborhood during World War II near shipyards. It also is near Candlestick Park, the home of the San Francisco Giants.

Triggering the riot was the shooting of Matthew Johnson, 16, a Negro who was killed by Patrolman Alvin Johnson after the youth and a companion fled on foot from a stolen car. The policeman said he shouted repeatedly for the youth to stop and fired three warning shots before the fatal shot hit the youth in the back.

Percy Pinkney, a Negro who is assistant director of Youth for Service, an organization for juveniles, estimated that between 600 and 700 persons were involved in the Hunters Point trouble, most of them between 13 and 30 years old. Pinkney said almost all lived in the neighborhood.

Very few, he said, were not members of the Hunters Point community.

Wild and exaggerated rumors spread all through the area. Austin Scott, an Associated Press reporter, heard one man tell another, "We overturned 60 police cars." The reporter also heard another may say, "They shot 13 kids down."

Police called in off-duty officers and told them to shoot to kill if threatened. They were instructed to arrest any person who disobeyed the curfew after one warning.

Mayor Shelley suspended the policeman who fired the fatal shot pending an investigation. He said it was established the car was stolen and told newsmen, "We will not have one law for blacks and one law for whites."

A guard at the Super Save Market, 4517 Third Street called for police help after he said a group of 25 demanded to enter the grocery where a window had been smashed.

As a troop of patrolmen arrirved and tried to disperse the group, one Negro woman shouted: "You can't do this . . . we get pushed around everywhere." Eventually the crowd melted before the urging of the helmeted and shotgun carrying police.

A truck owned by Television Station KTVU, Oakland, was overturned and burned.

Lance Brisson, 23, a cameraman for Television Station KGO-TV, San Francisco, was kicked in the groin and knocked down. He said that while Mayor Shelley was trying to talk, "all of a sudden a man from the group hit me in the groin and smashed me in the face." A KGO-TV reporter pulled him to his feet.

crest of a hill, and I guess he was about 210 or 225 feet away, and I fired one shot in his direction.

"He kept going over the hilltop, and I figured I'd missed him, so I kept running, and then when I got over the hill, I saw the boy lying there, with blood coming out of his mouth.

"A lady came by, and she said she was a nurse and I said 'Do everything you can for this boy,' and then I called an ambulance, but he was dead when it got there."

Asked why he had given chase and fired, Johnson said, "To me, they were stealing a car.

"I did what I had to do—but I'm certainly sorry it happened."

The boy's father, Matthew Sr. cried:

A policeman tried to calm him.

"I don't want to see you! I want to see my boy!"

no greater than would be encountered in a majority of the structures in the San Rafael area," he said.

Jordan said he will make recommendations on the problems at the next board of education meeting.

Board members called for the study of all buildings constructed before the 1933 Field Act after an attorney's general opinion that school board members may be liable for damages and injuries to students if they fail to ensure that school buildings meet standards of the act.

Engle is slated to submit a report on the older portion of San Rafael High School also.

Marin Man's Fillmore Store Looted

A San Rafael man who has owned a television and appliance store for 20 years in San Francisco's Fillmore district was one of the victims of rioting last night in that district.

Saul Kahn, of 50 Mooring Road, owner of Saul's Radio and TV at 1193 McAllister Street, said today that looters stole every television set in his store in addition to a few radios and appliances. He estimated his loss at between $7,000 and $8,000. Many other stores in the area also suffered losses.

Kahn said he first got word of the break-in from San Francisco police after watching an 11 p.m. television newscast of rioting in the Hunters Point area.

He immediately drove to his store and found that vandals had broken five front windows plus three locks on gates covering the windows.

According to a spokesman at San Francisco's Northern Police Station, waves of young toughs were roaming the neighborhood, kicking in windows and stealing late last night and early this morning.

Kahn said police had difficulty in holding the mobs at bay, but finally broke up the roaming gangs around 2 a.m.

guerrillas to fight the Communists.

There was no immediate word on the cause of the error.

Unofficial sources estimate that a total of 146 South Vietnamese civilians have been killed and 233 wounded in similar bombing and strafing incidents in July and August.

The last village to be bombed by mistake was also in Quang Ngai Province. Military sources said then that Marine planes relying on faulty radar killed three civilians and wounded 30 on Aug. 16.

In other air activity, B52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese targets in the demilitarized zone today for the 12th time since they started bombing the buffer area July 30.

The big bombers from Guam struck at infiltration routes, a bivouac area and storage facilities in the zone separating North and South Viet Nam.

American planes struck up and down North Viet Nam Tuesday with 137 bombing missions. U.S. pilots sighted two Communist MIG17s, but a U.S. spokesman said they did not engage the enemy planes.

Pilots claimed the day's raids resulted in destruction or damage to 32 cargo barges.

Coleman Given Permanent 'Seat'

Daniel P. Coleman, consulting engineer to the City of San Rafael and onetime acting city planner on numerous projects, was given a permanent planning commission seat last night by the commission.

Commission Chairman Fred C. Robbins Jr. noted Coleman's many appearances before the commission and presented him with the uncomfortable chair with wrought iron scroll work from the old city hall "on which he sat so long and so often."

Said Coleman, "You mean I can really have this to keep?" He was unanimously assured he could.

Planners Suggest Memorial To Castro

The memory of the late Walter R. Castro, San Rafael civic leader and county supervisor who died in 1963, was given two-fold recognition by the San Rafael Planning commission last night.

The commission voted unanimously to rename West Railroad Avenue between Bellam and Francisco boulevards "Castro Avenue." His first name was given to what is now Castro Lane between Tamalpais and Lincoln avenues and Fourth Street and Fifth Avenue, which will become "Walter Lane" if the city council approves.

Man To Be Arraigned For Police Schuffle

Daniel John Farshman, 29, was to plead in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon to a charge of assaulting a San Rafael policeman.

Farshman, a Pacifica resident, was arraigned before Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. yesterday and his case referred to the public defender's office. He was accused of assaulting Patrolman J. D. Loane during a fracas on a Greyhound bus in the San Rafael bus depot at Third Street and Tamalpais Avenue.

Soviet Space Spectacular Might Spur U.S. Program

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — A Soviet space spectacular now would be the best possible spur to the U. S. space program, which has no defined aim after the Apollo moon landings are achieved.

Such a Russian space feat might make possible a budget of $6 billion a year for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, instead of the $5 billion currently anticipated. The U. S. public does not want the Soviet Union to do "everything in space," Congressman Joseph E. Karth, D-Minn., said here.

He outlined his views on what the United States should undertake as space activities during the next four years to an Aviation Space Writers Assn. meeting here. Congressman Karth called for a major emphasis on manned mission near earth, leaving establishment of lunar bases and manned exploration of neighboring planets for the late 1970s.

As chairman of the Space Sciences Subcommittee of the House Science and Astronautics Committee, Congressman Karth has an important voice in establishing the goals of future U. S. space programs. NASA has called for a national debate on post-Apollo space aims.

Turning to unmanned vehicles, Congressman Karth said that meteorological, navigation, communications and geodetic satellites have already brought "substantial economic, scientific, national security and prestige payoffs." He called for somewhat higher budget expenditures for exploiting further the payoffs possible from such orbiting satellites.

Congressman Karth said that he was not opposed to future manned space flight programs, but was in favor of a good balance between manned and unmanned flights. He believes the space program is now sufficiently "grown up" so that there is no need to race quickly toward manned missions to the planets as the next space goal.

Certain technical problems, such as how long exposure to zero gravity affects man and how serious is the calcium loss when experienced for many months, must be solved before man can make the lengthy voyages to Venus or Mars, Congressman Karth noted.

Nuisances Due Study

Two ordinances aimed at controlling nuisances were given to the Novato City Council last night for study. Councilmen said they would schedule a public hearing.

One ordinance is aimed specifically at dumping garbage trash. It covers rubbish dumps on private property and materials falling from trucks on city streets.

The second ordinance forbids allowing property to become unsightly, dangerous or in a condition of deterioration which is detrimental to the neighborhood. It also lists methods for the city to abate such nuisances.

Missing Girl, 13, Found In City

Teresa Louise Honnen, 13-year-old Loma Verde girl missing from her home since Sept. 16, is unharmed and has been living in San Francisco, sheriff's officers said today .

She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis R. Honnen of 777 Sun Lane.

Teresa Louise and two girl friends attended a San Francisco dance. The companions returned but she did not.

Plea Delayed For Son Of Tarzan, Friend

John Weismuller, son of the famed movie Tarzan, and Margaret Geri, were arraigned on a battery charge yesterday in Marin Municipal Court. Plea entry was continued until 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Weismuller, 26, of San Francisco, and Miss Geri, 33, of Gate Six Road, Marinship, allegedly assaulted Sausalito Police Officer Michael Kielman following a fracas at Bridgeway and Princess Street in Sausalito Saturday. Weismuller also is charged with destroying property of Thomas Driskill of 301 Reed Boulevard, Strawberry, by kicking in a car window.

LILLIAN SMITH

ATLANTA (UPI) — Lillian Smith, author of "Strange Fruit" —which stirred a storm of controversy 20 years ago because of its mixed racial theme —died today at Emory Hospital in Atlanta.

Miss Smith also was the author of such other well-known works as "Killers of the Dream," "The Journey" and "Now is the Time."

"Strange Fruit," published in 1945, had its setting in south Georgia. It was the story of a Negro girl who became pregnant by a white boy.

The theme in itself was controversial and the book further raised literary eyebrows since it incorporated a then rarely-used four letter word. It sold more than 3 million copies.

In recent years Miss Smith has spoken out for Negroes in their civil rights struggle and has given active support to civil rights causes. But in recent months she deplored the application of "black power" and condemned the term.

Miss Smith lived in Clayton, Ga., where she will be buried on a hill overlooking her home.

CHARLES LONG

Funeral for Charles Haskell Long of Petaluma, father of William A. Long of San Rafael, was scheduled this afternoon in Sparks, Nev.

He was a native of Marietta, Okla., where the body will be buried.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ruth Long of Petaluma; two sons, William A. of San Rafael and Ernest C. of Petaluma; two daughters, Mrs. Bobbinell Brown of Grass Valley, Nevada County, and Mrs. Charlena Pemberton of Oak Harbor, Wash.; two brothers, Frank Long of Texas and Jim Long of Los Angeles; four sisters, Mrs. Bernice Adcock and Mrs. Claudia Davis of Oklahoma, Mrs. Lois Ellis, and Mrs. Sue Cruse, and 16 grandchildren.

ANDRE BRETON

PARIS (AP) — Andre Berton, the poet and essayist credited with founding surrealism in literature and art, died Tuesday night. He was 70.

Breton, an associate of the principal liberal and leftist theoreticians in the early 1920s, published his "Manifesto of Surrealism" in 1924.

During World War II he took refuge in the United States. He published the magazine "V" in New York and organized a surrealist exposition there in 1942.

RED TAG DAYS

SAN RAFAEL CHIEF GETS RED-TAGGED

San Rafael Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa is surprised to receive a tag from Mrs. G. Briggs Burd of San Rafael, instead of giving out a ticket. In this case the tag is the Red Tag, symbol of San Rafael Red Tag Days, special sales event, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The event is sponsored by merchants in cooperation with the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce. The full line-up of values is listed in the Red Tag Days special section of today's Independent-Journal.

Fair Budget Is Approved

Marin County supervisors yesterday approved a Marin County Fair budget of $122,245 for 1967, which includes a salary raise for Secretary-Manager Marcelle McCoy.

The budget was recommended by the Marin Art and Garden Fair committee, headed by James S. Goodale.

The budget represents an $18,000 increase over this year, $10,000 of which is for fill for the fairgrounds site at the Civic Center and the rest for increased rentals and salaries. The secretary-manager's salary goes up from $717 to $783 per month.

Goodale reported that $65,000 of the buget comes from state pari-mutuel funds, and the balance from gate receipts at the fair in Ross. No county tax funds are involved in tht fair budget.

The budget will be submitted to the State Division of Fairs and Expositions for review and approval.

Tools used on race tracks to check soil conditions include the hydrothermograph, for soil humidity, and the penetrometer, for soil density.

Chamber Will Survive, Alvarado Declares

San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, $5,000 in the red as a result of the Autumn Festival, will survive, even if it has to become a one-man operation, chamber manager John J. Alvarado declared today.

Alvarado said that he had received several phone calls today from merchants "who are deeply concerned" and willing to pay double assessments necessary to pay off the $8,500 in bills for festival expenses.

No money has yet been received, however, said Alvarado. He estimated that the chamber could hold out until Oct. 15 before letting go its two other paid staff members, bookkeeper Marie Leonardi and secretary Susan Dupuis.

In the meantime, Alvarado said, all promotional activities, including the chamber's plans for Red Tag Days, have been cancelled. This week's Red Tag Days will be strictly a newspaper promotion paid for by individual merchants, he said.

Alvarado blamed a "deficit spending" approach to promotions for the chamber's predicament. He said, "We have put ourselves on the hook for celebrations and promotions at the request of merchants who tell us what they want. We've done these things without collecting the money ahead."

He said he was optimistic that the chamber's 340 members would rescue the organizations. The chamber will not go to the city government for more money, Alvarado said.

Three Lot-Splits Pass Planners

The Larkspur Planning Commission last night approved three lot-split requests.

The applications were from Ray Zierolf for a lot at 41 Wilshire Avenues, American Automobile Assn. for a lot at 565 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, and North Greenbrae Co. for a lot in the Via La Paz Subdivision.

The commission approved plans for an entrance structure at 7 Magnolia Avenue, in the Lark Meadows Development.

Second Deck To Be Studied At Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Assembly Transportation and Commerce Committee will meet in San Francisco Oct. 20 to consider proposals for a second traffic deck on the Golden Gate Bridge, Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco, said yesterday.

Foran, a committee member, said a second bridge deck might lead to serious trouble if the problem of how the additional traffic is going to reach downtown San Francisco is not solved first.

Foran said reports by the State Division of Bay Toll Crossings and of the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission are due in the near future and should be considered before a decision is reached to go ahead on the second deck.

"The solution we should seek is the one that would bring together and coordinate all bridges and transportation facilities in the Bay Area," Foran said.

Rarely does the summer temperature go over 90 degrees in the Bermudas.

Board To Name Directors Of Opportunity Council

Twelve directors will be appointed next Tuesday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors to serve on the county's Economic Opportunity Council (War on Poverty program).

The council, established last week by the supervisors, will be composed of 30 directors—12 to be named by the supervisors, nine by the Marin City target area, and nine from other areas of the county.

Supervisors yesterday approved the county administrator's recommendation that the 12 county appointees be selected from the following areas: board of supervisors, education, social services department, a private social agency, public health, public housing, legal, labor, business-chamber of commerce, churches, and two from miority groups.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

1. Approved a request by the Marin Symphony Orchestra to perform at the opening of the new Veterans Memorial Auditorium at the Civic Center several years hence. The Symphony Guild of Marin will commission a new composition for the occasion.

2. Approved a resolution endorsing State Proposition 1, which would permit public agencies to invest a portion of their retirement funds in common stocks.

3. Commended the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District for establishing four northbound lanes on the San Francisco approach during afternoon commute hours.

4. Received word from county traffic enginer James Robertson that the State Division of Highways will soon remove 100 feet of concrete railing that separates bridge traffic that merges from the marina and from Lombard Street. Supervisor Peter H. Behr reported the concrete rail cuts visibility and constitutes a hazard.

5. Adopted a resolution urging the 1967 Legislature to give top priority to property tax reform, adding that Marin will later send more specific recommendations for reform.

6. Approved financial participation (not to exceed $2,000) in a week-long dedication program at Sonoma State College next Mary or June.

7. Approved a $500 contribution to the Redwood Empire Assn. to help finance a redwood tree display at the Los Angeles County Fair.

8. Continued until Oct. 18 a hearing on a proposed community antenna television ordinance, and asked the county administrative staff to confer with industry representatives in the meantime.

First Major LSD Arrest Reported

SANTA ANA (AP)—Police say they have made the first major arrests in Southern California involving the sale of the psychedelic drug LSD.

Officers reported yesterday they arrested Roger Erickson and his wife Mahala, 22, on Saturday. The 26-year-old furniture mover and his wife are accused of selling $13,000 worth of the drug to an undercover agent, police said.

The Ericksons were charged with violations of the Food, Drug and Cosmetics Act.

Detectives said they seized four ounces of the drug.

Supervisors Favor Alto Zone Plan

Marin County supervisors yesterday looked favorably on commercial zoning for a lot at 39 Reed Boulevard, Alto, which the county planning commission had recommended for apartment zoning, but postponed decision.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eichorn own the lot, across the street from the Mill Valley Volkswagen Agency. Eichorn asked rezoning from administrative-professional to commercial. He said he intends to use the building for light commercial such as a reducing salon or perhaps a radio parts shop.

Attorney Albert Bianchi, representing the Eichorns, pointed out that the lot was zoned commercial until 1962.

Planning Director Paul Zucker said the planners are interested in "integrated development" of the area, including the lots to the north and south of Eichorn's property.

Leland H. Jordan, representing owners of the lot to the south, said his client's property "has been historically zoned commercial."

On a motion by Supervisor Peter H. Behr, the supervisors continued the matter for 45 days "with the understanding that the board will be receptive to commercial development."

Committee Set For Observance Of U.N. Week

Richard M. Sims Jr. of Tiburon, justice of the District Court of Appeals, will head a Marin County committee to help celebrate United Nations Week Oct. 23-30.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday appointed the following members to the Marin United Nations Committee to work with the United Nations Assn. of Marin to plan a suitable celebration:

Justice Sims, chairman; Dr. Arnold B. Come, William Lews, Rev. Antoninus Wall, Dr. Robert Mills, Jack Craemer, Warren McGuire, Irwin P. Diamond, Mrs. Russell G. Smith, Merrill D. Grohman, Mrs. Jules Becker, John D. La Noue, Elias A. Day, Rabbi Morton Hoffman, Virgil S. Hollis, Rex T. Silvernale, John F. McInnis, Vera L. Schultz, Sister M. Patrick and George Barnwell.

Youth Shot In Leg While Cleaning Gun

A 17-year-old Mill Valley youth was treated last night at Marin General Hospital for a gunshot wound in his left calf.

Mark J. Ziegler, of 434 Throckmorton Avenue, told police he was polishing a .22-caliber rifle at home when it accidentally discharged.

Ab is the fifth month of the ecclesiastical year of the Jews and corresponds to the period of July 15 to August 15.

PUBLIC AUCTION — These two representatives of San Francisco Auxiliary Corp. and San Francisco Federal Savings and Loan Assn. declined to identify themselves and attempted to prevent photographs, at a trustee's sale of foreclosed property on the courthouse steps this morning.

Quiet, Public Auction May End Home Ownership Saga

had been published in advance for weeks. At the given hour, "9:00 o clock a.m. of said day," there were only two people present for the sale, a representative of San Francisco Auxiliary Corp., and a representative of the beneficiaries, San Francisco Federal Savings and Loan Assn.

The man said, rapidly: "On behalf of the trustees I offer the real property described for sale. Do I hear any bids?"

The second man, equally rapidly, said he bid on behalf of the beneficiary, San Francisco Federal Savings and Loan Assn., the sum of $17,530.

"There being no further higher bids, I declare the property sold," said the trustee's representative.

And so another piece of foreclosed property reverted, as it usually does, to the holder of the mortgage.

Both men refused to identify themselves to a newspaper reporter and photographer.

What are the steps in foreclosure?

When the buyer becomes delinquent in his payments (three months is the limit) the lender notifies the trustee, usually a title company, that the loan is in default. The trustee records a notice of default at the county recorder's office and mailings are made to the borrower and other interested parties.

There's a 90-day waiting period during which the loan may be redeemed. This is the time the borrower usually tries to refinance his loan, a feat that is rather difficult currently.

If the loan is not redeemed within the 90 days it must be paid in full prior to the time of sale by the borrower.

Then the trustee publishes, at least once a week in a newspaper of general circulation for 30 days, a notice of trustee's sale. The same notice is mailed to all interested parties, posted on the property to be sold, and in a public place, usually the courthouse.

The sale is held, at the place and time designated, by an officer of the trustee. A regular auction sale, it's usually held at the title company, or on the courthouse steps.

The sale isn't merely a legal formality. It's a public auction sale, and anyone may bid. But accompanying the bid must be a cashier's check, or cash, for the full amount of the loan outstanding, plus charges.

The lender always makes the first bid, which will be the amount he's owed, plus charges, to protect himself. Sometimes members of the public bid higher — and usually get the property.

A trustee's deed is issued after the sale, by the truste, to whoever purchases the property.

The lender, who usually gets the property back, normally has some repair work to put it in saleable condition . . . then it's turned over to a real estate agent, for re-sale on the open market.

MARIN FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

11:50 a.m., Stinson Beach — Fire, cause unknown, burned 100 acres of grass and brush and did $17,650 damage to this year's harvest at Bolinas Bay Christmas Tree Ranch, another $1,000 to a water tank, fences and utility poles.

12:40 p.m., Sausalito—Boat fire at Trident restaurant dock, started when alcohol spilled onto stove of boat and ignited; damage minor to a 30-foot cabin cruiser owned by Sgt. Jack Rugg, Alameda Yacht Harbor.

1:26 p.m., San Rafael—Fire, cause unknown, in seat of car with no registration at Terra Linda High School parking lot; out on arrival.

2:05 p.m., San Rafael—Fire, cause unknown, burned 100 by 150 foot patch of grass just outside city limits on Francisco Boulevard.

3:28 p.m., Sonoma-Marin border—Fire, cause unknown, burned 75 acres of grassland on Simon Azeveda and Moore Bros. ranches.

3:55 p.m., Corte Madera—Car fire at 19 Echo Avenue, caused an estimated $25 damage to car of Theresia Morgenlaender of that address.

4:15 p.m., San Rafael—Fire, cause unknown, burned small patch of grass opposite 16 Junipero Serra, just outside San Rafael city limits.

4:34 p.m., Novato—Hot ashes thrown on rubbish pile at home of Donald A. Fiske, 778 Saint Francis Drive, ignited the rubbish; no damage.

9:25 p.m., Greenbrae—Sailboat with one aboard burned and sank on Corte Madera Creek near Highway 101 overpass; owner unknown.

Victim Still 'Poor'

Creighton Scott Wyatt, 20, of 107 Cloudview Road, Sausalito, remained in poor condition today in Marin General Hospital with head injuries and multiple fractures of his left leg suffered in a traffic accident last Friday night on Shoreline Highway.

Colorado ranks high as a health resort.

PORK ORIENTAL

You will need:
1 tablespoon shortening
1 pound lean pork, loin or shoulder
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon brown sugar
2 medium onions, sliced
1 can (13½ ounces) pineapple tidbits
1 green pepper, cut into strips
1 envelope curry sauce mix
½ cup cold water

Heat shortening in skillet. Cut pork into ½ inch slices; cut slices into 2½ inch strips. Brown lightly in hot shortening—about 5 minutes. Sprinkle pork with salt. Add Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, sugar, and onion slices. Drain syrup from can of pineapple into a measuring cup. Add water to make 1¾ cups. Pour over pork. Stir ingredients in pan, bring to boil. Cover; reduce heat; cook gently 20 minutes. Add green pepper. Continue to cook 2 or 3 minutes. Meanwhile combine contents of envelope of Curry sauce mix with cold water. Push meat to one side of pan, add curry mixture and pineapple, stirring constantly. Mix all together. Bring to boiling point. Serve hot over fluffy cooked rice. Makes 4 servings.

Called A 'Pipe Dream,' Subdivision Map Wins

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night gave unanimous approval to what one commission called "a pipe dream."

Approved over objection by the San Rafael Sanitation District and the city engineer was the tentative subdivision map submitted by Peacock Gap, Inc., for Peacock Gap Unit 5.

In a letter signed by Mayor C. Paul Bettini as a member of the sanitation district board, the commission was advised that the district board "unanimously recommended against approval of the map." Reasons given were lack of water facilities, insufficient sewer connections, and inadequacy of the sewer treatment plan to handle the proposed 172 lots.

Consulting engineer Daniel P. Coleman, representing developer Jerome C. Draper Jr., acknowledged those lacks but argued that if the map were "approved subject to connections being provided, it would help him (Draper) arrange financing." Said Coleman, "Without approval, it might be tougher to get the money."

Norris N. Rawles, sanitation district administrator, told the commission, "You're being asked to bail Draper out." He urged that sewage and water facilities be available before approval of the map.

City Engineer Ely Caillouette Jr. said the history of the development was such that three was no assurance that, if approval were given, the developer could go ahead with the subdivision.

Commissioner Thomas O'Toole said assurances that water supply and sewage disposal would be installed "could be a pipe dream," but raised no objection to conditional approval of the tentative map.

The board then voted unanimously, Commissioner Daniel L. O'Connell absent, to approve the map subject to these requirements.

The San Rafael City Planning Commission also:

1. Approved zoning a parcel at 390 Las Gallinas Avenue, now unclassified, as general commercial with parking requirements, as requested by Atlantic Richfield Co.

2. Postponed until Oct. 11, approval of a zoning ordinance amendment to permit fill-and-cover rubbish dumps, to permit review by city attorney.

3. Approved addition of two units to existing duplexes at 40 Warner Court, requested by Louis Calderoni, but postponed until Oct. 11 approval of a waiver of policy prohibiting back-out of automobiles onto the street.

4. Approved a one-year extension of tentative map for development of four lots on the Las Ovejas Avenue extension in Terra Linda Unit 25, requested by Calvin B. Wheeler.

5. Approved one-year extension of tentative map for Marin Center Unit 1 on Redwood Highway between Terra Linda interchange and Professional Center Parkway, requested by Bell, Braverman and Gonzalez.

6. Approved a use permit for Merritt W. Pollock for a coin-operated car wash at 59 West Railroad Avenue.

7. Gave architectural approval of a Pacific Telephone and Telegraph communications equipment building at 2143 Francisco Boulevard.

8. Gave architectural approval, subject to landscaping requirements, of remodeling of United Market at 515 Third Street.

9. Approved Lincoln Development Co.'s request for "reversion to acreage" of 40 acres at the end of Canal Street to permit development without adhrence to previously approved lot lines.

10. Granted Ed Halperin a permit for removal of 40,000 cubic yards of earth at 45 Professional Center Parkway for site preparation for a previously approved convalescent hospital.

County Fireman Enforcing Ban Faced With Gun

A Forest Knolls man was jailed today after reportedly waving a gun at a county fireman who asked him to douse an illegal incinerator fire.

The fireman, Robert Taverna of the Woodacre station of Marin County Fire Department, went to the home of Milton Leo Doster, 32, at 10 Sanchez Avenue, Forest Knolls, about 9:40 a.m. to investigate a reported fire.

Yesterday, all outdoor burning, including incinerators, was banned in Marin and north to the Oregon line because of the critical fire hazzard.

Taverna said when he asked Doster to extinguish the fire, Doster instead fetched a gun and warned him to leave.

Taverna called sheriff's officers and made a citizen's arrest.

Tiburon Officials Present Peninsula City Proposals

By STEPHEN COOK

The 1966 model of the City of Tiburon went on sale in the upper Tiburon peninsula last night.

Its principal selling points, as advertised before a gathering of the Bel Aire Homeowners Assn., Eagle Rock Property Owners Assn., Bay View Heights Assn., and the Bay Vista Assn., were:

Lower taxes, if Marin County supervisors form a police services district with a 40-cent tax for residents of unincorporated areas.

CHIEF POINTS

These were the chief points made by a delegation from the Tiburon city government to homeowner groups whose areas comprise the bulk of the area aimed for in a city annexation proposal.

City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose told the property owners that Tiburon has "achieved an adequate level in public services," a level which could be passed on to residents of the upper peninsula at half the cost now being borne by the residents of Tiburon.

With the city's present $15 million tax base, he said, Tiburon residents pay a 60-cent city tax. The annexation, including the Strawberry Town and Country Shopping Center, would raise the tax base to $28 million and would allow a 30-cent tax rate for "the greater City of Tiburon," he said.

Rose made a statistical sales pitch, based on the present $10.89 tax rate in the Strawberry area. If the county adds the proposed 40-cent tax for police services, he said, the rate will climb to $11.29. By joining Tiburon, the area could avoid that tax and face an increase of 30 cents, to $11.19.

FURTHER SAVINGS

If the area not only joined Tiburon, but also consolidated its lighting and flood control districts with the city, he said, the tax rate could drop to $10.895. If it also consolidated its recreation district with the city, he said, the rate would be $10.375.

A woman in the audience pointed out that tax rates in most areas on the upper peninsula are about $1 less than Strawberry's. Rose apologized, saying there had only been time so far to work up statistics on one area.

Rose, Mayor John S. Hoffmire and City Councilmen Branwell D. Fanning and William R. Bremer all stressed that, by joining Tiburon, the home owners would be getting home rule.

Fanning said that before Tiburon incorporated, "I got awfully tired of going up to the Civic Center and presenting our cases to total strangers, none of whom lived here."

PROBLEMS TOO SMALL

Rose said many of the peninsula's problems seem to be too small for a government the size of the county's:

"Your problems are local problems, are real problems, are little problems. You need a front yard type of government to handle these problems."

Hoffmire pitched for his prestige product, saying: "We hope you would feel that having a city with the name Tiburon means an increase in prestige. There have been a lot of national articles about our nice little city on the bay. We feel that by joining us, you would increase your property values."

Referring to Mill Valley's bid to annex the shopping center area, Councilman Bremer said: "This is not a power grab. We hoped to leave time for the natural cohesive powers of the peninsula to work naturally for this merger. Our sudden action was precipitated by other agencies who anticipated this natural cohesion."

REPRESENTATION?

One man in the audience asked: "Since we would make up 40 per cent of the city's population, how soon could we have a representative on the council?"

Hoffmire answered that there would not be a council election until April, 1968, but that there are seats on the planning and park and recreation commissions which could go to the area right away. Fanning added that if a councilman resigned, "we sure would lean toward appointing a replacement from the presently unincorporated area."

A woman noted: "Tiburon started two years ago with a 19-cent tax rate and now has a 60-cent rate. This is a 300 per cent increase. How long will it increase in this progression?"

No longer, according to Rose: "We have now achieved a plane of adequate service. If we had come to you with just a 19-cent rate, we would have just been offering assumptions."

Slip By Newspaper Makes Another Story

"Dr. Gabor Doros, a leading Budapest physician, says there's serious danger in the present situation. He says 30,000 to 40,000 young Hungarian childless wives each year have abortions."

Three Persons Die In Accident

SALINAS (UPI) —A head-on crash at a detour on Highway 68 south of here last night claimed three lives and injured five persons, three of them critically.

Dead were Army Sgt. Ralph F. Johnson, Fort Ord, his daughter, Teresa, 3, and Charles W. McCoy, 82, Bloomington.

The Highway Patrol said Mrs. Joan Johnson, 26, wife of the sergeant, was driving. Also in the car was Richard A. Makuch, 22, an enlisted man from Fort Ord. Both Mrs. Johnson and Makuch were at Salinas Valley Memorial Hospital in critical condition.

Driver of the other car was William E. McCoy, 44, Salinas, who also was injured seriously. His father was one of the victims.

HAULED AWAY--Portland, Ore., officer carts away an anti-Viet Nam demonstrator, one of about 150 who blocked the motorcade route along which Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey arrived to boost Democratic candidates' campaigns in Oregon. Earlier, Humphrey had toured San Diego with Gov. Edmund G. Brown, to help the Californian's cause in a Republican stronghold that voted against Johnson during the last election. (AP Wirephoto)

Brown, Reagan Woo Votes In South As Backers Spar

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAN DIEGO — Democratic Gov. Brown, cheered by the campaigning help of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, battles Republican Ronald Reagan for votes today in a stronghold of California's GOP.

For the second straight day, Brown, trying for a third term, tours San Diego County. The county ejected him in 1962 and President Johnson in 1964.

Brown's schedule could be abruptly interrupted should violence break out again in racially-troubled San Francisco.

Reagan's activities were confined to Los Angeles.

Earlier, Reagan said as governor he would increase welfare aid to those who really need it while trimming the able-bodied from relief rolls with the help of private industry.

His most detailed proposal on welfare came last night at a $50-a-plate dinner in Hayward that raised about $20,000 for his gubernatorial campaign and ended a one-day tour that also took him through Sacramento and San Leandro.

To a strong round of applause, the GOP candidate said that if elected Nov. 8 "there would be no welfare for the able-bodies unless they agreed either to work at state jobs or accept job training that would fit them to take their places as productive members of society."

The Hearst Castle swimming pool entered the campaign scene when U.S. Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., implied that state funds had been used to fill it with water for the benefit of Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

"I would be extremely interested in knowing the cost of the recent gubernatorial extravaganza in San Simeon," said Murphy in a statement released in his Los Angeles office.

"Were state employees involved? Is it true that water was trucked in to fill the swimming pool for the water ballet? And if so, whose trucks were used and what was the cost?" asked Murphy.

His questions were contained in a blistering attack on Democrats for their sharp criticism of State Republican Chairman Gaylord Parkinson.

Parkinson has been the target for numerous barbs from leading Democrats—and from some GOP leaders, as well — since it was revealed he accepted some $33,000 from a special fund in a San Diego bank account maintained in part by backers of Ronald Reagan, Republican candidate for governor.

Parkinson also drew support from two Northern California lawmakers, Assemblymen William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, and John G. Veneman, R-Modesto, called it "the height of hypocrisy" from Brown to assail Parkinson's methods, "while all the governor's lackeys campaign for his re-election while on the public payroll."

Communist Says U.S. Freedom Policy A Lie

By CAROL MARSH

"The whole mythology of the cold war, the need for the United States to defend freedom all over the world, is a lie. The United States has been aggressor in every instance."

College of Marin students heard this opinion yesterday from Bettina Aptheker, a member of the National Committee of the American Communist Party, lecturing in the associated student-sponsored "controversy '66" series.

HISTORY STUDENT

Miss Aptheker, 22, a senior in American history at University of California, Berkeley, spoke in place of Albert J. (Mickey) Lima, Northern California chairman of the party, who said he was ill. Lima attended the lecture but did not take part. About 150 students attended.

Miss Aptheker spoke on the "role of the American university in American society today," largely about the Berkeley free speech movement; but in the two-hour question and answer period that followed her lecture, the students ignored the topic and asked questions about the Communist Party and Communist activities around the world.

Asked about Communist takeovers in Poland, Hungary, Czecholovakia and elsewhere, she said these countries "were liberated by the Red Army," and that the liberation coincided with "popular, indigenous, socialist revolutions."

As for the Hungarian revolution in 1956, she said this was a counter-revolution against the Socialist revolution.

Asked why the Berlin Wall was built, she said that it was built because of provocation from the West, including firing of weapons into East Berlin and spying, and because the West German mark, worth less than the East German mark, was causing an East German inflation. (The West German mark has for some years has been more than double the East German mark in international exchange).

Asked about Communist goals in the United States, she said the party hopes to organize an "anti-monopoly coalition" of all people in the United States who are "opposed to big business—Negroes, minorities, peace forces, farm labor," to achieve political power to bring about a "revolutionary transformation in the United States society."

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

She said the party wants public ownership of the means of production a "social motivation aimed at meeting the needs of the people instead of making a profit."

Asked her opinion of the end result of American foreign policy, she answered: "Nuclear war."

Lima, asked by a reporter after the meeting about Communist Party membership in Marin, said a Marin county chapter exists, but declined to say how many members it has or who heads it. He said the national party has about 10,000 members, and there are about 500 members in northern California.

San Anselmo Traffic Plan Is Approved

The San Anselmo City Council by 4-1 vote last night approved a traffic plan for San Anselmo Avenue, despite five protests from the audience.

Councilman Duane C. Regan voted against the plan, saying he did not think it would work and that the hub traffic problem should be solved first.

The plan, centered on the intersections of Bolinas, Ross and Tunstead avenues with San Anselmo Avenue, will be put into effect when Sir Francis Drake Boulevard is widened. All three intersections will have traffic signals set with signals on Sir Francis Drake.

Neither left nor right turns off San Anselmo Avenue onto Drake Boulevard will be permitted at the Ross Avenue intersection, and left turns from Bolinas onto San Anselmo Avenue will not be permitted during peak traffic hours.

The only right turn southbound onto Sir Francis Drake in the section will be from Pine Street, but traffic on San Anselmo Avenue will remain two-way, where the engineers plan had called for one-way traffic.

Businessman Mozart Kaufmann, with two stores on San Anselmo Avenue, called it "a horrible, terrible plan."

"I think we should abandon the whole thing. This plan sacrifices the downtown area to move people along Sir Francis Drake at a higher rate of speed, and I don't think we can afford it," he said.

James H. Kell, of traffic research corp., San Francisco, who presented the plan, said the flow of traffic would definitely be improved on Drake Boulevard, but not necessarily on San Anselmo Avenue. He estimated cost of the plan at $250,000 to $300,000.

Four others added their protests to Kaufmann's, but Councilman Woodrow W. Cappuro moved to approve the plan subject to approval by the Ross City Council, saying:

"Business downtown is bad. It needs some kind of lift and maybe this is it."

Prison Inmate Still At Large

The San Quentin convict who walked away from the minimum security ranch outside prison walls Sunday night, was still at large today.

Manuel Francisco Gomez, 33, who lived in Colma and San Francisco before being sentenced to prison four years ago, was due to come up for parole consideration in October. He apprently made his escape by climbing over a four-foot fence on the perimeter on the prison grounds.

Magic Circle In Ross To Open Next Month

The Magic Circle, directed by Marion Hayes Cain, will begin its fourth year of activity at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross next month.

The group is for speech improvement, body movement and coordination, improvisation and interpretation by children from four to 14 years. Registration is being taken this week at the center, the director announced.

Hospital Raises Rates For Special Unit Care

Directors of Marin General Hospital District last night approved raising rates in Marin General Hospital's intensive care and heart units, effective Nov. 1.

Paients in the intensive care unit will pay $80 per day for a private room and around-the-clock care, up from a $57 rate set two years ago when the unit was established.

Heart unit patients in non-monitored, semi-private rooms will continue to pay $43 per day, but cardiac intensive care patients will be billed $75 per day.

Directors passed the intensive care raise 4-1, with Irving D. Chapman dissenting. The vote on the heart unit charges was unanimous.

The board unanimously approved a letter by Hospital Administrator Ray K. Bolinger to Michael Mitchell, county auditor, concerning expenses incurred by the building program of the Community Health Center.

The letter gives hospital district approval of transfer to the county of whatever funds are required up to $150,000 on a memorandum request from the county rather than following the exact terms of the contract which requires payment by the county and subsequent billing to the district.

Directors received a letter of resignation from Dr. T. Scott Strathairn, chief of staff at the hospital, effective Dec. 1. Strathairn's term as head of staff was scheduled to end in June but he agreed to stay on until Bolinger became situated in his position as administrator.

The Marin Hospital District Board also:

1. Approved a transfer agreement between the hospital and the extended care facility so that continuity of care and timely transfer of patients and records is insured.

2. Heard Bolinger report that the district may be able to go to bid on the Community Mental Health Center in mid-November. Bolinger said that an amendment of plans and apecifications for the building should bring it in line with potential bids. The plan amendments would include elimination of an assembly recreation area covering 1,350 square feet, making the two-level medical library a one floor area of 1,500 equare feet and eliminating the physical therapy area of 600 square feet.

3. Read into the record a letter from the estate og Mrs. Ethel Van Zant, bequesting the hospital district $5,000.

4. Heard from the architectural review committee that the radiology department has asked for improvements. Particulars of the request were not given.

5. Heard from the architectural review committee that rearranging of the hospital's first floor is being considered.

U.S. Says G.E. Fixes Bulb Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — The Justice Department has filed a federal court antitrust suit accusing the General Electric Co. of fixing the prices of light bulbs.

The government contended in its action that the company maintained bulb prices at "artificially high levels" through agency agreements with its wholesalers and retailers.

Responding to yesterday's suit, the company commented that it was "convinced' that this business practice is not only legal but that it has served the public well."

Hearing Slated On Trailer Park

Hearing on rezoning six acres at 1524 Hill Avenue, Novato, from agricultural to mobile home use was set Tuesday night by the Novato Planning Commission for Oct. 10.

Paul Pickart seeks the rezoning and a permit for a 26-unit mobile home park on the property.

The Novato Planning Commission approved plans for a new Shell Oil Co. service station at Highway 101 and Olive Avenue, landscaping plans for Schuman Chevrolet's new building west of Highway 101 at Lamont Avenue, and a plant nursery addition at Roger Wilco Market on Entrada Drive.

The commission will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow to study the city's sign ordinance. Several sign applications were postponed last night.

Ride the Wide-Track winning streak!

From the same drawing board that gave you Grand Prix, GTO and Overhead Cam Six now come the newest Pontiacs since the invention of Wide-Track!

You're looking at the most beautiful Pontiacs ever to ride on Wide-Track. The incomparable GTO returns with a 335-hp 400 cubic inch engine under a magnificently refined new skin. Or you can order the 255-hp version or the fabulous new 360-hp Quadra-Power 400. And for the first time, you can order your GTO with our famous three-speed Turbo Hydra-Matic.

The Le Mans and Tempests come back better than ever. Bright new interiors. Bold new colors.

A 165-hp Overhead Cam Six is standard. Or you can specify a 215-hp version, a 250-hp regular gas V-8 or its 285-hp premium gas cousin. Or step into the neatest grand touring car this side of the Atlantic with our OHC 6 Sprint package.

Our big Pontiacs are new from the famous split grille to the slickest innovation of the year—disappearing windshield wipers! They're less subject to freezing. And only Pontiac has them.

Also new: a Grand Prix convertible!

There are new 400 and 428 cubic inch V-8s. New safety features such as front seat belt retractors, a four-way traffic hazard flasher, folding front seat back latches and General Motors' new energy absorbing steering column.

Council Approves Purchase Of Lot

The San Anselmo City Council last night approved lease-purchase of a parking lot, estimated to cost $60,000, at Pine Street and San Anselmo Avenue.

The purchase was proposed by William A. Trewhella, president of the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce, who said downtown businessmen would donate at least $2,500 toward development of the lot.

City Administrator Douglas J. Flautt supported the proposal. He said the lot would provide about 37 parking spaces. The lot is owned by Ottiwell W. Jones Jr., Charles B. Jones and Emily Merriman. Trewhella said this year's county appraisal set the fair market value at about $55,000.

The council, by 4-to-1 vote, told Flautt to get the property appraised and procede with negotiations for purchase.

Councilman Robert M. Scott dissenting objecting the expenditure was not part of any plan, was less important than other expenditures, and because the money spent on the lot could be used to get matching federal funds for another project.

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

1. Heard from C. F. Greene of the State Division of Highways on proposed routes for Highway 17, and set tentative dates of Oct. 4 for display of maps and charts of the proposals at one of the schools, and Oct. 13 for a public hearing with the State Division of Highways.

2. Approved annexation of two lots in the Short Ranch subdivision at Salinas and Santa Barbara Avenues, owned by Samuel Alini and Phillip McArdle.

3. Asked City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell to advise property owners on Camino De Herrera on a solution to drainage problems there.

4. Called for bids Oct. 11 on improvements to part of parking lot A, estimated to cost $14,000, with the city to be reimbursed for $5,000 of the work which will be done on Mozart Kaufmann's property. Lighting will cost another $1,500.

5. Asked City Attorney John G. Buresh to prepare an ordinance repealing the high density apartment section of the city zoning ordinance.

7. Approved an amendment to the city sign ordinance allowing 24-by-24 inch "for sale" signs in residential districts, and allowing free-standing, on-premise signs with council approval.

'Bard And Harper' Scheduled For Friday

"The Bard and the Harper," poetry readings by James Broughton and harp accompaniment by Joel Andres, will be presented at Olney Hall at College of Marin Friday at 8 p.m.

The program, part of the college's 1966-67 concert - lecture series, will range from a Handel Concerto for Solo Harp to a musical lampoon of Zen Buddhism.

NEW COMMAND — Colonel Elmer P. Curtis, whose wife, Mary, lives at 1033 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo, has assumed command of the 24th Artillery Group at Coventry, R.I. He was previously assigned to headquarters of the Army Materiel Command in Washington, D. C.

Fall Spirit Week Set For Novato

Next week will be fall spirit week" at Novato High School.

On Monday, the sophomore class will sponsor a tricycle race at 3 p.m. Junior and senior classes, then freshmen and sophomores, will be pitted in tugs of war after school, with the two winning teams then vying for the school championship.

The seniors will "auction off" the varsity football players on Wednesday, and Thursday will be "senior slave day."

Climax to "fall spirit week" wil be a student body dance at 8:30 p.m. Friday, called the "beat Drake sock hop."

Planners Ask Parkway On Shoreline Highway

State plans to improve Shoreline Highway from Richardson Bay Bridge to West Marin should exclude a freeway, Mill Valley planning commissioners said last night.

Voting unanimously to oppose any freeway there, commissioners said the improved road should be an extensively landscaped parkway, fit the existing topography, and be designed for a maximum speed of 45 miles an hour.

Commissioners favored a route through Tennessee Valley, rather than Tamalpais Valley, but will review both on Oct. 11. The state has studied both, but has announced no decision.

In a review of future city expansion, the commission agreed to an all-day field trip to inspect all unincorporated areas within the Richardson Bay drainage basin. The city council and City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer will be invited to join the trip. The date was not set.

Commissioners approved a variance to permit submittal of plans for the first two lots in the Cochran-Hernandez-Burden development on Edgewood Avenue on condition that 5.5 acres of the 11.25-acre parcel be dedicated as open space and that Edgewood Avenue be improved to county standards in front of the two lots. A total of 22 building sites are in the developmen.

Mill Valley Planning Commission also:

1. Changed its meeting night from the second and fourth Tuesdays to the second and fourth Mondays of each month, effective Oct. 24.

2. Set a field trip to review access to the North Ridge for Oct. 8, to begin at 9 a.m. at city hall.

3. Approved plans for a new one-story commercial building to house a restaurant and offices at 150 Lomita Drive.

4. Approved plans to remodel Old Mill Tavern, 106 Throckmorton Avenue.

5. Deferred to Oct. 11 Manuel Gomez's 6.4-acre residential development north of Marin and Avon Avenues.

6. Deferred to Oct. 11 a proposal to reduce architectural advisory committee membership from seven to five.

Frances B. Wilson, teacher in the county school department's children's center, was raised from half time at $286 to full time at $536.

Ben Franklin could write when he was only 7.

Tamalpais Club Asks State To Improve Dolan's Corner

Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club is asking the state division of highways for improvement of Dolan's Corner, including widening of Shoreline Highway and placing of another stop sign.

A letter signed by secretary Jacqualine Carlson has been sent to Alan S. Hart, district engineer for the division of highways.

The club makes three suggestions for Dolan's Corner, where the highway joins Almonte Boulevard:

(1.) Install two clearly marked lanes at the junction, showing one lane to San Francisco and one to Mill Valley. (2.) Put a stop arterial on Shoreline Highway facing south at Dan's Grocery to stop northbound traffic. (3.)Consider widening of Shoreline Highway through the business section to provide more uniform parking.

Backlash Termed Threat To Demos

NEW YORK (AP) — Louis Harris, who heads a national public opinion polling organization, says a white backlash of resentment against the civil rights movement could "tear the Democratic party apart" in the North in the November elections.

He said it could "cost the Democrats and cost them heavily. In fact, it could have an effect on 20 out of the 45 freshmen Congress seats—the white backlash issue could be the decisive issue Nov. 8."

Harris made the statements in an interview last night on the CBS reports television program "Black Power - White Backlash."

Unity Financing Study Is Urged

The San Rafael Board of Education pushed last night for formation of a citizen finance advisory group, which would study among other fiscal matters, the financial implications of unification of San Rafael City Schools and the Dixie School District.

(San Rafael - Dixie unification failed of passage in the June primary election.)

"I think we should activate this committee as soon as possible," said Board Member Herman L. Childress.

Acting Supt. William C. Jordan said the move to form a committee started earlier this year, and the district has a list of about 100 persons interested in serving.

Board members said that anyone who would like to be appointed to the committee should notify Jordan. The list will be screened and a 30-member committee appointed, according to board's original plan.

The action was preceded by a request to have the San Rafael staff assist Dixie District's citizen finance study group in its study of the financial implications of unification.

Irwin Taranto of 144 Duran Drive, San Rafael, said, "It would be the start of direct communication between the districts."

Board Member Anita C. Strom suggested that first the San Rafael City Schools form a citizens finance committee, and then have a branch of that committee cooperate with the Dixie committee.

Board members bypassed a proposal to develop surplus property at Third and E streets into a public parking lot and rent the 17 parking spaces at $6 a month.

Business Mgr. Charles L. Condrotte recommended development of a parking lot since the district failed to receive bids for the purchase of the property. Board members suggested that some other plan, possibly a lease deal, be investigated. Condrotte said to install a parking lot would cost $1,490.

The board approved having several teachers teach subjects in which they have neither a major nor a minor in college, but questioned the reason for such personnel shifts.

Jordan said the teachers are qualified in the fields to which they have been assigned.

The San Rafael Board Of Education Also:

1. Authorized sale of $650,000 in elementary school district bonds.

2. Called for bids to be opened Oct. 20 at 10 a.m. on the following items for San Rafael High School: 535 auditorium seats, estimated to cost $22,000, lockers, $3,500, and miscellaneous cabinets and teachers closets, $14,000.

3. Withheld payment of $9,600 to Marshall and Bowles for architectural services on the proposed Peacock Gap School, pending a study to determine what percentage of the plans could be used if the proposed site is not used.

4. Agreed to provide half the cost of moving the scoreboard at San Rafael High School behind the goal posts if the Sideliners, a booster group, contributes the other half. It was estimated that the move would cost $935.

5. Received a letter from Percy Howell, chairman of the church and society committee, St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church, Marin City, requesting a fair employment clause in all district construction contracts.

6. Agreed to a joint meeting with the County Schools Office to provide audio visual services at $1.75 per student and mobile hearing testing services at 35 cents per student.

8. Hired the following teachers, Mrs. Nazarena DeFrancesco, Spanish, high school district, part-time, $2,402 a year; Janet Dillon, science, elementary district, $6,410; Mrs. Barsha Elzey, home economics, high school district, $8,030; Mrs. Bonnie Gardner, educationally handicapped, high school district, $9,245; Mrs. Nancy Kohlenstein, elementary district, $8,840; Mrs. Kate Orsini, mathematics, high school district, part-time, $3,212; Mrs. Gail Davis, English-geography, elementary district, $5,764; Mathilde Killian, mathematics, part-time, high school district, and Sidney Wade, mathematics, high school district, $10,055.

9. Also hired Mrs. Alforetta Bain, secretary, San Pedro School, $3,581 a year; Harvey Blackwood, groundsman, high school district, $4,800; Mrs. Phyllis Byrne, teacher aide, foods, Terra Linda High School, part-time, $987; Mrs. Albina Collingwood, guidance clerk, Terra Linda High School, part-time, $2,136; Leo Dishon, custodian, high school district, $4,800; Mrs. Janine Enyard, but driver, part-time, $1,938; Mrs. Betty Griffith, bus driver, part-time, $1,824; Harold Hall, custodian, high school district, $4,800; Mrs. Frances Harrington, bus driver, part-time, $1,938; Mrs. Susanne Hellwig, teacher aide, clothing, Terra Linda High School, part-time, $934; Mrs. Vera Hunt, library clerk, elementary district, part-time, $2,385; Mrs. Helen Land, secretary, Hartzell School, $3,816; Mrs. Kathryn Morehouse, aide, foreign language, Terra Linda High School, part-time, $987; Mrs. Joy Oliva, vocational education and adult clerk, high school district, part-time, $1,606; Mrs. Maize Peterman, psychologist's clerk, high school district, part-time, $1,352; Robert Ruffin, bus driver, part-time, $1,938; Mrs. Nancy Spencer, teacher aide, clothing, Terra Linda High School, part-time, $987; Robert Welch, bus driver, part-time, $1,824; Mrs. Genevieve Wood, secretary to assitant superintendent for secondary education, $4,970; Mrs. Barbara Dobreff, personnel clerk, administration, part-time, $1,780.

10. Appointed Charles Maurice, in art, and William Rinaldi, in business education, as department heads at San Rafael High School, Robert Muster as chairman of boy's physical education at San Rafael High School, and Mrs. Eleanor Combs as teacher - in - charge at Sun Valley School.

11. Accepted the resignations of Robert T. Hufford, science teacher at Davidson Junior High School, and Mrs. Pearly Starling, bus driver, both effective last June 30, and granted Mrs. Connie Tamley, nurse, leave for the 1966-67 school years for reasons of health.

12. Accepted as complete the new Bahia Vista School, the Davidson School gymnasium, and the Santa Venetia library and gymnasium.

13. Accepted as gifts from Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Fullmer to the San Rafael High School library, a two-record set on the late President John F. Kennedy and an "Encyclopedia of Music" by the Columbia Home Music Library.

14. Set Oct. 12 at 8 p.m. for dedication of Bahia Vista School.

15. Scheduled its next regular meeting for Oct. 18 instead of Oct. 11.

16. Met in closed session to discuss candidates for the job of superintendent.

Library, Charter Joint Meeting Set

Members of the San Rafael Library Board are scheduled to attend a meeting of the city's charter revision committee to discuss charter provisions governing the library at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at city hall.

The committee also has a long agenda, including items on bond limitations, exclusive franchises, the fire commission and emergency and reserve funds, reported Chairman Roy M. Michael.

City Charter Provisions Supported

Two members of the San Rafael Board of Education clashed last night when one stoutly defended the system of having the San Rafael City Council fill vacancies on the school board.

Board Member Anita C. Strom said she felt a city council is for more representative of a community than is a school board.

"I feel school boards tend to reflect what I call the educational establishment," she said.

Board Member Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. challenged her contention, noting that the high school district covers a larger area than the city.

Mrs. Strom replied that turnouts for city elections are larger than those for school board elections. (The San Rafael Board of Education is elected at the city election; the turnout has always been larger within the city than in the rest of the district.)

There is pressure on school boards from the "educational establishment" whereas the council would be devoid of this pressure and could be more objective in its appointments, Mrs. Strom said.

The appointment issue arose when the board was asked to make recommendations to the San Rafael Charter Revision Committee on charter provisions concerning the education department. Among recommendations being considered by the committee is one to eliminate the charter provisions that the city council fills vacancies on the school board, and that the board fills council vacancies when the council cannot agree.

The board made no recommendations. Mrs. Strom said she would recommend, as an individual, that the council retain its power to appoint school board members. (Mrs. Strom is an appointed member of the board.

Peacock Gap Stalemate Brings Building Review

Faced with a stalemate in its efforts to negotiate purchase of a 25-acre school site in Peacock Gap, the San Rafael Board of Education decided last night to review the district's building program.

Business Mgr. Charles L. Condrotte reported that Latipac Corp., owner of the site near the old McNear's barn, as asking $363,000 while appraisers for the district set the value at $208,000.

"Obviously this difference is considerable and beyond the capacity of the district to finance," he said. "Further negotiations will be undertaken."

Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino, who is negotiating for the district, said, "It appears we have reached a complete stalemate."

Condrotte reported that due to restrictions on further sewer connections, there has been no new building at Peacock Gap during the year.

Also, he noted, enrollment at Glenwood School this month is 50 pupils lower than it was in September, 1965. The school has a capacity for 500 pupils and has 404 enrolled, he said.

There is $875,092 available for future projects, and the Peacock Gay school project would cost $1 million, if the site cost $300,000, Condrotte said. Also the district might have to provide a road and utilities including water mains, estimated to cost $200,000.

Condrotte said expansion of Davidson Junior High School, which has more than 800 students "is an urgent requirement," and Short School "is in dire need of replacement and enlargement."

He recommended that the board take a fresh look at the needs of the district and perhaps revise the building program "due to changes in the expected growth patterns."

The board authorized Godino to seek a trial date for its condemnation proceedings on the Peacock Gap site early next year. In the meantime, board members said they will review the building program.

Charge Of Burglary Will Not Be Filed

No charge will be filed against Joan Williams, 39, in an alleged burglary and possession of a worthless check, Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

He said the decision was based on insufficient evidence. Miss Williams, of San Francisco, had been charged with burglary of Skylark Motel, 5613 Redwood Highway, Novato, last July 1, and possession of the check the same day.

Judge Denies Dismissal Of Photo Charge

SANTA ANA (AP)—A Superior Court judge has denied a request to dismiss charges against a newspaper photographer accused of taking photographs while court was in session.

The photographer, Clay Miller, 35, is charged with contempt of court under rule 980 of the California Judicial Council, which prohibits taking photographs in a court of record.

Miller's attorney said as the trial began yesterday that the rule is unenforceable and violates constitutional guarantees under the first and 14th amendments.

The lawyer argued that the court in which Miller is accused of taking photographs was not legally convened. The court was convened in August in the County Registrar's Office to recount election ballots.

Judge Samuel Dreizen denied the motion for dismissal.

New Anti-War Group Replace Viet Nam Day

BERKELEY (UPI) — The autumn demonstration season finds a new set of initials on the rally placards and picket notices around the University of California campus.

The new group is the UCAW —United Committee Against the War—successor to last year's Viet Nam Day Committee and a distant relative of the Free Speech Movement.

The first UCAW rally at the Sproul Hall steps is scheduled tomorrow. The organization has already tested its picketing power by turning out 200 demonstrators last week in San Francisco when Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson went to the opera.

Highlight of the season, according to UCAW plans, will be "International Days" Nov. 5-8 preceding the California election. Leaders say plans are not yet formulated in detail but the days will be marked by coordinated demonstrations throughout the nation.

"We have all types of activities planned," Peter Camejo, 26, a leader of the new organization, told UPI.

Besides attempting to embarrass President Johnson's wife, the group last week held a campus rally at San Francisco State College and is helping a band of demonstrators conduct an antiwar vigil at the Port Chicago Naval Ammunition Base.

The UCAW, as a new campus organization, has installed its card table in the plaza. It displays an assortment of propaganda for the several organizations which have combined under its banner.

The old Viet Nam Day Committee was kicked off the campus at the end of the spring term for violating rules and defaulting on bills owed for use of university facilities.

Lights Out At College

Lights went out in some classrooms and offices at College of Marin yesterday at 8:30 p.m., the second Tuesday in a row this has happened.

Administrative Assistant Herbert A. Blanchett said college officials are investigating the possibility that the blackout which affects isolated buildings, may be connected with the use of flood lights on the football field.

Affected last night were Harlan Hall and the Science Building, both in use at the time. Power was restored in about one hour.

Rafferty Calls U.C. Campus Sanctuary For Odd Birds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Dr. Max Rafferty has called the Berkeley campus of the University of California a "sanctuary for odd birds" which looks "more like a skid row than a great university."

The superintendent of public instruction blasted the Berkeley campus yesterday in a speech to staff members of his Department of Education.

"On one corner of the campus you could see well-endowed topless burlesque queen going through her paces," he said, "I don't know what she is supposed to be doing unless it is an advertisement for freshmen Anatomy 1A."

Elsewhere, he said a campus visitor finds "dirty magazines and books," a booth for students to give blood to the Communist Viet Cong, and a signup booth for the "Saturday night LSD orgy."

Rafferty said such behavior involved about 1,000 of the university's 28,000 students.

"Who pays tuition for their four-year course in sex, drugs and treason?" he asked. "You do and I do. It is nice we are rich enough to subsidize this."

Two Minutes To Make Year's Bottle Supply

NEW YORK (UPI) — A modern glass blowing machine takes less than two minutes to form all the glass bottles and jars the average American uses in a year. Per capita use of bottles and jars is about 375 a year, according to the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, and some machines today make 250 or more bottles a minute.

At the turn of the century, when most bottles were still hand fashioned, a master blower and assistants produced only about 240 containers a day.

Despite Modern Ways Sewage Still Dumped

CHICAGO (UPI) — Many cities and towns across the nation still dump their sewage raw into the most convenient waterways, reports the Commerce Clearing House.

While there are more than 11,000 communities presently served by sewer systems, more than 1,300 of these still splash their untreated sewage into local rivers, streams, lakes and ponds.

Husbands Should Not Open The Car Door

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you love that man of yours, don't let him be so gallant at the car door.

Unless the car is in a driveway or on an excemptionally quiet street, a man should go ahead and enter the car first from the curbside, letting the woman enter next, closing the door herself.

IN WHEEL COMPARTMENT

Mexican Boy Steals Jetliner Ride Home

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A 17-year-old Mexican stowaway was home safe in Queretaro today after a 2,000-mile flight from Colombia in the wheel compartment of a jet airliner.

"I was really scared part of the time," said Francisco Cuevas Garcia, "but I made it, and that's what I wanted to do — get home as quickly as possible."

Francisco said he got homesick after six months in Colombia but didn't have the money to take a plane back to Mexico. It would have taken too long to work his way home on a freighter — the way he went to Colombia.

"It's incredible, but he apparently did ride in the wheel well all the way from Bogota," said Ramon Watkins, the Mexico City manager for Colombia's Avianca Airline.

The four-engine jet flew as high as 34,000 feet through air temperatures as low as 45 degrees below zero, Watkins said.

The lad was cramped into the wheel well so tightly that after the plane landed in Mexico City early yesterday he could not get down. He had to call for help to mechanics servicing the plane.

Doctors looked him over, found nothing wrong and turned him over to Mexican immigration authorities. They established his Mexican citizenship.

"He's free now and left for Queretaro as soon as we let him go," an immigration official said last night.

Watkins said the plane's flight time from Bogota to Mexico City was more than four hours. The plane spent about an hour on the ground in Panama, its only stop.

FRANCISCO GARCIA
Fitted by wheel

Francisco said he sneaked into the wheel well about 30 minutes before the plane took off from Bogota Monday night. He squeezed to one side of the compartment and hoped the wheels would not crush him when they were retracted.

"The plane took off and the wheels started coming up and I thought I was going to be crushed," he said. "The wheels came in and I squeezed to one side as far as I could and saw they wouldn't mash me. Then the doors closed in the floor and everything was dark."

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Courts Take Over If Child Habitual

When the parents lose control and a child violates the law, the courts must take over. In most cases, the child is brought before the Juvenile Court.

THIS COURT has power over neglected or delinquent minors as well as over adults who contribute to their delinquency. This court is not set up to punish minors, but to help and protect them when needed, as in a guardianship. Where the minor must be restrained, it is mainly for his own protection and benefit.

Sections 600-02 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, give the Juvenile Court jurisdiction over anyone under 21 who needs parental control, who is destitute, whose home is unfit, who is a vagrant, who habitually refuses to obey his parents, who is habitually truant from school, or who "is in danger of leading an idle, dissolute, lewd or immoral life."

JUVENILE COURT cases must be heard promptly and privately. The probation officer's report cannot be made public. Unlike most adult criminal cases, the minor has no right to a trial by jury, since the court does not aim to punish him, but to bring about his reform.

Prior to 1955, a minor had the right to have his own attorney only when he faced criminal charges. In 1955, however, the courts held that no person can be deprived of his right to be represented by an attorney in any court proceding, if he has an attorney who wishes to represent him.

Parents, too, may also be heard and represented by counsel in Juvenile Court, since they may wish to defend their rights to custody.

IF THE CHARGES against the minor are proved, the judge has several choices of action. He may turn the minor over to the state youth authority, if it appears that he is likely to be benefited by the discipline. Or the judge may turn him over to the county detention home. Sometimes, if the person is over eighteen, he may be sent to the county jail or some other county institution.

Often a child will be boarded out or placed in a foster family licensed to receive children under sixteen. If there is some question about the child's mental condition, the judge may send him to the Department of Mental Hygiene for observation and recommendation.

AWARD WINNING DESIGN

Capt. Theodore F. Parnow (left) of the California Highway Patrol in Marin is sharing a $150 state merit award with a fellow officer for the design of this trailer for picking up disabled motorcycles. He designed the trailer with CHP Capt. Walter Pudinski of San Bernardino four years ago, when Pudinski was a sergeant under Parnow and lived in Santa Venetia. Parnow said the device saves the Marin patrol force 500 man hours a year. Demonstrating, on the cycle, is Officer Gordon Maxwell.

Auditorium Study For Ad Hoc Group

Who shall have control of the proposed county fairground and auditorium at the Marin Civic Center proved a puzzling question for county supervisors yesterday.

Before the board was a proposal by County Administrator Alan Bruce that a non-profit corporation be established to run the fairgrounds and annual fair.

DRAWS FIRE

This drew the fire of Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen, who wanted assurance that other civic and cultural organizations which plan to locate on the fairgrounds would not "lose their autonomy and be submerged" by such a corporation.

He singled out the Marin Museum Assn., Boyd Natural Science Museum, the activities center sponsored by the Marin Senior Coordinating Council and the veterans memorial auditorium.

At suggestion of Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, the board voted unanimously to create an ad hoc citizen committee to study the purposes to be served by the fairground and its management, and then make recommendations to the supervisors.

Disagreement among the supervisors as to who should serve on the ad hoc committee and its size, however, led to postponement until next week.

SEES THREAT

Kettenhofen saw their "sovereignty being threatened."

Supervisor Peter H. Behr said that if an organization such as the Marin Museum Assn. raised a lot of money for an art museum, it "wouldn't want a lot of people who don't know anything about art or museums mucking around with it."

Supervisor William A. Gnoss wanted representatives of the Marin County Farm Bureau and 4-H Clubs on the ad hoc committee, as well as on any ultimate governing board of the fairground.

Gnoss also said he thought there should be one board to run the fair and another to run the auditorium, since the latter would be responsible for many activities throughout the year that had nothing to do with a fair.

UNREAL FEARS

Leydecker's assertion that these were unreal fears drew support from Administrator Bruce and Mrs. John F. McCarthy of San Rafael.

Bruce told the supervisors that the only state limitations on organizations using the fairground and state fair money would be that their "facilities must be available for fair purposes during the fair period."

The art museum, he said, might be asked to provide admission-free exhibits during a fair, as might the natural science museum. If a theme were set for the fair, organizations at the fairground might be required to relate their activities or exhibits to that theme.

"Other than that restriction," said Bruce, "complete autonomy would be reserved for them."

FROM THE STATE

Mrs. McCarthy told the supervisors that much of the funds for the $2 million auditorium as well as funds for the $360,000 activities center were coming from the state, "because they are pleased up there (in Sacramento) with our idea of a year-round cultural center." She urged the board to adopt no restriction that would result in "throwing out the state money."

Leydecker said that all interested civic and cultural groups should give their views to Bruce before next week's meeting.

Suffers Cut Knees

Wallis Frances Lees, 18, of 142 Woodside Drive, San Anselmo, was treated at Marin General Hospital Monday night for cut knees suffered when her auto struck a parked car at 24 Poplar Avenue, Ross, at 10 p.m., the California Highway Patrol reported.

A survey of about 40 colleges and universities indicates there are three bicycles for every four students.

Conservation Awards Due Saturday

Presentation of achievement awards in 11 conservation categories will be made Saturday evening at the Marin Rod and Gun Club in San Rafael, under sponsorship of the California Wildlife Federation.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown will be on hand to accept the bald eagle statue for his selection as conservationist of the year.

A no-host cocktail hour starts the evening off at 7 o'clock followed by dinner at 8.

Among the seven state conservation leaders and three conservation organizations set to receive awards is Dr. Virgil S. Hollis, superintendent of Marin County schools. Hollis has been named as winner of the conservation educator award.

Legion Recruits Viet Nam Veteran

Mill Valley Post 284 of the American Legion admitted its first veteran of the war in Viet Nam Monday night.

Stanley F. McGinnis, 20, returned last month after two years aboard the destroyer escort Buck off the coast of Viet Nam.

A 1963 graduate of Tamalpais High School, he is a freshman at College of Marin and was appointed this month as student representative to the board of trustees.

Driver Fined $166

Eva Jean Weeks, 53, of 44 Jade Court, Novato, was fined $166 and placed on a year's probation yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving. She was arrested on Highway 101 by Novato police July 17.

HELP YOURSELF to Three-Bean Salad—darling of the buffet table around the calendar; delight of the hostess, since this dish is made-yesterday; perfect partner for meats, fish, poultry, hot or cold. The red, white, and green of Idaho's colorful red and large white Great Northern beans and the green beans—all of which may be found in cans on your grocer's shelves—make this a real eye-catcher and conversation-piece. This can well be a "Specialty of the House." No one need know how easy it is to make this favorite salad.

Out Of Idaho's Bean Bag Come Three Nourishing Salad Dishes

The pleasures of serving Bean Salads are unlimited, for they are such good eating, so adaptable to occasions, so accommodating as to time, and so economical. And, as a bonus, there's nourishing goodness in every mouthful!

In their making, you can use most any kind of beans from the packaged dried beans, home-cooked, to the canned beans which you will find in such abundance on grocers' shelves. Idaho's famous beans, both dried and canned, come in a wide range of flavors and colors, both important in the Bean Salad making.

There are the large white Great Northerns, the dappled-beige Pintos, colorful Reds and Kidney Beans; the more delicate Pink Beans, and now in promising production the Black and the Brown Beans with their striking beauty and unusual flavors. As color and flavor accents, the frozen small green Lima Beans and the unusual Blue Lake variety of green beans may be added to combinations such as the well-liked Three-Bean Salad.

Actually, you hardly need a recipe. Your imagination and what is in the refrigerator or on your storage shelves plus little odds and ends will make the dish. However, here are some of our favorite Bean Salads.

THREE-BEAN SALAD

2 cups large white Great Northern beans, home-cooked or canned
2 cups Red or Kidney beans, home-cooked or canned
2 cups canned Blue Lake green beans
Italian or French (tomato-free) dressing

Drain beans and place in separate bowls. Carefully stir in a savory tomato-free garlic-flavored French or Italian dressing. Cover the bowls and refrigerate overnight and the next day until nearly time to be used. To serve, combine in chilled bowl the three beans, dressing and all, with some minced sweet onion or onion rings and thin-sliced celery.

Add some diced Cheddar cheese if desired. Toss together gently. Dress up the edge of the bowl with crisp cold salad greens of your choice. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

RED BEAN SALAD, IDAHO STYLE

2 to 2½ cups grown-in-Idaho cooked or canned red beans
1½ cups coarsely-cut celery
1 cup sliced-on-the-bias sweet Spanish onions
½ cup sweet pickles, sliced
½ cup small cubes of sharp Cheddar cheese, if desired
1 tablespoon sweet pickle liquid
½ cup French dressing

Drain cooked or canned red beans. Combine with other ingredients, adding coarse-grind black pepper and salt as needed. Allow to stand in the refrigerator several hours or overnight. Garnish with onion rings, hard-cooked egg slices, if desired. Makes 4 hearty servings.

GREAT NORTHERN SALAD

Drain liquid off of cooked Great Northern Beans. Place beans in salad bowl rubbed with garlic. Lightly mix in a tomato-free oil and vinegar dressing, just enough to coat the beans. Cover. Chill several hours or overnight. An hour or so before ready to serve, fold lightly into the beans ¼ cup minced onions, ½ cup each sliced celery and dill or sweet pickles, enough mayonnaise to moisten well, seasonings as desired. Add to this and garnish as you would for your favorite potato salad. Chill again. Just before serving, tuck in lettuce frills to fit the bowl. Garnish with hard-cooked eggs, thin-sliced radishes, avocado or tomato wedges, sliced stuffed olives.

These salads are hearty enough to serve as a main dish. Add a hot bread and an interesting dessert. Good, too, with the barbecued meats of a cook-out.

A little meat, a little cheese, a lot of beans—those plump perfect large white Great Northern beans—can make a meal-in-a-salad bowl.

IDAHO'S CHEF SALAD
(it has everything—almost!)

Cooked or canned Great Northern (large white) beans
Thin-sliced celery
Chive dressing
Whole black pepper (fresh ground in your pepper mill)
Slivers of Swiss and Cheddar cheeses, boiled or baked ham, chicken or turkey
Sliced hard-cooked eggs, if desired
Crisp salad greens

To cook beans, soak washed beans overnight or boil 2 minutes; let stand 1 hour. Simmer in soaking water until tender, adding 1 teaspoon salt for each cup of beans. Drain, reserving the liquid to use as soup along with some of the beans. Better cook plenty. One cup dried beans will give about 2 cups cooked beans plus liquid. Allow about ½ cup cooked beans for each salad serving.

Chill beans and salad bowl before adding salad dressing and celery. Then stir in enough thin-sliced celery to make for crunchiness, add fresh-ground pepper and enough dressing to coat the beans. Chill well in the bowl in which the salad is to be served. Just before serving, tuck crisp salad greens around the edges of the bowl. Arrange the slivers of cheese, ham, and chicken or turkey if desired, in alternate clumps atop the bean salad, with hard-cooked egg slices or thin-sliced radishes as a center garnish.

CHIVE DRESSING: in a pint jar with a tight-fitting cover, place ½ cup each undiluted evaporated milk and salad oil, 3 tablespoons cider vinegar or red wine vinegar, 1 teaspoon each salt and granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ¼ teaspoon coarse-grind black or white pepper, 2 tablespoons frozen or freeze-dried chives. Shake until well-blended. Chill thoroughly to mellow the flavors. Makes 1 cup.

'PUT UP'

Pear Butter Tasty Treat On Toast

Prepare now for December! Last Christmas a friend sent us an utterly delightful assortment of preserves she had made in late summer and early fall and had stored away for gift-giving.

One jar in the gaily decorated package especially interested us because it held old-time Pear Butter—and we begged for the recipe. If you are apt to become nostalgic about some of the wonderful preserves "put up" by Grandma, or maybe Great-grandma, you'll love this sweet. It tastest perfectly wonderful on hot buttered toast. And it is equally scrumpious as a filling for layers of butter-sponge cake. (A confession: when we used some of the Pear Butter for the cake filling, we added a suspicion of light rum.)

Whether you make Pear Butter for your family or for gifts, you can either can it or freeze it. Here are directions for both methods. Suit yourself.

MISSY'S PEAR BUTTER

8 pounds ripe pears (about 20 medium-size)
½ cup water
3½ cups sugar
½ cup honey
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
Juice of 1 medium-size orange
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon ginger

Wash and quarter pears; cut off blossom and stem ends. Place pears in a large kettle; add water; cover and cook over low heat until pears are soft, stirring occasionally. Spoon cooked pears, a portion at a time, into food mill placed over a bowl. Turn handle to strain pears. Measure 2 quarts strained pears into a large saucepan or kettle. Add sugar, honey, orange rind, orange juice, nutmeg and ginger. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, about 2 hours or until thick. Freeze or can in half-pint jars.

Make about 4 half-pints:

TO FREEZE PEAR BUTTER: Chill pear butter. Wash and rinse four ½-pint freezer jars in hot water, then drain and cool. Wash and rinse lids and pour boiling water over them. Fill jars with sauce leaving ½-inch headspace. Wipe tops and screwthreads of jars with a clean damp cloth. Put dome lids on jars; screw bands tight. Place jars upright in freezer until pear butter is frozen, then arrange in any desired position.

TO CAN PEAR BUTTER: Prepare a boiling water bath. Use a standard boiling water-bath canner or an ordinary covered kettle with a rack in the bottom. The rack should hold the jars about ½-inch above the bottom of the canner and the kettle should be deep enough for water to cover the jars at least 1 inch over the tops without boiling over. Fill the canner about half full of water and heat but do not boil the water. Wash and rinse well in hot water four ½-pint dome-lid canning jars and tops. Pour the hot pear butter into the jars leaving ¼-inch head space. Wipe tops and screw threads of jars with a clean damp cloth. Put dome lids on jars and screw bands tight without forcing. Put jars into hot (not boiling) water on rack in kettle. Add boiling water to cover tops of jars. Cover kettle and when water comes to a fast rolling boil, start counting time. Process 10 minutes. Remove jars from bath and place 2 or 3 inches apart on several thicknesses of cloth; let cool about 12 hours. Remove bands. If center of lid is down or stays down when pressed, jar is properly sealed. Store jars in a cool dark dry place. (AP).

Mushrooms Add To Swiss Steak

SWISS STEAK ROYALE

1 beef round steak, cut 1-inch thick
⅓ cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 can (4 ounces) mushroom stems and pieces
1 cup liquid (mushroom liquid and water)
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
¼ teaspoon rosemary
¼ teaspoon marjoram
¼ teaspoon celery seed
1 clove garlic, crushed
2 medium onions, sliced

Combine flour, salt and pepper. Pound seasoned flour into steak. Brown steak in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Drain mushrooms, reserving liquid. Add water to liquid to make 1 cup. Remove steak from frying-pan and blend in remaining flour. Gradually add liquid, stirring well. Mix seasoned salt, rosemary, marjoram and celery seed. Add seasonings, mushrooms, garlic and onions. Place steak in pan, cover tightly and cook slowly 1½ hours or until tender. 4 to 6 servings.

SOY-BASED

New, Appetizing Salad Idea Found In Japanese Sunomono

Devotees of Japanese restaurants sing the praises of a shrimp specialty called tempura — a batter-fried delicacy served hot and golden, usually with a soy-based sauce. (This crisp, crusty effect is delicious, too, on almost any fresh vegetable.) Few of even the most avid fans of Japanese cooking, however, seem to have discovered the great cold salad, or Sunomono, made with shrimp and cucumber.

The Shrimp Assn. of the Americas highly recommends it to American homemakers in search of a new and appetizing salad idea. Sunomono is simplicity itself to prepare—mostly a matter of marinating. Ginger adds a subtle and aromatic touch to the marinade, and a most flattering one to the shrimp.

SUNOMONO
(Japanese Shrimp Salad)

1 pound raw shrimp, fresh or frozen or 1 (8 oz. or 10 oz.) package peeled and deveined shrimp
1 cup white vinegar
⅓ cup sugar
½ teaspon fresh ginger or ¼ teaspoon powdered ginger
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1 medium cucumber, unpeeled
1 tablespoon salt

Cook shrimp 2 or 3 minutes, shell and devein if necessary. Cut shrimp in half lengthwise. Set aside to cool. Combine vinegar, sugar and salt in a small saucepan; bring mixture to a boil. Remove from heat and add ginger. Slice cucumber very thin. Place in a shallow refrigerator dish. Add shrimp, and pour vinegar-ginger mixture over all. Refrigerate, covered, at least 4 hours, tossing gently once or twice during chilling to disperse the ginger. Makes 4 servings.

Working Mother Part 9

Part-Time Route Back To Work

By LOIS BENJAMIN

Ninth of a series of 12 articles, based on the best-selling book, "So You Want To Be a Working Mother."

When you're a part-time worker, you still spend money in order to work. And you don't spend much less than a full-time worker.

Then there's the matter of fringe benefits, as they say in personnel. As a part-time or freelance employee, you may not be eligible for coverage by company health, insurance, or pension plans. You may not qualify for maternity leave (just in case you haven't got enough trouble), or sick-pay. Some of it —or all of it—just might be important in your life.

Executive or administrative posts for a part-time smart lady are just about as scarce as a secretary at 5:15 Friday afternoon. And if you look closely at the handful of Hennys who do occupy such posts, you will find that most of them are former full-time ladies who worked their way into the jobs first, and then reduced their hours.

Take a good hard look at this financial statement from a social-working mother who chose the part-time route back to work. The statement was published recently by Radcliffe, in a fat little helpful-hints booklet (The Next Step) for ladies who are just thinking about working motherhood.

And remember that if you start part-timing, these might very well be the facts of your life too:

Income figured on a four week basis: 15 hours weekly, at $2.50 per hour, times 4, $150; Less Social Security, withholding tax, etc., $35; Approximate net salary, $115. Expenses figured on a four-week basis: Baby sitter, $69; Carfare ($.60 a day, 12 days) $7.50; Lunches (modest, $.75 per day) $7.50; Shoes (2 pair social-worker shoes plus two heel-and-sole repairs per year) $3.50; Clothing (1 extra suit per year or extra "business dress," and might also include one fancy hat for annual luncheon I must attend) $5; Miscellaneous (extra clothes cleaning; extra pediatrician's visit when I don't have time to wait to see what, if anything, develops from a slight temperature; extra last-minute quick-cooking food when I am late getting home and have nothing for dinner) $10; Contributions and professional society memberships $3; Total $106.

Net profit for four weeks part-time work, $8.30.

The important thing to concentrate on is that the items she listed under expenses would be pretty much the same except for the baby sitter, regardless of the number of hours worked. Whereas net salary would rise, according to both the time she spent working and the speed with which she moved out of that chorus and into stardom.

Lots of very important experts keep announcing that "mature homemakers" ought to break into working motherhood by "easy stages"—by which they mean dipping your sheltered housewifey toes into the cold water with a routine part-time job.

Personally, I think it's harder that way, and for some, impossible. If you're going to have to change your life, get the sitter, buy the clothes, start commuting, and pay for all those heel-and-sole repairs, you might just as well jump all the way in to a full-time job.

There are exceptions, sure. There are smart ladies with persuasive powers who can talk themselves into dream jobs that other smart ladies couldn't get after 15 years at hard labor, for the same boss.

However, unlike the Irish Sweepstakes, there are a few things you can do to improve the odds for landing a good job. Do not see the personnel director if you're looking for part-time or freelance work. See somebody in charge of the kind of work you want. The editor of the company house organ, the head of the publicity department, art department, research department, library. You can get their names from the switchboard operator.

The point is to avoid a showdown with that company rule book or with the man who wrote it. They always say, "We do not employ part-time personnel at the professional level. Now what is your typing speed?"

Another thing to remember when you go hunting for part-time or freelance work is that the biggest game may not be lurking around the biggest forest. A small-town company or suburban branch office might have more use for you than a bustling organization in a crowded city.

But 20 years from now, when your granddaughter asks you what it was like to be a working mother in your day, tell her how the smart lady who managed to stick it out through the hard parts, also managed to arrive at age 35 with fewer problems than the smart lady who quit. She didn't have a back-to-work problem. She didn't have to start at the bottom of any heap when she was tireder and older and rustier than any of the other beginners.

TOMORROW: Getting The Best of Practically Everybody.

Marin Women

Ten Courses Set In Marin For University's Daytime Program

By BARBARA HOSMER

For the first time Marin women will have the opportunity to attend the University of California's Daytime Program close to home when the fall term opens next week.

Ten courses are scheduled for Marin, with six given at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, and the others, art classes, to be held in San Anselmo and Mill Valley studios.

If all goes well this term and next, chances are that more classes may be taught here, and that a center for the Daytime Program may be located in the county.

Jeanne Brewer, Daytime Program coordinator for the Extension, said that the classes are being tried in Marin in response to interest shown in the Daytime Program in San Francisco by Marin people.

"We've had a number of women driving across the bridge to classes—between 125 and 150 the past semester," she said.

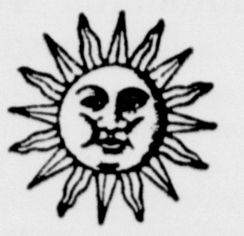
Of the 1400 enrollees in the spring 1966 program, three-quarters were women, with the greater number in the 20-29 and 40-49 age groups, Jeanne Brewer said.

THE FALL AND winter terms will be a trial for the Marin classes, and the spring term will depend on what happens in these classes, she said. "We'll give it a year to see."

A group of Marin volunteers, composed of persons who are enrolled now or have taken the Daytime Program classes in San Francisco, serve as advisors to the program, and report back comments and interest areas from the classes and from their home communities so that the Daytime Program can operate to meet the local needs.

The Marin Volunteers met this month in Kentfield to hear from some of the instructors for the Marin classes on what their courses will cover, and with Mrs. Brewer and other University of California Extension personnel to discuss the interests of people here in future classes.

The volunteer group, which serves as a sounding board, includes Arnold Frederick of Fairfax, Mesdames Margaret Smith of Kentfield, coordinator; H. F. Friesen of Kentfield, field representative; Helene Guinther of San Rafael, Harry Lehman of Kentfield, Claudia O'Connor of Mill Valley, Barbara Rubin of Sausalito, Martha Satterthwaite of San Rafael, Vera Schultz of Mill Valley, Roane Sias of San Anselmo, Margaret Smith of Novato, and Jeanine Ver Planck of Mill Valley.



Some of the volunteers throughout the Bay Area have become teachers in the extension program and others have recruited family and friends into the courses, Mrs. Brewer said.

Outside of the Extension Center in San Francisco the program can only offer upper division credit courses or non-credit classes because junior colleges and other institutions cover the lower division field, Mrs. Brewer explained. The classes may cover a variety of subjects here, depending on the interest, the minimum enrollment for a class to be about 15 persons. If there is enough interest in a particular class the program coordinator will then recruit an instructor and present the course, she said.

Because of demand last spring the San Francisco Center has begun to offer Saturday and late day classes for employed persons, and these are possible in Marin as well if demand exists, she said.

The emphasis in Marin this term is on the art field, but other interest areas indicate success for classes in landscape architecture, city planning and design, Mrs. Brewer said.

The classes are self supporting and fees range from $20 to $50, depending on the length or type of class, lecture series or conference.

INFORMATION MAY be obtained at the University of California Extension Daytime Program coordinator, 55 Laguna Street, San Francisco and in Marin from Mrs. H. F. Friesen of Kentfield, field representative, or by telephoning the University of California Extension.

Fail couurses are: Marin Invertebrates of the California Sea Coast, beginning Oct. 31; Acting Workshop, Oct. 4; Dance as Form, Oct. 6; Personal Expression in Interior Design, Oct. 6; Photography as an Art Form, Oct. 5; and Photography Workshop; all at Marin Art and Garden Center. Also Painting, Elements of Drawing and Sculpture Workshop in San Anselmo; The Art and Science of Seeing; A Workshop in Perception in Mill Valley.

'Branding Time' Theme For Sausalito Club Dinner Dance

The first dinner dance of the Sausalito Woman's Club this year will be in a "First Round-Up" Western theme on Oct. 15 with "branding time" set for 8 p.m.

Husbands of club members who will barbecue and serve accompaniments will be Messrs. Robert K. Bond, Joseph E. De Martini and Chester V. Solberg.

With the limit set at 60 couples, reservations chairman Mrs. W. L. C. Brown has been kept busy, according to Mrs. Roger L. Dinelli, chairman of the "First Round-Up."

Nora Jane Sauter Engaged To Francis W. Mosher III

The engagement of Nora Jane Sauter to Francis William Mosher III of Tamalpais Valley has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Sauter of San Rafael.

Nora Jane was graduated from San Rafael High School and will be graduated from College of Marin in February. She is the sister of John and Karen Sauter.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis William Mosher Jr. of Tamalpais Valley, and the brother of John and Charles Mosher.

He was graduated from Tamalpais High School, attended College of Marin, and is serving with the U.S. Army at Fort Lewis, Wash.

No wedding date has been set.

Art Club To Hold Painting Classes

Classes in painting sponsored by the Outdoor Art Club are beginning on Oct. 4 and will be held each Tuesday at the clubhouse.

The newcomers' class will meet from 9 a.m. to noon and the afternoon class from 1 to 4 p.m. Registrations will be taken at the first classes.

Instruction is given in all media and for all degrees of painting experience. The teacher, Houlgate Davenport, has a master's degree in art from the San Francisco Art Institute and has studied with Richard Diebenkorn, Elmer Bischoff and print-maker Richard Graf.

Play Foremost Dairies' Treasure Hunt

5 First Prizes! 43 Prizes in All!

Here's the perfect contest for people who eat food. A chance to win your family's weight in groceries. If you've got a typical American family of 4.3 people, you get more than 500 pounds of food. Enough free food to keep 4.3 food-eaters happy for months. And you choose the stuff. Porterhouse steaks. Penny bubble gum. Anything.*

HERE'S HOW YOU WIN: We stuck some certificates, each worth a family's weight in groceries, into a milkcan. Then we stuck the milkcan into the ground. Your job is to (a) guess where we stuck it (b) use the name of the treasure site in a sentence about Foremost Milk. It's simple. Let's say the treasure site turns out to be the Grand Canyon. You just say something brilliant like: "I always drink fastidiously fresh Foremost Milk before I jump into the Grand Canyon." Brilliant.

HERE'S HOW YOU ENTER: Race down to any store that stocks delicious Foremost Milk. There you'll find clues to the treasure displayed in different store departments, and on ½ gallon and quart cartons of fastidiously fresh Foremost Milk. Collect the clues; then write us the brilliant sentence. Remember: only accuracy and originality count. No purchase required to play. Official entry blanks, complete list of prizes, rules, clues, recipes, lost children, and all kinds of good things to eat are available wherever Foremost Milk is sold. Go.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband enlisted and now is in the Army in Viet Nam. If I get a letter once a month from him I'm lucky. I tell him even if he's tired and hasn't anything to write about, just a few words and his name would let us know he's all right. He says it's hard to get stamps where he is. I sent him some once and he said they were stolen.

I know he's busy, but I find time to write every day and I have a baby and a full-time job. Do you think it would help if I sent him a batch of addressed, airmail-stamped envelopes? — WAITING WIFE

DEAR WIFE:

A batch of addressed envelopes might help, but keep the airmail stamps for yourself. Soldiers in combat areas are allowed to send their mail free, as your un-lettered husband should certainly know. Hope he gets on the ballpoint soon.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

This is an open letter to the Post Office Service. Three times lately, letters to my son overseas (APO San Francisco) have been returned to me because they are supposedly overweight and need more postage. I have a little postal scale at home and each time they have been a hair-breath under the line. This has slowed my mail two days, and that means a lot to a man who is fighting a war so government employees may keep their jobs.

Even if my scale is a little "off"—and I don't think so—couldn't the U. S. Government let overweight mail to fighting men go through? Is an extra eight cents all that important, as compared to two more days of waiting in the jungle for mail?—MAD MOTHER

DEAR M:

Postmaster General O'Brien take note: Is it?—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I've been going with Jim for three years and we plan to be married in December. But, though we love each other very much, I'm afraid to marry him.

You see, he doesn't want a family or a home. He wants us to live in a furnished apartment for the rest of our lives. To him, a home and children mean bills and responsibility. He never wants to "own" anything. To me, marriage means husband, home, children, roots.

Should I say "I do" or forget him? — SCARED BRIDE-TO-BE

DEAR BRIDE-TO-BE:

A born nester and a "married bachelor" have about as much in common as a milk bottle and a magnum of champagne. Better not set the wedding date until you can agree on basic goals. . . . But don't make it a final "No" yet: This is one area where men DO change.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

If a neighbor came to your house every night and talked boringly until past your bedtime—and you had to work next morning early, should you serve her anything?—SLEEPY

DEAR SLEEPY:

By JOHN F. KEARNEY

To Pavlova, it's the Frug. To an Ernest Hemingway, it's Mary Poppins.

"Not that I have anything against electronic organs," said the great grandson of the founder of Steinway and Sons on a visit to San Rafael yesterday. "They have a wonderful novelty value."

He suddenly leaned forward in mock horror and his voice dropped to a whisper. "But we at Steinway," he said, "are PIANO makers. We don't think we will be going into the electronic field."

The pleasant and witty spokesman for the 113-year-old company was in his element, relaxed and smiling in — of all places — the electronic organ room at Sherman, Clay and Co. on Fourth Street.

Steinway was in the county to present the annual Steinway award to John H. Myers, head of the College of Marin music department, for his "distinguished contribution to the area's musical life."

The history of Steinway's ancestors is an American story. His great-grandfather, Henry E. Steinway was a master cabinet maker when he emigrated to this country from Germany in 1850.

He got into making an occasional piano in Germany. "I have seen some of those first instruments," said Steinway. "They were wonderful pieces of art, but as pianos, they were terrible. He had not at that stage perfected the skill of piano making."

Once in America, he put his sons to work with the dozens of piano-builders around New York, and three years later they started their own business.

By dint of hard work, Steinway and his sons began to perfect their skill and soon started sponsoring tours of famous pianists such as Artur Rubenstein.

There was more in it than the promotion of culture. For everywhere artists like Rubenstein went, so did the piano with the name "Steinway."

Naturally, John Steinway plays the piano himself, but he is modest about it. "No one would pay a dollar to come and listen to me play," he said.

He is a member of the fourth generation of Steinway piano makers and there are 13 in the up-and-coming fifth generation. "We'll probably make piano makers out of some of them," he said.

While he and his relatives in the family concern are expected to know their way around a keyboard, it is not essential for their hundreds of craftsmen to have musical training.

"We would prefer that they didn't," said Steinway. "A man interested in music would be more concerned with the playing. We like workmen who listen to the tone."

Steinway instruments of the type that graces the East Room at the White House are not exactly designed to sweep the county by storm.

The Long Island factory turns out only 100 pianos a year and the grand pianos range in price from $4,000 and $8,000 on the West Coast.

Then again, a customer has to place an order a year in advance. While waiting, one can always doodle on an electronic organ.

Marin Writer Sells Script For Hour-Long TV Comedy

David Ames, Sausalito author and Tiburon waiter, reported yesterday that his television comedy, "Three Misguided Halos," had been bought by Desilu Productions of Beverly Hills.

The comedy may be filmed in December for showing in March, he said, and is expected to star Dick Van Dyke.

The hour-long comedy is "about three halos stolen from heaven and falling on three of the biggest scoundrels on earth," Ames explained. It took him a year to complete the script.

Ames lives on his house boat, "The Mud Hen," at Kappas yacht harbor at Point Waldo and works as a waiter at the Tiburon Lodge. He has begun work on a novel, entitled "Gate Five," which is "about a houseboat community," he said.

Blotchy ripening in tomatoes, which rarely causes a reduced yield but often drastically reduces the number of marketable fruits, may be caused by too low a level of potassium.

Organ Concert Timing Changes

Starting time for Sunday's concert by Melba Potter Palmer at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo has been changed from 7:30 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Mrs. Palmer will play "Promenade, Air and Toccata" by Edmund Haines; "Song of Peace" by Jean Langlais; "Rhythmic Trumpet" by Seth Bingham, and "Le Jardin Suspendu" and "Litanies" by Jehan Alain.

After intermission she will perform J. S. Bach's Fugue in E Flat (St. Anne) and "Kommst Du Nun, Jesu, Vom Himmel Herunter" (from the Schubler chorals) and the Choral in A Minor by Cesar Franck.

Festival Theater Sets Auditions For Season

Festival Theater will hold general auditions for its '66-'67 season, at the Theater at Bolinas Avenue and Kensington Road, San Anselmo, on Saturday, at 1 p.m.

A prepared selection (or selections), not to exceed five minutes in length, is required. Auditions and intrviews will be conducted by the theater's directorial staff.

Lady Bird To Be Asked To Join Mailbox Fight

In its fight against a Post Office Department requirement for curbside mailboxes in new subdivisions, the Novato City Council voted last night to ask the support of Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

The dispute started when the Post Office Department recently began enforcing the requirement so mail delivery could be motorized.

Lawrence A. Coleman, Novato director of public works, urged the council to write its congressmen, senators, the League of California Cities and the National League of Cities for support in opposing this rule (The League of California Cities actually sparked the opposition.)

Councilman William Jack Adams suggested Mrs. Johnson be included because of her stand for beautification. Councilman Douglas M. Merrill suggested some of the federal money for beautification be given to the post office.

"It doesn't seem right that in subdivisions where we have required that all utilities be placed underground, that it be cluttered up with mailboxes," Coleman said.

The city of Pleasanton passed an ordinance forbidding mailboxes in the public right of way, and as a result, 600 residents must go to the post office to get their mail, Coleman reported.

Novato Postmaster Harry Overly was present, but refused comment.

The Novato City Council also:

1. Denied an appeal by Scottsdale and Alpha Beta Acme Markets from planning commission refusal of rezoning from multiple residential to commercial of six acres at Rowland and Redwood Boulevards.

2. Authorized the department of public works to get appraisals and start negotiations to acquire four parcels of land needed for completion of the Diablo-De Long realignment project.

3. Passed a resolution naming all the streets in the 93-mile city system which will be maintained by the city. This updated a list adopted when the city was incorporated six years ago.

4. Introduced ordinances adopting the 1965 electrical code and changing the commercial fire zone from zone one to two, which has less restrictions.

5. Authorized calling for a list of volunteers to fill vacancies on the planning and parks and recreation commission.

6. Passed an ordinance authorizing licensing of commercial television antennae installations.

7. Approved an agreement with the Lynwood Park Homeowners Assn. for maintenance of the islands in Sunset Parkway, similar to that between the city and Monte Maria Homeowners Assn.

8. Approved the quadrenniel re-evaluation of the state employees retirement system in the city.

9. Denied a claim for damages by George T. Swift, who claimed that his son, George T. Swift Jr., 12, of 12 Portola Avenue, San Rafael, was injured on a metal storm drain at Denlyn and Eldridge Avenues on Aug. 29.

10. Heard from Charles L. Foster, director of public works, that the city is taking in less in building permits than estimated but sales taxes are up $10,00 over the estimate.

11. Rezoned from commercial to multiple dwelling land of Hector Rubini at Ignacio Boulevard and Alameda Del Prado.

12. Approved job descriptions for city planner at $1,075 per month; assistant planning director at $821 to $998 per month, and senior planner at $676 to $821 per month.

13. Set November meetings for the 15th and 29th because of the general election on Nov. 8, a regular meeting date.

14. Made the intersection of Wilson Avenue and Center Road a four-way stop, and approved a "yield" sign for the new right turn feeder lane from Diablo Avenue westbound on Novato Boulevard.

'You're Invited To Attend . . .'

Such invitations and a brochure on the city council proceedings will go out to 25 registered voters before each council meeting heareafter. The brochures will also be passed out to new residents of the city through welcoming agencies, according to council action taken last night.

City Mgr. J. Julien Baget two weeks ago proposed the city send such invitations to bolster attendance at the council meetings.

Last night, Baget presented a proposed brochure on the council and the way the meetings are run. The council adopted this to go along with the invitations, which are to be sent to names taken at random from voter registration rolls.

Sausalito Library Bill May Reach $400,000

Sausalito's new library may cost up to $325,000 to build, library trustees learned last night.

The maximum figure was suggested in estimates by architect Aaron Green that the library will cost $20 to $25 a square foot. The board has followed a guideline that the new library provide one square foot per person expected to live in the city in 20 years, or 10,500 to 12,000 square feet.

The cost of furnishings, fees and contingencies probably will bring the total cost of the library to $400,000, trustee Michael Harris said. He and trustee Paul Stanley were appointed to study the effect on the tax rate of a $200,000 bond issue.

The city's reserve fund for the new library soon will be $100,000, Harris reported. He said one-third of the construction cost might be met by state and federal grants.

The board decided not to air-condition the new library, agreeing that Sausalitans would prefer fresh air.

Sailboat Sinks Aflame At Highway Overpass

A sailboat in flames on Corte Madera Creek sunk at the Highway 101 overpass as Larkspur firemen watched yesterday at 9:26 p.m.

Firemen who pulled the boat ashore and determined that no one had been aboard were trying today to learn who owned the craft.

Hansen To Head Sanitary Board, Bids Accepted

Cyril G. Hansen of Sausalito was re-elected president Tuesday night of the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District.

Hansen, William U. Remensperger and Joseph Bell were re-appointed by the county board of supervisors since they were unopposed in the Sept. 13 election.

The board authorized purchase of a pick-up truck for $2,100 and a variable speed electric motor for $3,200. Ames Ford of San Rafael was low bidder on the truck, and E. C. Cooley of San Francisco on the motor.

Also authorized were repair of the sewer trunk to the highway pumping station ($2,400) and addition of concrete saddles for the main north of the Fort Baker Treatment Plant ($1,500).

Copyright Bill Hearing Opens In Committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House Judiciary Committee approved a bill today to overhaul American copyright laws which have remained virtually untouched for more than half a century.

The sponsors had no illusions about getting final congressional approval this year but were hopeful of getting it through the House and in a position for priority treatment next year.

Included among the first major changes in the laws since 1909 would be an extension of protection of copyrighted items for the lifetime of a person plus 50 years. The maximum now is 56 years. Existing copyrights would be extended to 75 years.

The bill also would touch on such delicate areas as use of copyrighted material by teachers and so-called Community Antenna Television (CATV) systems. CATV operations have posed a difficult problem in retransmission of TV signals.

The legislation would set out certain conditions for "secondary transmission" of copyright broadcast material by CATV systems. In many cases, a CATV operator would have to pay a fee to the holder of the copyright in order to carry some programs.

In the case of teachers, they would be exempted from infringement penalties where they made "fair use" of copyrighted matter in face-to-face classroom instruction.

Indonesia Rejoins U.N. Amid Jeers

The demonstrations broke out as Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan, the assembly president, invited an Indonesian delegation headed by Foreign Minister Adam Malik to take seats.

With Indonesia's return, the U.N. membership was boosted to 119.

Police Arrest 16 In Concert Riot

Officers said the disturbance started when the youths were unable to purchase tickets for a concert at the school.

About 40 officers were called to break up the crowd, which was predominantly Negro.

Several police car windows were broken by rocks and bottles tossed by the youths.

Later, another group broke windows of a nearby service station. The attendant said the gang attacked him but he escaped by hailing a taxi.

A single storm in 1934 blew 300 million tons of soil from the overplowed prairies of the United States, the National Geographic says.

FLORIDA STREET TURNS A PASSIONATE PURPLE

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — "The street in front of my house has turned purple," the lady told the police.

It really had — "passionate purple," as one resident put it.

Police quickly found the cause—a 50-gallon barrel of purple dye, the type used to make purple paper to line orange crates, had fallen from a passing truck and broken.

Then it began raining.

Thieves Get Phonograph From School

Deputies said the machine was taken from a classroom adjacent to the school's office. No forced entry was evident.

Novato Police Officer Robert M. Ayers told officers his locker in the College of Marin gymnasium in Kentfield was entered and $56 cash was taken from his wallet. The combination lock had been opened, he said.

Deputies said burglars also entered the yard of Nerviani Brothers, garden supplies, on Smith Ranch Road, Santa Venetia, stealing about 350 gallons of gasoline from a 500-gallon tank.

Bernard Paul Nerviani, co-owner, reported the lock was broken by the thieves. He said tire marks were found but it was not known how the gasoline was hauled away.

Louis T. Judson of 219 Richardson Drive, Strawberry, said burglars broke a window ventilator of his car, parked in a Tamalpais High School lot, and stole a $65 transistor radio.

Hamilton Using Movies To Save Lives, Money

Airmen and officers at Hamilton Air Force Base are going to the movies and getting into the act in a new traffic training program designed to save lives and money.

The Base Safety Office is conducting the program, which combines visual teaching and responses by having the student react to traffic conditions on the screen.

Safety statisticians estimate this type of multimedia instruction will save the Air Force 100 lives from Jan. 1, 1965, through June 30, 1967, and will save the government more than $7 million, according to Robert F. Morton, base safety officer.

"Although Hamilton has one of the lowest accident rates of any San Francisco Bay Area community, the new course was implemented here because of the vital work of airmen and officers," he said.

The classroom in the Base Drivers School Building is equipped with a Cinemascope-type screen, slide and motion picture projectors. Beside each chair are remote control units with buttons labeled A, B, C and D.

Home Broken Into

Thieves forced their way through a rear door at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Wadsworth at 181 Hillside Drive, Fairfax, Tuesday and carted off an unknown value in guns, clothing, appliances and jewelry, police reported.

State Will Buy Scott Property

The state has agreed to purchase the 15-acre Roy Scott property near Muir Woods to add to Mount Tamalpais State Park, County Administrator Alan Bruce reported to the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Bruce said county recreation director Pierre W. Joske had been informed of the decision by Edward Dolder, deputy director of the state Parks and Recreation Department.

In 1963 Marin County purchased the Scott parcel for $50,000 as a holding action to preserve it as an addition to Mount Tamalpais State Park. Joske said the state has agreed to purchase it at approximately the price the county paid.

Library Plan For Exhibits Are Revealed

General plans for exhibits in display areas of Mill Valley's new library were announced today by head librarian Dorothy Thomas.

"We will try to integrate many of our exhibits with community interests and activities," she said. "Besides theme exhibits for important events, such as the United Nations exhibit to be opened Oct. 22, we will show local creative work by Mill Valley residents and displays about library services and book collections."

Examples of early printing currently are on display in the lobby. Scheduled soon are exhibits in fine printing, children's books, performing arts, children's paintings and crafts.

David Forsberg of Mill Valley has been named to schedule and coordinate the exhibits, Mrs. Thomas said.

Requirements Cut In Bonn Arms Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) —West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard flew home early today with a compromise agreement that will cut German requirements to buy $1.35 billion in American arms.

The agreement, hammered out duriing Erhard's tour of Cape Kennedy yesterday with President Johnson, calls for arms purchases of $450 million before June 30, according to government officials.

The officials said another $650 nillion of the arms buying commitment—purchases which help offset the cost of keeping U.S. troops in NATO—would be fulfilled by prepayment of $214 million in debts to the United States, and a $436 million purchase of U.S. government bonds.

The remaining $250 million of the commitment will be subject to U.S.-German negotiations. There was a possibility that the June 30 deadline for meeting the buying quote would be extended.

The deadline comes with the expiration of a two-year U.S.-German a greement aimed at offsetting U.S. costs in Germany with German arms purchases in this country.

Officials said the economic impact of U.S. troops stationed in Germany on the balance of payments was the key question in the talks which Erhard described at his departure as "very serious and very tough negotiations."

Answers to the economic questions after June 30 are to be examined by a special committee comprised of members from the United States, Britain and West Germany.

Military Delays Civilian Hiring

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Defense Department says it is delaying until after the beginning of fiscal 1968 the remainder of its program of hiring civilians to replace military men in noncombat jobs.

In Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's manpower utilization program, the Defense Department is attempting to replace 75,000 military men with 60,000 civilians by the end of this year.

Although officials said yesterday only 49 per cent of the high-level jobs—those involving scientists, engineers and data processors—had been filled by Aug. 1, they expected to meet the 196 6goal.

But they said the second phase of the program would be delayed.

New Plans Slated For Space Walk

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) —Drastic changes in the spacewalk of Gemini 12 astronaut Edwin (Buz) Aldrin may delay the flight as much as two weeks.

The space trip is set for late October or early November.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said plans for Aldrin to use a jet-powered Buck Rogers type "back pack" to scoot around in space during his space walk had been abandoned.

The change was nade to allow a better study of the problem of free space walking —an exhausting chore that caused Gemini II astronauts Richard F. Gordon to cut his space walk short Sept. 13.

NASA officials said they wanted to "Gather more information concerning the performance of basic tasks by an astronaut in orbit outside a spacecraft.

Space walking so far has been one of the more difficult problems of the nation's space program. Three of America's four spacewalkers have been forced back in their spaceships before finishing their walks.

Strep Complaints Lead Health List

The county health office reported 10 such infections as well as two cases of gonorrhea and two of mumps.

County-Wide Fire Plan To Be Aired

Four speakers will discuss the proposed county-wide services area for fire protection on Radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" from 9 to 10 a.m. tomorrow.

To discuss the proposal are County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen, Alto Fire Chief Carl O. Heynon, Tiburon Fire Commissioner Fred C. Hannahs, and Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows.

The program, conducted by Kitty Oppenheimer will be repeated by tape recording Sunday at 12:30 p.m.

Federation To Meet

A Marin Federation of Improvement Clubs meeting has been scheduled for Oct. 10 at 8 p.m. in the supervisors' chambers of the Marin County Civic Center.

DODGERS' MAGIC NUMBER: 3

It's Just A Matter Of Time

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer

"Things are a little bit better than they were this morning," Manager Walter Alston said Monday night after his Los Angeles Dodgers increased their National League lead to 2½ games with six left.

"Well, we're a half game better than we were yesterday," Alston said last night after a 2-0 victory over St. Louis increased the Dodgers' lead to three games with five to go.

"I'd say we're in slightly better shape than we were before the game," one might expect Alston to say tonight if the Dodgers increase their lead to 4½ games with four to go.

Chances are Alston would be more positive than he usually is if the Dodgers clinch their second straight pennant tonight, but the veteran manager carries caution out in front of him until the end.

Which could come tonight.

The Dodgers' triumph last night reduced their magic number to three, meaning any combination of Los Angeles victories and Pittsburgh losses totaling three would give the Dodgers the pennant.

The second-place Pirates, who were rained out last night, play Philadelphia twice tonight, and the Dodgers play the Cardinals once.

The third-place San Francisco Giants, four games behind the Dodgers and one behind the Pirates, also would have to lose to the Braves in Atlanta tonight.

When the possibility of the pennant race ending so abruptly was suggested to Alston, he said:

"I hope you're right, but that's asking for a whole lot in one day."

Alston's style may be loaded with caution, but it's followed him through five pennants in his 12 years with the Dodgers. This would be his sixth in 13 seasons and would mark the first time since 1957-58 that a National League team has won two consecutive crowns.

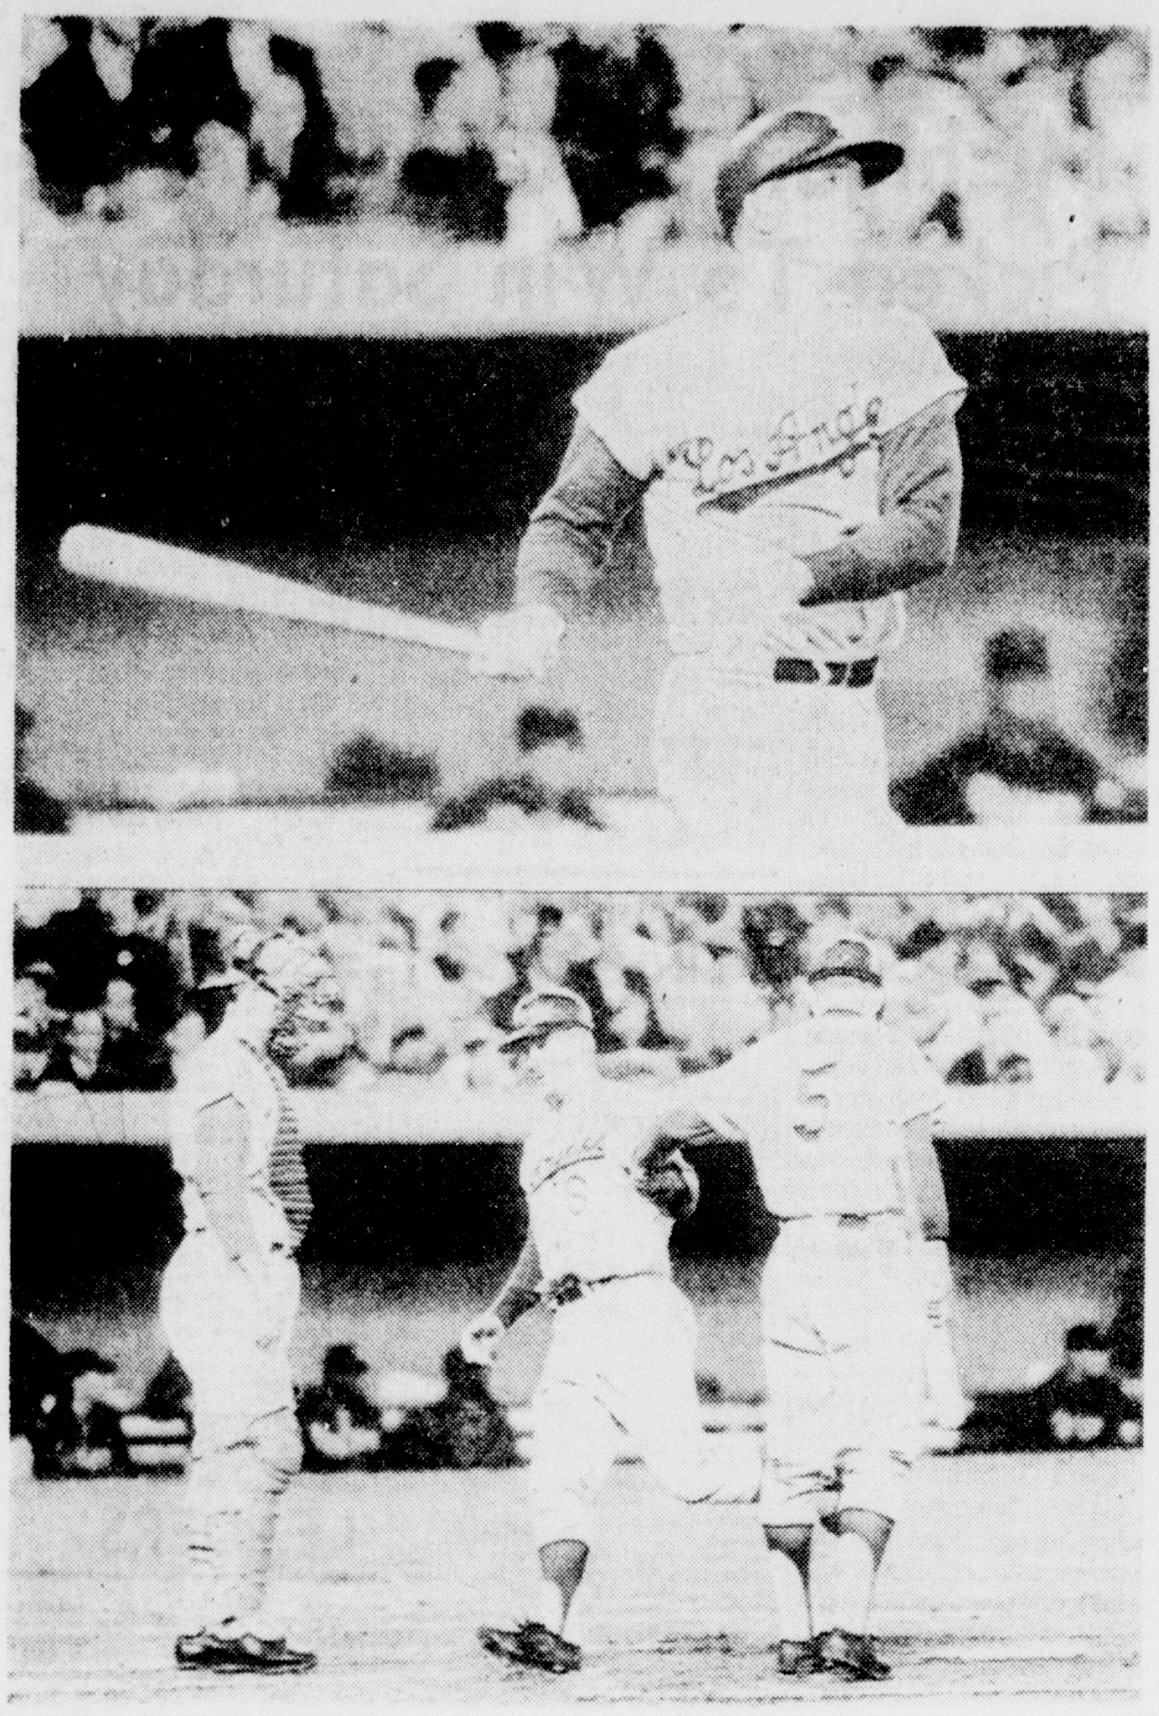
What are your chances for a third straight, Walt?

In the only other NL game, San Francisco defeated Atlanta 6-3. Rain also washed out Houston at Cincinnati and Chicago at New York.

In the American League, California stopped Detroit 6-2, Minnesota downed Cleveland 5-1 and Boston ended its season by nipping Chicago 2-1 after losing 1-0. Kansas City at Baltimore and New York at Washington lost to the rain.

Don Drysdale was the Dodgers' latest hero as he shut out St. Louis on four hits for his fourth straight victory and 13th against 16 defeats.

Ron Fairly gave the big righthander the only run he needed with a second-inning homer, but the Dodgers added one in the sixth on a double by Jim Lefebvre and Lou Johnson's single.



BIG HOME RUN — Los Angeles Dodger Ron Fairly smacks a home run against the St. Louis Cardinals and is greeted at the plate by teammate Jim Lefebvre (5) as Cardinal catcher Tim McCarver looks on. The Dodgers won, 2-0, at St. Louis yesterday. (UPI Telephoto)

Mays Still Strong; Giants Hopes Fade

ATLANTA (AP) — Willie Mays isn't going down without a fight, but the San Francisco center fielder says the Los Angeles Dodgers have about clinched the National League pennant.

"I think the Dodgers have about got it wrapped up,' Mays said after driving in four runs in the Giants' 6-3 victory over Atlanta last night which kept San Francisco's fleeting pennant hopes alive.

Gaylord Perry (20-8) will hurl against the Braves tonight.

"The Dodgers have only five games left and they are three in front of the Pirates, which makes it pretty tough to beat them," said Mays, who tied a handful of records with his 36th home run of the year which drove in three runs.

The blast and a run-scoring single in the seventh boosted Mays' career runs batted in total to 1,503, making him the 14th big leaguer to pass the 1,500 mark.

Mays' RBI total for the year climbed to 101, giving him a tie for the National League mark of driving in at least 100 runs eight straight years, and a tie for the league mark of driving in 100 runs 10 times in his career.

"I just hope I don't stop," Mays said of his RBI marks. "I'm still feeling real strong this year."

Mays also set a league mark by hitting for 300 total bases for the 13th year.

His hitting kept the Giants four games behind the Dodgers, and pulled them within one game of the second-place Pirates.

Mays' play overshadowed that of two other sluggers, Atlanta's Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews.

Aaron had pushed Atlanta to a 3-1 lead in the fourth inning with his 43rd home run of the year, and Mathews singled and scored to celebrate Eddie Mathews Night.

Mathews was given a car, a boat, three television sets and numerous other gifts by Atlanta fans who also donated $10,000 in his name to the Scottish Rite Hospital for crippled children.

"There were so many things out there I was emarrassed," said Mathews, who is tied for seventh with Lou Gehrig on the all-time home run chart with 493.

However, neither he nor Aaron was able to touch San Francisco reliever Lindy McDaniel, who held the Braves hitless for five innings before being tapped for a harmless single in the ninth.

Attendance for the game pushed the Braves' home total past the 1.5 million mark to 1,516,653.

San Rafael Driver Wins Stock Event

Nance was a winner in the HSOA class of the Formula 7 section with his Plymouth that clocked the quarter-mile in 15.80 seconds at 87 miles per hour.

Dick Williams Named New Boston Manager

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox announced today that Dick Williams, who managed Toronto to two successive championships in the International League, will manage Boston in the American League next year.

Bill Crowley, Red Sox publicity director, said "We are announcing now that Williams will be the new manager."

He succeeds Billy Herman, who was fired Sept. 9. The Sox completed their season Tuesday in ninth place.

The 37-year-old Williams, a former Utility man with the Red Sox, had been a No. 1 choice to succeed Herman although virtually every baseball prospect had been mentioned at one time or another.

The selection means attainment of an ambition Williams expressed three years ago when he said his goal was "to be a major league manager."

Two years ago he was named player-coach at Toronto when the franchise was switched from Seattle. But Seattle manager Edo Vanni didn't want to leave the West Coast and turned down the Toronto job. Williams won the post.

Williams played his last game for the Red Sox in 1964. He has been managing just two years and in both years his Toronto team won the International League playoffs .

The new manager has been in the Red Sox organization since 1962 when he was obtained in a trade for Carroll Hardy from Houston. In his career he played every position except pitcher and catcher.

In 13 seasons he batted .260, hit 70 home runs and batted in 331 runs in more than 1,000 games.

He began his professional baseball career with Santa Barbara of the California League in 1947. He was then 18. He entered the majors with the Brooklyn Dodgers as a reserve outfielder in 1951 and remained in the Dodger organization until he was sold to the Baltimore Orioles in 1956.

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

Every Time It Rains It Rains Lots Of Pennies From Heaven

H2 OH! — That Tom McHugh is a real card. Tom, you know, is the resident professional at the year-old San Geronimo National Golf Course, and a fun-loving Harp is he.

The other night, when Mrs. McHugh was figuring out the family budget, mailing checks to the utilities companies, the local haberdasher, the butcher, baker, etc., Tom casually tossed another bill on the desk. "Better pay this one right away, Honey," Tom suggested, "before they turn off our water."

MRS. McHUGH dutifully wrote out a check to the Marin Municipal Water District in the amount of "Fourteen thousand, two hundred and no/100 dollars." She casually turned to Tom and said, "Gee, Honey, I TOLD you to fix that leaky facuet." Then the amount she had just written dawned on her like a tidal wave.

WELL, TOM enjoyed a good laugh after his wife was revived and learned that the water bill of $14,200 was correct, but it was for the San Geronimo golf course for the months of June, July and August — and not for the McHugh residence in Fairfax.

I mention this today for the benefit of anyone contemplating construction of a golf course. Even if you can afford the land, the water works will drown you in the end.

A NEW COURSE requires great quantities of water and San Geronimo has the bills to prove it is going all out to provide lush fairways and greens. "You can see why we have been receiving raves about the excellent condition of our course," the professional said.

This summer's $14,200 MMWD bill is broken down into $4,200 for June, $4,600 for July and $5,400 for August.

I SUGGESTED to McHugh that with those rates, the club owners must spend a great deal of their time praying for rain. "Well, we don't want too much rain," he begged off, "because then we wouldn't get the golfers. It's a dilemma — like watching your mother-in-law drive off a cliff in your new Cadillac. We pray it rains every Sunday night for about six hours, then stops for a week."

Of the MMWD reservoirs in the nearby hills, McHugh shouted, "There's gold in them thar hills."

Meantime, Mrs. McHugh has recovered from the shock and Tom has fixed the leaky faucet.

MEL GRAY, that brilliant halfback who scored all 25 points in Montgomery High's 25-6 victory over San Rafael last Friday, lived in Marin City several years ago and was bound for Tam High until his family moved to Santa Rosa. There are a couple of other oustanding athletes in the Gray family and I imagine Tam coaches are crying in their milkshakes over this great loss.

WHEN THE WARRIORS play their intra-squad game at College of Marin Oct. 6, at least three members of the squad won't have far to travel. Second year men Fred Hetzel and Bud Olsen and assistant coach George Lee all reside in Marin.

Passers Dominate Marin Gridirons

The first big flurry of practice games are a thing of the past and the statistics are in. And if they mean anything, they indicate that there are going to be a lot of footballs sailing through the air in the Marin County Athletic Football League this year.

Passing clearly dominates the offensive statistics.

Passing yardage tops rushing yardage among three teams and plays at least a major share in two other offenses, while only two teams have relied almost exclusively on their running game.

Tam also leads the scoring parade with 51 points but Terra Linda has had the most success on the ground with 333 yards rushing.

Mackin tops the passers with 16 completions in 37 attempts good for 396 yards and six touchdowns and has picked up the most yardage in receptions with 251 yards for nine catches. San Rafael's glue-fingered end Sam Crowell has caught the most passes with 11.

Marin JV Gridders Praised

By ROB HARVEY

Five Marin County Athletic League junior varsity football squads did battle last weekend; only two teams won, but there were some impressive notes:

NOVATO COACH Jerry Colletto yesterday reported that although his troops suffered a 12-7 loss to tough, visiting Petaluma last Saturday, Dennis Baker, a 160-pound tailback, made a fine day of it by scoring the lone Hornet TD on a six-yard sprint. Baker's longest run of the day was 22 yards from the line of scrimmage.

Others cited by Colletto were defensive back Mark Newsom, who "made several key tackles" to force the opposition into punting situations; Mike Matheson, a wingback, who "caught a couple of nice passes," including a 20 yarder, and blocked well; and Glenn Hoisclaw, a middle guard, who played a good defensive game. Colletto also noted, incidentally, that Newsom might be switched to quarterback.

SAN RAFAEL, meanwhile, bopped host Montgomery last Friday, 12-7, thanks to what Coach Gay Quandt described as an "all-out team effort"; while Terra Linda accounted for the other MCAL team victory, rolling over Ukiah last Saturday, 18-0 at Ukiah.

Quandt selected tackle Rafael Galardo, center-linebacker Tom O'Donald, and quarterback Harry Thorgerson for doing an extra-good job in San Rafael's win. He also noted that not once did his team fumble the ball. And that's good in any pigskin contest, never mind the first scrap of the season.

According to assistant varsity coach Jesse Payan of Terra Linda, offensive end Darrell Boyd "did a beautiful job on some long receptions," for the victorious Terra Linda jayvees. Payan also cited the play of quarterback Jerry Goodrich; and linemen Meggs Meier, Carl Hicks and Dane Larson, who did a commendable job on defense along with middle linebacker John Dohn.

ELSEWHERE AROUND the circuit, Vallejo rocked visiting Drake, 32-0, and St. Elizabeth's defeated host Marin Catholic, 12-0. Both games were played last Saturday.

Giants Switch A Farm Team

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — Now that the San Francisco Giants have switched their Twin Falls franchise to Salt Lake, the pioneer league appears set with a solid six-team league.

League President Warren E. Jewell said that at least four other teams have shown interest in taking over the Twin Falls management.

Giants representative Jack Schwarz said the Giants would not leave Twin Falls until a replacement team had been found.

Jewell said that Tooele, Utah, Boise, and the Burley-Rupert area in southern Idaho also were under study for pioneer league franchises.

Dr. Hollis To Receive Conservation Honors

Dr. Virgil Hollis of San Rafael, Marin County Schools superintendent, will receive an award as one of the year's top conservationists Saturday at the Marin Rod and Gun Club at Point San Quentin.

Dr. Hollis won the award for conservation education, one of eight conservation award winners to be honored by the California Wildlife Federation at the banquet.

The awards, were announced by the California Wildlife Federation at the banquet.

The awards, were announced by the California Wildlife Federation which participates in the Conservation Achievement Program conducted annually by the NWF and sponsored by the Sears Roebuck Foundation.

Topping the honorees at the banquet will be Gov. Edmund G. Brown, winner of Conservationist of the Year award.

Fifth Footballer To Die This Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The death of a high school freshman Monday night brought to five the number of football players who have died on the practice field this year.

William Fait, 14, of the Burlington High School team collapsed while practicing punting and died later during surgery.

Three other high school players were among those fatally injured.

Athletics Sign Hurler

KANSAS CITY (UPI) —The Kansas City Athletics signed sandlot pitcher Tommy Williams to a contract yesterday with their Burlington, Iowa, affiliate. Williams was a high school teammate of KC righthander Johnny Odom in Macon, Ga., several years ago.

Bill Rigney Is Rehired

ANAHEIM (AP) — "It's the best contract I have ever had," said Bill Rigney, who will return in 1967 for his seventh season as manager of the California Angels.

Buoyed by the end of speculation that Rigney might move to Detroit, the Angels proceeded to dump the Tigers, 6-2, last night to take a 9-8 lead in the season series.

Rigney, 48, the senior manager in the American League, confirmed that he could have had the Detroit managerial post if he had wanted to make the move. Instead, he accepted another one-year contract at Anaheim.

FOOTBALL CHOICES

Michigan State, UCLA Picked To Win Saturday

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you think the day will come when the football forecaster will be replaced by a computer?

Perhaps the electronic equipment should have been used last week when the figures were 45 correct picks in 60 decisions for .750. That raised the season's totals to 75-27 for .735.

Michigan State over Illinois — Illini couldn't win when thir top back, Cyril Pinder, was well so how can they triumph with him on the injured list? Clint Jones, Spartan rusher, averaging six yards on each carry.

UCLA over Missouri — Beban acts like a B-bomb. Charlie Brown, who does a lot of the playing for Missouri, is ailing. Your television bit for the day.

Mississippi over Alabama — For no reason at all except that Mississippi hasn't beaten Alabama since 1910, and it is time for a change. Ole Miss has won from two tough foes, Alabama warmed up by beating Louisiana Tech.

Southern California over Oregon State — Too many Trojans.

Nebraska over Iowa State — Those Nebraska linemen are so big that the seven-man offense line has to crowd together to keep from going out of bounds.

Arkansas over Texas Christian — TCU had hopes of winning its first three games — Nebraska, Ohio State and Arkansas. But the Horned Frogs lost the first two and also will lose the third.

Michigan over North Carolina — The Big Ten club will rely on Dick Vidmer.

Ohio State over Washington — The Buckeyes now have an air attack plus their usual supply of power runners.

EAST -- Penn over Brown, Boston College over VMI, Buffalo over Villanova, Colgate over Cornell, Harvard over Tufts, Dartmouth over Holy Cross, Princeton over Columbia, Syracuse over Maryland, Yale over Rutgers.

SOUTH — The Citadel over East Tennessee State, Duke over Virginia, William and Mary over Georgetown, Kentucky over Auburn, Miami, Fla., over Louisiana State, Memphis State over Southern Mississippi, Mississippi State over Richmond, Georgia over South Carolina, Florida over Vanderbilt, Virginia Tech over West Virginia, North Carolina State over Wake Forest.

MIDWEST — Bowling Green over Dayton, Colorado over Kansas State, Wisconsin over Iowa, Kent State over Ohio University, Louisville over North Texas State, Miami, Ohio, over Western Michigan; Minnesota over Kansas, Toledo over Marshall, Wichita over Cincinnati.

SOUTHWEST — Houston over Oklahoma State, Texas Tech over Texas A&M, Texas over Indiana, Texas Western over New Mexico.

FAR WEST — Air force over Navy, Arizona State over West Texas State, California over Pittsburgh, Brigham Young over Colorado State, Friday night; Idaho over Pacific University, Oregon over San Jose, Stanford over Tulane, Utah State over New Mexico State, Baylor over Washington State, Wyoming over Arizona.

Charley Johnson Player Of Week

There is something about Cleveland's Municipal Stadium that brings out the best in Charley Johnson of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I don't know what it is, but we all feel good here," Johnson said after passing the Cards to a 34-28 victory over the Browns Sunday. "It's easy for everyone to get in the right frame of mind coming here."

The right frame of mind for Johnson consisted of throwing three touchdown passes, completing 11 of 20 for 218 yards.

It was enough to earn him recognition by The Associated Press as Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

Long Course, Small Greens For Canadian Open Tourney

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — The length of the course and the size of the greens prompted comment of too long and too small by pros practicing for the $100,000 Canadian Open Golf Tournament, but defending champion Gene Littler disagrees.

"I don't think you can really say any course is suited to any particular golfer," Littler said on the eve of the four-day tournament starting tomorrow.

"If a man is playing well, he will play any course well. And if he isn't playing well, it doesn't make any difference what course he's on.

"The greens are a nice size. It's just that there are so many footprints in them...they're soft and wet and slow."

"And the greens are raised. This means there is a very small target to shoot at, and if you miss, there is a tough shot left."

Casper feels all facets of a player's game will be needed on the Shaughnessy Country Club course and a score of "280 to 284 will win a very big pay check."

"The golfer with the long ball off the tee will definitely have a big edge," said Fred Wood, former U.S. National Seniors' Open champion and pro of the host club.

Wood, who picks Jack Nicklaus to win, said some of the touring professionals have told him the fairways are too long for the average Sunday golfer, but he feels the weather and humidity have made them appear longer.

"Because of the humidity, the golfers are not getting the distance in the air and the damp grass slows the ball after it hits," he said.

Twelve holes are more than 400 yards and two are about 550.

Most of the top money winners on the tour will be among the 144 starters that will be lowered to the top 70 and ties after the first two rounds.

Along with Nicklaus, Casper and Littler are Doug Sanders, Chi Chi Rodriguez, and some 95 others are on the tour.

Professional Golfers Association officials said three of the top pros have pulled out—Phil Rodgers, Mike Souchak and Dave Hill.

Competition gets serious today with 240 pros and amateurs taking part in a pro-am tournament. Each of the 60 top pros will take three amateurs into the 18-hole pro-am.

Motorcycle Club Seeks Members

The seven-month-old San Rafael Motorcycle Club is looking for new members.

Any card-carrying members of the American Motorcycle Assn. who are interested in joining the San Rafael group can do so at its next meeting, tomorrow night, 8 o'clock, at 116 Greenfield Avenue, San Rafael.

The San Rafael club was organized last March and so far boasts 20 members. Monte Schaulis of Fairfax is president.

Rough Day For Marin Tennis Trio

It was sort of like facing Sandy Koufax on your first day in the majors.

That's what happened to three Marin County tennis players in the 77th Pacific Coast International Championships at the Berkeley Tennis Club yesterday.

Machette was knocked out by Allen Fox, the UCLA graduate student who lists the likes of Roy Emerson, Fred Stolle and Manuel Santana as his victims, 6-0, 6-2.

Cullen Wins TKO

NEWCASTLE, England (UPI) —Maurice Cullen of Britain recorded his 36th victory in 42 fights when he scored an eighth-round TKO over Valerio Nunez of Argentina last night.

Starr, Meredith, Johnson Leading The NFL Passers

NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay, Dallas and St. Louis can credit the passing of their quarterbacks — Bart Starr, Don Meredith and Charley Johnson — with their unbeaten success in the National Football League.

None of the three teams has a runner among the top eight ground gainers in the league, but those three signal callers lead the NFL in passing, statistics released today show.

Star has the best over-all average with 46 completions in 69 throws for 633 yards, four touchdowns and a 9.17 yard average per toss for the Packers, 3-0.

Meredith of Dallas, 2-0, tops the rest with seven scoring heaves and an 11.11 yard average per throw while connecting on 22 passes in 46 attempts for 511 yards.

Johnson of the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-0, leads the league with 667 yards and is tied for the top with 49 completions . He has thrown 80 times for four touchdowns and a 8.34 yard average.

Bill Brown of Minnesota has replaced retired Jim Brown as the rushing leader with 278 yards on 54 carries for a 5.1 average. Brown's replacement, Leroy Kelly, is second with 214 yards on 46 tries for a 4.7 yard average. He has four touchdowns, best among the top ten.

Bobby Mitchell of Washington, returning to his form of several years ago, is tied with former Green Bay halfback Tom Moore of Los Angeles, and Jackie Smith of St. Louis with 15 catches. Smith's receptions have gone for 281 yards, or 18.7 a catch.

Mitchell's total is 262 yards, or 17.5 per catch. But John Mackey of Baltimore, tied with five others for third with 13 catches, has a 19.5 average per catch and three touchdowns for 253 total yards.

Lou Michaels of Baltimore, a perfect kicker, leads the league in scoring with 29 points. He has made all seven of his field goal attempts and is 8-8 on extra points.

Leaders in other categories are Jim Bradshaw, Pittsburgh, four interceptions; Dave Lee, Baltimore 52.1 yard punting average on nine kicks; Al Haymond, Baltimore, seven punts returns for 108 yards and a 15.4 average, and Dick Gordon, Chicago, three kickoffs returns for 146 yards and a 48.7 average.

Warriors Win Exhibition Tilt

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Paul Neumann led a late rally to give San Francisco a 125-118 overtime win over Philadelphia in a National Basketball Association exhibition game last night.

Neumann, a 6 foot 1 veteran guard from Stanford, continually scored soft jump shots in the last quarter to pull the Warriors even and finished with 26 points.

Rick Barry, NBA rookie of the year for San Francisco last year, led scoring with 28. Hal Greer had 26 for Philadelphia.

Test Your Sense Of Football History

All right, students, the subject for today is "The Romance of Football," starring Toby Wing and Jose Iturbi and a cast of thousands. It is an action-packed, audience participation drama in which we try to bring you up-to-date on all the lush lore of the grand old game which has brought to our culture the limp, the stitch, the steel plate and 33 ways to recognize the concussion, and whose coat of arms is a sea of crutches rampant on a border of plasma.

The game is rich in anecdotage from raccoon coat to hemorrhage, from flask to oxygen tent, and our purpose today is to test you for your sense of football history. Seventy-five per cent correct answers entitle you to wear a beanie and carry two pompoms to the next home game. Fifty per cent or fewer, and you have your viewing privileges to "Countdown to Kickoff" lifted and you must turn in your seat in the moving card tricks.

Q. Now, football lore has it that, on his death bed, George Gipp implored coach Knute Rockne to "win one for the Old Gipper." Did he? Or what is the real origin of this deathless saying?

A. In a card game in the old Oliver Hotel in South Bend, Gip lost six straight pots, and, as Rockne passed by in the hall, he heard him tell the dealer: "How about winning one for the Old Gipper?"

Q. Legend had it, Rockne saved the request for a tight spot for his team. Did he?

A. Yes. That tight spot occurred in the first seven games the following year and once with each incoming squad for the next 12 years. At last count, Notre Dame had won 212 games for the Old Gipper, not to mention two national championships, a Rose Bowl game and the 1927 basketball playoff against Purdue. They "lost one for the Old Gipper" 11 times.

Q. How did "The Four Horsemen" get their nicknames?

A. They played the races heavily.

Q. Who was "The Galloping Ghost"?

A. Vincent Price.

Q. During their West Point careers, Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard were known as "Mr. Outside" and "Mr. Inside," respectively. Can you tell us why?

A. Easy. Blanchard stayed in the Army, Davis got out.

Q. The linebacker assigned to tackle Blanchard was known as what?

A. Mr. Lop-side.

Q. What was the "dream backfield"?

A. The University of Chicago backfield after Hutchins became president.

Q. What does a coach mean when he says a team has "desire"?

A. The same thing an all-night movie does.

Q. It is said football teaches us many lessons which can carry over into real life. Does it?

A. I'll say! It teaches you very early in the game that institutions, even great institutions, will break rules when it is to their economic advantage to do so. It also encourages athletes to get good grades. Even if they have to cheat on exams to do it.

Q. But how does it prepare you for the game of life?

A. If you get a million dollars from the Houston Oilers—baby, you're prepared!

Q. We have heard of the "Vow Boys" and the "Wow Boys"; who are the "Ow! Boys"?

A. The scrubs on the Notre Dame practice field who simulate enemy plays all week. Their team colors are black and blue and their varsity letters are in the form of welts.

Q. What does it take to make a great pro player?

A. Usually, about $10,000 of the taxpayers' money, a generous allowance from a rich alumnus, and a college curriculum liberal enough to recognize the importance of basketweaving, bead work, techniques of the modern dance, first aid and driver education to our civilization. If our hero can't cut it in the pros, he is in perfect position for a career as a school crossing guard or the head smoke-signaller for a pueblo Indian tribe.

Deputy Sheriff Leads Bowling Scores

Lee Brown of Novato, a deputy for the Marin County Sheriff's office, was high bowler for the week at Nave Lanes near Ignacio when he rolled a 635 series in the Friday Leftovers League.

Brown, a 164-average bowler, had games of 235, 232 and 168 for his big series. Sausalito tavern owner Walt Silva was right behind Brown with a 633 series topped by a 245 line. Only one pin back at 632 was young Jim Pistolesi of Larkspur. Silva and Pistolesi rolled their scores in the 905 Traveling League.

Stan Walker had top game of the week, a 247, and Chico Valsechhi had a 246, both in the 905 Traveling League.

Myrna Sjoblom, Novato mother of three, led the women with a 593 series and 230 game in the California Trophy Traveling League. Marge McDaniel had a 226 line and Rosalie Sloan a 223, both in the Women's Classic.

Market Shut Lower In Moderate Trading

Du Pont and Motorola set a bad example, as in the previous session—Du Pont for the blue chips and Motorola for the high flyers. Both were down sharply.

The invitation to television set producers and other electronic producers to a Commerce Department meeting, presumably to discuss price increases, was another factor which put a damper on the high flyers.

The market turned irregularly lower after a mixed opening. It widened its losses until late in the day and then staged a limited recovery.

Volume was 6.4 million shares compared with 6.31 million yesterday.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Spread Stock Holdings For Geographic Diversity

By ROGER SPEAR

Q. "In our mid-50s, hoping to retire shortly and settle in Florida, we're thinking about the following securities with your approval. Where can we buy them? Florida Tel. Corp., Florida Power and Light, Florida Growth Management, First National Bank of Orlando." J. H.

A. Seldom have I seen so much enthusiasm for a proposed new home site as is expressed in your list of Florida-based corporations as investment media. However, as I believe in geographic as well as industry diversification, I cannot go along with your plan. Furthermore, retired persons need maximum income from their investments, so you would do far better by holding some of the income issues I've recently mentioned.

Florida Power and Light and Florida Telephone are growth stocks with low yields. You might buy one or the other for a stake in Florida's development. Then you should consider national breadth for your portfolio, even though it is a modest one, and aim for 5 to 6 per cent return on your capital. Your bank could recommend a broker to buy your stocks for you.

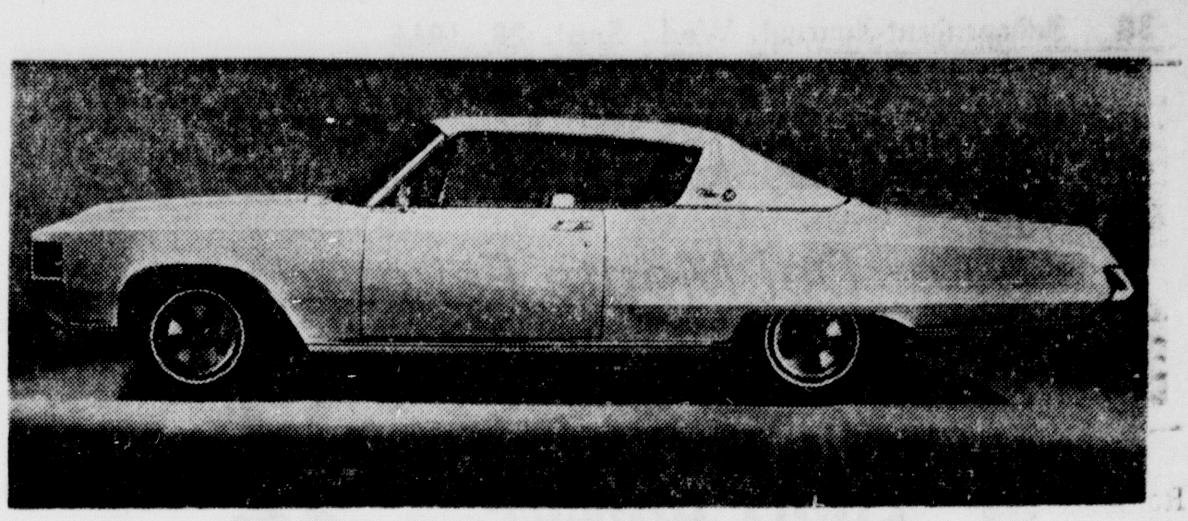
Q. "My late husband left me considerable American Telephone stock. Though its rapid fall concerns me, I never felt it would fail its owners. Should I sell? Many of my friends have inherited this stock, so your advice will interest them also." M. P.

A. A considerable holding of one stock in a relatively small portfolio raises the twin problems of disproportionate allocation of capital and need for wider diversification. If these questions enhance your concern, I advise selling some of your telephone shares and investing the proceeds where the yield will be higher and prospective long-term capital gains are an added attraction.

I agree with you that Mother Bell is not likely to fail her owners. She has suffered from the fact that the FCC investigation coincided with the general market slump. Shares have been unduly depressed even while earnings have continued to advance. Retain a reasonable proportion of American Telephone.

Foreign Beef Imports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans are eating more foreign beef than ever before. Imports of beef jumped to 100 million pounds in June, twice the monthly average for 1965.



LEADS THE 1967 DODGE LINE

The Polara (above) and the Monaco, headlining the new Dodge line, are offered in nine and six separate models respectively. Cars have new body sculpture, angular front ends and a rakish rear deck treatment. Polaras and Monacos have 122-inch wheelbases this year for better ride and handling. Cars will be on sale at San Rafael Dodge, San Rafael, and Nave's Dodge and Dodge Dart, Novato.

MARIN BUSINESS DOINGS

Greenbrae Man Gets Ad Firm Promotion

WILLIAM J. CAIN of Greenbrae has been appointed vice president of Cunningham and Walsh Inc., a national advertising agency with headquarters in New York and office in San Francisco.

Cain

Cain has been with the agency since 1953, having worked both as a copywriter and account executive.

GARY D. NELSON of 9 Brookside Drive, San Anselmo, personnel director of Marin General Hospital for the past two years, has been elected president of the Bay Area Chapter of the Personnel Management Assn. for 1966-67. The Bay Area chapter, of 55 members, is the result of a merger of the San Francisco and peninsula chapters.

Incorporation papers have been filed in Sacramento for a new Marin business, Salt's Enterprises, retail fish and chip stores.

Directors listed were Hadden and Grace Salt of 69 Chula Vista Drive, San Rafael, and Edward Chirardo, 213 Grande Vista, Novato.

EDWARD C. BRENDEL, manager of an Enco gasoline service station at 930 Del Presidio Boulevard, San Rafael, has been elected to the company's advisory council. He is one of 20 managers representing 1,250 Enco managers from the six-state western region for Humble Oil and Refining Co.

WOODLAND AVENUE LAUNDERETTE at Bret Hart Center is scheduled to have a grand opening Oct. 1. The operators will be Donald K. Sherwood, 19 Knoll Road, San Rafael, and his father-in-law, James E. Knelson. K and B Commercial of San Francisco is installing the equipment for the coin operated laundry.

Novato High School is conducting a class on investments Monday evenings with Ted A. Murray of Francis and Murray Inc., Novato, as instructor. The course started Monday (Sept. 19) at 7:30 p.m., Room 31, and will continue for eight sessions.

Three Marin residents, Robert A. Davies, Belvedere; Bernard R. Whitehill, San Anselmo; and Mrs. Eve B. Wyatt, Sausalito, have qualified as members of the 1966 President's Council of New York Life Insurance Co. All are field underwriters with the company's San Francisco general office and were selected on the basis of their 1965-66 sales records. They have been invited to attend a conference Oct. 2-7 in Bal Harbor, Fla.

Willy F. Sorenson has joined Marcona Corp., a bulk transportation, ore mining and sales agency in San Francisco, as assistant to S. C. Cook, manager of the chartering department.

Insurance Sales Classes Slated

Marin Life Underwriters Assn., in conjunction with College of Marin, will sponsor three classes for life insurance salesmen beginning with the Oct. 5 session.

A class in preparation for the June examination in part one, Certified Life Underwriter, gets under way Oct. 27, and a life underwriters training course, part two, begins Oct. 25.

All classes will meet from 4 to 6:30 p.m. at the college. Deadline for registration is next Thursday.

All Of The Public Has Right To The Courtroom

The courtroom is a public place, like the city hall, where the public has a right to come, view the proceedings, and to approve or disapprove of what goes on.

The press is the eyes and ears of the public.

These are the thoughts expressed by Jordan L. Martinelli when he served as Marin superior judge some years ago.

To our way of thinking, these ideas are still valid.

But they are being accepted less and less these days.

Despite a legislative resolution asking the California Judicial Council to withhold action on a proposed rule to ban photographers from courtrooms, the rule was adopted.

The standard argument against photographers in the courtroom is that their presence tends to turn the proceedings into a carnival or spectacle.

This view ignores the fact that photographers, like other members of the public, are spectators. The participants — judge and attorneys — are the principal performers. It doesn't make sense to limit spectators so as to impose controls on performers.

It would be wholly proper to admit photographers and require that they remain spectators. That is, the moment they interfere with proceedings, they could and should be ejected. That way, those photographers competent to work without interfering could remain as the all-important "eyes of the public."

The imposition of the photographer ban reached a new high in stupidity in Orange County Court in Santa Ana not long ago.

Perhaps some good will come out of this ridiculous situation. It serves to illustrate how silly is the arbitrary ban of photographers from courtrooms.

Perhaps the very ludicrousness of the Santa Ana incident will lead to modifying the rule along more intelligent and reasonable lines. We hope so.

The Legend Of The Wild

Have you heard the legend of Marin's wild unias? They were really wild. They danced all night every night and really boozed it up. They defied the police and parental authority.

Then came a meek, little man — a gardener with a trowel, some fertilizer and a tender touch with plants. "I shall tame these wild unias," he said. "They will respond to my tender, loving care."

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Neither Brown, Reagan Answers Entirely Pleasing To Rafferty

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Dr. Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction, no doubt has let himself in for an avalanche of criticism from outraged supporters of Gov. Edmund G. Brown because of his endorsement of Ronald Reagan in the gubernatorial race.

The superintendent, who has his own re-election chores safely out of the way for this year —being returned for another four years in the June primary —had posed six questions for each of the two candidates. In that the questions went into some areas in which Brown's administration has been criticized by Reagan and others, there was no doubt that they were more favorable for Reagan to be answering.

AS IT WAS, Brown declined to answer any of the questions. Instead, he sent Rafferty a lengthy statement on education which he had made previously. Reagan, on the other hand, answered all the questions although some of the answers did not suit Rafferty entirely.

"If the governor had come out with straightforward, positive answers, I would have taken no position at all," Rafferty said. "I mean every word I say."

Rafferty is a Republican but serves as the state's chief education officer on a non-partisan basis. So there is a question of the propriety in his taking sides in a partisan campaign. He believes it is perfectly proper.

"I'M GOING to talk loudly and clearly about the education issues right up to election day," Rafferty said. "That's why the people sent me to Sacramento —not to push papers from one side of my desk to the other."

Rafferty said he believed the voters, who have elected him twice, want to see his program of "Education in Depth" carried out for their children.

"I've learned that if I want a candidate's future help, I'd better get him on record while he's running, not after he is elected," Rafferty said. "This is what I've tried to do, not for myself, but for the children.

"Mr. Reagan is now firmly on the record," he said. "I know what his future plans for education are, and if he should be elected, I will hold him to them."

THE SUPERINTENDENT pointed out he felt educational issues were not a matter of conservatism or liberalism or Republican or Democratic in nature.

As for the mixing of partisan and non-partisan politics, Rafferty has been on the receiving end of that several times. When he first ran for election in 1962, Dr. Ralph Richardson, who had been on Governor Brown's secretarial staff, was his opponent. Rafferty won.

SINCE HIS election then, Rafferty's principal foe has been Thomas W. Braden, Oceanside publisher who is Brown's appointed president of the State Board of Education. The board has most of the policy-making authority in education and Braden and Rafferty seldom have seen eye to eye.

Braden and others often have charged Rafferty with having ambitions to run for partisan office. However, it was Braden, while remaining in his position of president of the board of education, who was an unsuccessful candidate in the June primary for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Population Increase Added To Problems

Editor, Independent-Journal:

To Mr. (A. Crawford) Greene's list of national woes (I-J Sept. 21) Would add the exploding population as a factor which underlies many of our troubles. It's a malignancy sneaking ahead at the rate of two births to one death, attracting little attention, though highly responsible for the snowballing problems of conservation, pollution, welfare and intergroup frictions. Pouring billions into parks, anti-pollution programs, housing and recreation soothes the symptoms but does nothing to cure or even slow down the disease.

The cure could be achieved, as in Japan, with voluntary birth control available to all. Two birth control methods, voluntary sterilization and contraception are legally permissible in the United States but for various reasons are ineffectively curbing the population growth. Another method, legalized abortion, is now necessary to stabilize the population and will continue to be necessary until contraceptives become much more widely and intellegently used or until more satisfactory techniques are developed. . .

Poverty War Costs Are Political Plum

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Marin County has joined most of the nation by nibbling at the piece of cheese in the War on Poverty trap, per an item appearing in the Sept. 21 I-J.

The county is to have $120,000 ($108,000 federal money—yours and mine; and the balance undoubtedly yours and mine, too) for this great crusade toward fairness, opportunity and euality (they say). The item proceeded to report that, of this money, $100,000 was earmarked for administering the program (? salaries).

Now I ask you, how much "poverty" will be averted with the $20,000 remaining? This entire program is being exposed nation-wide as ridiculous in its inefficiency, ineffectiveness and incredibility, and as a fantastic source of unfettered funds for a favored few to whom a political debt is owed. Think about it, fellow citizen-taxpayer-voters!!

Nicasio Valley Tour Added To Itinerary

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The recent letter from Parker Wood, president of the Marin County Historical Society, of a suggested tour of Marin County places of historical and scenic interest certainly contained many excellent such places in our county.

It is submitted that any such tour should include a drive through the Nicasio Valley, which is generally agreed by all who have seen it to be one of the most beautiful and unspoiled spots in all of Marin County. This would include a drive by Our Lady of Loretta Catholic Church, which will celebrate its 100th birthday next year, and "The Little Red Schoolhouse" which will have its 100th birthday in 1971. Both are in excellent condition, and continue to be the objects of an indeterminate number of painters' brushes and camera lenses. The ride out of Nicasio should be through the beautiful Lucas Valley, from which virgin redwoods were cut over a hundred years ago to provide the lumber for buildings of the pioneers in San Francisco and other parts of the Bay Area.

I-J Articles Reveal Man Getting Older

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I am enjoying Barbara Hosmer's articles, "African Travels," appearing currently in the Independent-Journal. They are interesting and well written, and offer a varied picture of life on the Dark Continent, scenery, natives, wild life, even archeology.

Apropos of the latter, I just read that Dr. Louis Leaky, still digging in Africa, has unearthed some human remains, (indubitably human, he says) that are approximately 400 million years old, five times older than any human, or humanoid, remains yet discovered. His "find" consists of a fossilized tooth and jaw, a woman's foot and a boy's hand. Dr. Leaky has named it "Homo Habilis," but calls it familiarly, "Our Dear Boy."

I can remember when the Heidelberg man, the Java man, the Piltdown man, the Peking man, were old-timers. Looks like we'll have to keep setting the hands of the evolutionary clock back further all the time.

Plea Given To Save Lost, Strayed Pets

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Having recently adopted a Siamese cat from the Humane Society's animal shelter in San Rafael, I wish to issue a plea to owners of lost pets and would-be-owners of pets.

In wandering around the premises, we encountered unhappy pets longing for love and attention. Primarily interested in adopting a cat, we saw numerous well behaved cats who would be "put to sleep" after six days at the shelter. These lovable animals ranged from kittens to fully grown cats—from alley cats to Siamese and Persians—piteously crying for attention and petting.

It is suggested to those who have lost pets to contact the animal shelter at an early date, and those who would like to offer a home to one of these appealing felines to pay a visit to the organization with a view to adopting a lost pet.

Although we were primarily interested in cats, the same holds true to "man's best friend," who may be found at the shelter in similar circumstances.

Marin Historical Record Cleaned Up

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Another note in the never-ending effort to keep Marin's historical record straight.

Referring to the caption of photo (upper left corner, Page 8, Sept. 21 I-J). "Chalk cliffs like those of Dover' described by Drake . . ."

The cliffs were not described by Drake. Neither his journal nor the log or maps of his famous round-the-world voyage have ever been found. The description cames from Francis Fletcher, a member of Drake's crew, in a rambling, wordy narrative which appeared in print more than 10 years after the voyage.

If, indeed, Drake's descriptions could be found we could probably discover just where this famous English navigator actually careened his treasure laden ship.

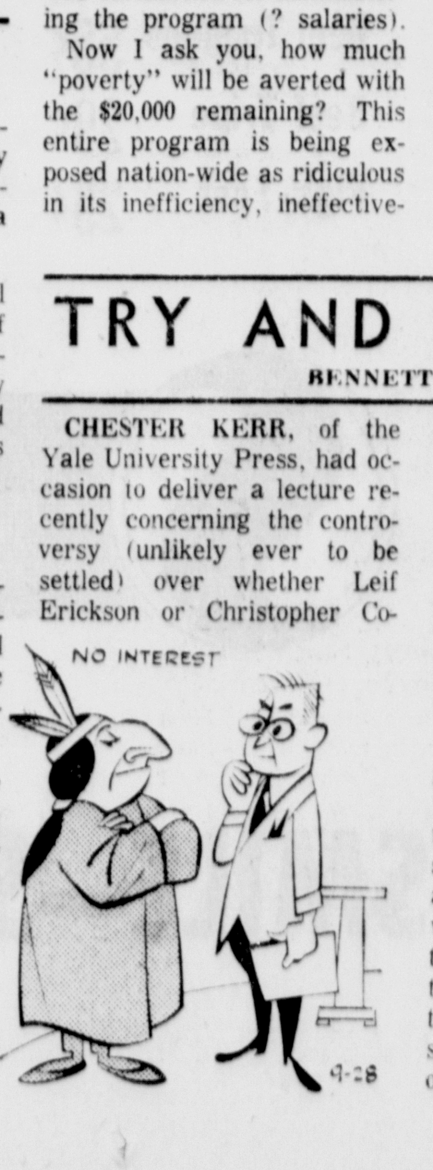
CHESTER KERR, of the Yale University Press, had occasion to deliver a lecture recently concerning the controversy (unlikely ever to be settled) over whether Leif Erickson or Christopher Columbus should be credited with the discovery of America. At the conclusion of Mr. Kerr's remarks, an Indian chief named Half Moon button-holed him to say, "You will have to forgive me, sir, for saying that this controversy interests neither me nor my people."



THERE'S AN OLD curmudgeon up Bedford, Mass. way who, first, protested that a picture was too risque to be shown in the local movie palace; second, went to see if it was as shocking as the advertisements proclaimed it, and, third, raised all get-out with the management because the spiciest scenes had been cut out.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Romney Trying To Show He Can Help Elect Republican Senator

DETROIT—The stakes in the Michigan senatorial race are far greater than the loss or gain of one seat in the U. S. Senate.

At stake is political survival —or extinction—of one of the powerhouses of the liberal wing of the Democratic party, G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams, six-term Governor and recently resigned Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

At stake is a large and, perhaps, crucially needed plus which Gov. George Romney may now have within his means to put into the hands of the eager Romney-for-President supporters. They want nothing so much as clear, conclusive proof that the Romney vote appeal can help elect other republicans.

These are the reasons why this unexpectedly close and burgeoning battle between Senator-by-appointment Robert Griffin and politician-by-trade Soapy Williams concerns not only the state of Michigan but the shape of politics nationally for both parties.

IN THE PAST ROMNEY has been viewed pretty much as a loner and has campaigned largely as a loner. The special success which he has enjoyed regularly at the polls, like General Eisenhower's and Mayor John Lindsay's is due in part to his campaigning somewhat above the partisan battle. In this role he has won mounting majorities.

But the rest of the Michigan republican ticket has usually not fared well. This is what enables some republicans to sniff that, while Romney may be good for Romney, he does not do much for the party as a whole.

This year Romney is doing it differently. He is campaigning zealously for Sen. Griffin. They are often together on the stump.

AND FOR A REASON. He wants to demonstrate that he can help elect a republican senator since Michigan republicans haven't had one for a long time and he wants to put one more useful arrow in the quiver of the Romney-for-President supporters so they don't have to go around countering the argument that Romney isn't a good party man.

It is not too hard to do. This time he doesn't have to concentrate quite so much on his own race. He is pretending to "run scared" and is working hard at it.

But there are quite a few Michigan voters who don't even recognize the name of his opponent, Zolton A. Ferency, a bright, sharp, free-swinging liberal who has never run for public office before. While some can't think of his name, President Johnson couldn't think how to pronounce it (accent on first syllable) when he tossed his name into a Labor Day speech here.

What is surprising is that young Robert Griffin, who was appointed senator by Romney only a few months ago, is proving such a formidable candidate against the experience, likeable, and well-known Soapy Williams.

GRIFFIN BEGAN stronger than many thought he would. Last July a Detroit News poll showed that he was only one percentage point behind Williams and this past week it found Griffin ahead of Williams 51 to 48 per cent with the fantastically low of only 3 per cent undecided.

But former Governor Williams has been idled for several weeks by an operation and is just beginning to get his campaign rolling.

Hidden Funds Founc In Rights Program

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—Congressional probers have tracked down and eliminated more than $1 million in hidden funds for "civil rights activities" in the Johnson administration's current budget.

This backstage search, which so far has involved only two departments, is being expanded to include all government agencies.

THIS EXTRAORDINARY hidden fund search was ordered by the House Appropriations Committee after Rep. John Fogarty, D-R.I., head of the subcommittee in charge of the budgets of the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare Departments, discovered provisions for money for "civil rights activities" scattered throughout their budgets.

Appropriations committeemen were astonished by Fogarty's report that a study of the HEW budget had disclosed "more than 25 separate civil rights funds" totaling nearly $1 million.

This hidden money was in addition to the department't specific request for $3.3 million for civil rights enforcement programs. These funds were approved but the others were rejected.

They included:

"National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases $105,000; National Cancer Institute $91,000; National Heart Institute $60,000; National Institute of Blindness $42,000; National Institute of Child Health and Human Development $62,000.

"Office of Surgeon General $138,000; construction of health education facilities $67,000; National Institute of General Medical Programs $62,000; hospital construction $19,000; Division of Regional Medical Programs $20,000.

"Bureau of Family Services $50,000; Chronic Diseases and Health of Aged $45,000; Air Pollution $16,000; communicable diseases activities $10,000; Radiological Health $9,000; Occupational Health $8,000; National Library of Medicine $7,000; and Injury Control $1,000."

IN CALLING these hidden funds to the attention of the full Appropriations Committee, Representative Fogarty declared his "subcommittee is in full agreement that the civil rights acts should be enforced, but the money for that should be fully known to Congress and the American taxpayers."

The Senate Appropriations Committee, at the instigation of Senator Lister Hill, D-Ala., chairman, also struck out these hidden funds.

He is also pressing for an investigation to determine just how much money the administration is seeking for civil rights enforcement and whether there is duplication between agencies.

DEMOCRATIC HOUSE leaders are making a strenuous last-minute effort to block an investigation of the U.S. Office of Education.

In a series of backstage talks with Rep. Howard Smith, D-Va., chairman of the Rules Committee, the legislative leaders worked out a compromise under which the committee will reconsider its vote approving the probe.

At a meeting in Speaker John McCormack's office, Smith agreed to another vote after Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the powerful Judiciary Committee, presents the administration's arguments against an investigation.

IN EXCHANGE for Smith's permitting a second vote, the Democratic leaders will allow the full House to vote on the proposed investigation if the Rules Committee again approves that.

The proposal for a probe was sponsored by Rep. George Andrews, D-Ala. It set up a special five-member committee to look into the guidelines laid down by the Office of Education for the desegregation of schools under Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Only One Lost Letter Turns Up; Mayors Seem To Stay In Office

When the San Rafael Post Office moved its mail sorting facilities to 48 Bellam Boulevard, some wondered how many old, undelivered letters might be turned up in the move. After all, the post office had been at its Third and D streets location nearly three decades.

Only one such letter was found, according to Postmaster Warren H. Williams. Postmarked last Dec. 14, it had slipped behind a sorting table into a place of concealment. Williams sent it along to the addressee with a note of apology.

THE SAN RAFAEL CHARTER Revision Committee had been split over whether the mayor's term should be two years, as at present, or four years. A majority of the committee holds a four-year term would give a mayor a better chance to prove his program; a minority feels that the present system is preferable because it puts two councilmen and the mayor up for election every two years, making it possible for voters to change the majority of the council at any election.

A search through the records indicates the argument is rather academic. Although a mayor can now be changed every two years, it's never happened in the last two decades.

In 1947, Robert Austin won a three-way mayoralty race. In 1949 he was elected unopposed.

Austin stepped down in 1951, and Edward A. Culver ran unopposed. Culver was re-elected without opposition in 1953 and '55.

In 1957, after Culver had been in office six years, John F. McInnis defeated him and Orlando Conti in a three-way race, moving up from councilman to mayor.

In 1959, and again in '61 and '63, McInnis was re-elected without opposition. He stepped out in '65, and C. Paul Bettini defeated Coucilman Charles W. Aby for the mayoralty. On the book, Bettini appears likely to repeat next April.

DID I SAY THAT? DEPT.— "If it's going to be oysters, it's not going to get my vote." — County Supervisor Peter H. Behr in discussion of Marin County's exhibit for the state fair, on April 6.

Next week, Behr was one of four supervisors voting to have a fair exhibit featuring the Tomales Bay oyster beds. Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen abstained.

The exhibit, incidentally, won third place in its class among county displays at the fair in Sacramento.

BUT HERE IS A REAL "DID I SAY THAT?"

"Vote NO on Props. 1 and 2. Elective or appointive? Your right to vote for the candidate of your choice will be lost if the change is made. Vote NO on Jan. 22 to be sure this American privilege will still be yours. Citizen Committee Opposed to Charter Change, C. Paul Bettini, chairman."

The propositions would have made the San Rafael police chief and city attorney appointive. Both were defeated.

NOW HEAR THIS:

Mayor C. Paul Bettini, in charging the San Rafael charter Revision Committee last summer, urged that it look into making the police chief appointive. On a Radio KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" program on Sept. 15, he endorsed a committeeman's proposal that police chief, city attorney, and treasurer-tax collector should all be appointive.

Yes, it's the same Bettini. But in 1963 he was on the board of education. Now he's been a year and a half in the mayor's chair, with a closeup, participating view of city government. It's made a difference.

How They Select Intellectual To Advise President Johnson

WASHINGTON — The resignation of Prof. Eric Goldman as the White House intellectual-in-residence produced a series of charges and countercharges as to President Johnson's attitude toward the egghead community.

The administration is so sensitive to criticism in regard to intellectuals that an immediate nation-wide search was ordered for Prof. Goldman's replacement.

One of the candidates called in was Prof. Heinrich Applebaum of Water Shortage Teachers College. The interview went something like this.

"NOW PROF. APPLEBAUM," a White House aide said, "this is probably the most important job in the entire administration. President Johnson wants to keep a running dialogue going between himself and the country's intellectuals, and you will be the liaison between the Great Society and the educated masses."

"That's very interesting. What do I do?"

"Let me show you your office. It's located in the East Wing of the White House because that puts you closer to Yale, Harvard and Princeton than the West Wing."

"YOU PEOPLE THINK of everything," Prof Applebaum said in admiration.

They walked into a spacious office. It was bare except for a desk, a chair, a typewriter and two telephones, one black and one red.

"What are the phones for?" Applebaum asked.

"The black one is an outside line. If an intellectual calls, your job is to answer it."

"What do I say?" Applebaum wanted to know.

"What should I talk about?"

"I don't know. Whatever intellectuals talk about—Spinoza, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Norman Mailer? Anything that strikes you."

"That doesn't seem like much to do," Applebaum said.

"That's only part of your duties. You have many other important responsibilities. For example, if a secretary in the White House can't spell a word, she will call you."

"THAT'S A LITTLE more more like it," Applebaum said.

"You also will help Mrs. Johnson in her beautification program."

"How?"

"As you know, when you plant a tree, it's very hard to break ground, particularly in the winter. So your job is to loosen up the earth to make it easier for the First Lady."

"YOU NEED AN intellectual for that?"

"Everyone in the White House has to double up."

"Okay. By the way, what's the red phone for?"

"That's your direct line to the President."

"But the wire isn't connected."

"Nobody but you will know that."

"IS THERE anything else?"

"One in a while you'll be called on to help with Pat Nugent's homework, but it won't be too often."

The professor sat down at the desk and began typing.

"What are you doing?" the White House aide demanded.

"I'M STARTING my book about my life in the Johnson administration."

The aide ripped the paper out of the typewriter. "Nobody said you had the job yet. There are several candidates in the running."

Applebaum put another sheet in the typewriter. "It doesn't make any difference. I've got enough information already."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

Opening Lead Isn't All There Is To Game; More Help Needed

The openin glead is the most important single play in the game, but it may not be enough to defeat the contract.

You may need some intelligent cooperation from your partner.

Opening lead — ♡ 3

West reviewed the bidding in his mind before he led.

Dummy had bid three suits and was obviously short in diamonds. West therefore led a trump.

EAST SHREWD

East shrewdly refused the first trick, hoping to get all of the trumps out of the dummy before declarer could ruff a dismond.

South should have started the spades but actually led a diamond from dummy at the second trick.

West won the first diamond and led his other trump, whereupon East took the ace of hearts and led a third heart.

Now South was unable to ruff a diamond in dummy and had to play for a favorable break in spades or for a winning club finesse.

Both plays failed, and South eventually went down two.

NORMAL LEA D

South makes the hand easily if West makes the "normal" lead of the king of diamonds.

West switches to trumps, and East must now take the ace of trumps and return a trump at once.

Now South draws the last trump and gets to dummy with the king of clubs to cash the last spade.

CREDIT IS DUE

Give West credit for a good lead, and East credit for a good play at the first trick.

South can make the contract if East takes the ace of hearts and returns a heart at once.

West wins but cannot get the last trump out of the dummy, so declarer can ruff a diamond in dummy and ruff another spade before drawing the last trump.

DAILY QUESTION

♠ A K 8 7 3
♦ 5
♣ K J 9 4

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid on spade.

You have 11 points in high cards and 2 points for the singleton, enough for an optional opening bid.

You would pass if your jack were in hearts or diamonds, where it would not be as useful. As the hand stands it is just barely worth an opening bid.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday Sept. 28 the 271st day of 1966 with 94 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase; The morning stars are Saturn, Mars and Jupiter; The evening star is Saturn.

American social reformer Frances Willard was born on this day in 1839.

On this day in history:

In 1745, English theater-goers sang "God Save the King" for the first time after the Jacobites led by Bonnie Prince Charles defeated English forces under Sir John Cope.

In 1937, President Franklin D. Roosevelt dedicated the Bonneville Dam on the Columbia River in Oregon.

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a minus sign (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. The smile in your voice could be worth a starting salary of $363 a month.

We need people with smiling voices to do some of our most important public relations work — as Telephone Operators. Immediate openings in San Francisco. And we'll pay $363 a month right from the start, even if you've never worked before.

Here's what else you can count on:

- Regular raises and chances for promotion
- Paid vacations and holidays
- Comprehensive benefit plan to give you security and protection
- Preference for working schedules
- And lots of new friends. You'll meet them at work and in after-hours activities.

Talk to us soon and find out more about being a Pacific Telephone Operator. We're hiring now between 8:30 A.M. and 4:30 P.M., Monday through Friday. For the location of an employment office near you, phone 399-5986 and ask for Miss Towne. If outside of San Francisco, call collect.

NOTICE OF SALE OF PROPERTY DELINQUENT FOR NON-PAYMENT OF ASSESSMENT BOND NO. 25, SERIES 6084, SAN JOSE BOULEVARD, ISSUED FOR IMPROVEMENTS IN MARIN COUNTY

State of California, default having been made in the payment of the following named coupons 1-2-65, Principal $337.63; 1-2-66, Principal $337.63; 1-2-65, Interest $141.80; 7-2-65, Interest $131.67; 1-2-66, Interest $131.67; 7-2-66, Interest $121.55; and the holder of said bond having demanded in writing that the County Treasurer of the County of Marin, State of California, proceed to advertise and sell the lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond. Now, therefore, I give notice that I will on the 7th day of October, 1966, at the hour of 10:00 o'clock A.M. of said day, sell at public auction, the lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond, or so much thereof as may be necessary, at my office in the Marin County Civic Center at San Rafael, California, unless the amount due on said bond and the accrued principal and interest thereon together with the cost of publication of this notice, are paid, and that I will so sell the same to the person who will take the least amount of said lot or parcel of land and pay the full amount of unpaid interest on said bond together with the cost of publication. The lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond and to be sold, is more particularly described, to-wit: BEGINNING at the northeasterly corner of Lot 281, as shown on that certain map entitled "Marin Golf and Country Club Estates Unit No. 4" filed for record in the Office of the County Recorder of the County of Marin, California, on December 31, 1959, in Book 10 of Maps at page 48; thence from said Point of Beginning North 573.00 feet; thence N89° 50' 13" W 691.82 feet; thence South 673.81 feet to a point on the general northerly boundary of said Unit No. 4; thence easterly along said northerly boundary to the Point of Beginning and containing 10.393 acres of land, more or less. The amount due on said bond up to the date of this notice is as follows: Due on account of Principal $675.26; due on account of Interest $611.06; due on account of penalties $178.30; total amount due on said bond $5,516.18.

In order to avoid this sale, payment of the total amount above named will be required, together with the cost of publication made before such payment and the additional interest accruing up to the date of payment. Bond may be reinstated upon payment of amounts due, interest, principal, penalties, and fees, in the manner provided by law.

In the event of sale, such sale will include interest in addition to the above total amount due, accruing up to the date of sale, the cost of publication of notice of sale, and $1.00 for the issuance of certificate of sale.

The Independent-Journal is designated as the newspaper in which this notice shall be published.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Doctor's Thorough Examination Uncovers Hidden Health Signs

VAN DELLEN

Physicians who are sticklers for details usually get good results because they dig beneath the surface. A middle-aged teacher went to a hospital complaining of weakness and lack of appetite of several years duration. He was becoming short of breath, found it difficult to walk or stand without support, and his face and ankles were puffy.

The liver was enlarged and hepatic tests also were positive; the combination suggested a liver disorder and nutritional deficiency. The patient admitted his diet had not been too good but blamed lack of appetite. He was a bachelor and lived chiefly on carbohydrates and black coffee. At the hispital he was given a well balanced diet and large amounts of vitamins and minerals.

DRAMATIC improvement followed and the teacher might have gone home a changed man. But his physician insisted that additional treatment was needed because the important aspects of his case had not been answered. Why was his appetite poor? Further questioning revealed that he drank too much and was afraid to admit it because of his profession.

Why did he overindulge? In a more exhaustive study his physician uncovered a broken romance and feelings of guilt and inadequacy. At first the teacher was reluctant to talk about these things, but he soon realized the wisdom of cooperating fully. After all, feelings of guilt hang around the neck like a millstone.

MANY INDIVIDUALS are unwilling to follow through on finding the basic cause of their illness, especially when they begin to feel better. Most of us have emotional conflicts that are bothersome from time to time. Certain chronic illnesses such as peptic ulcer, eczema, allergy, and hypertension could be cured if the physician would pursue the problem more thoroughly.

Ulcer symptoms are easy to relieve with antacids and various drugs are available to lower high blood pressure. But it is important to uncover and eliminate the factors responsible for overstimulation of the nervous manifestations.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

BABY'S BOOTEES

Mrs. C. P. writes: Am I right or wrong in insisting that my baby's feet be kept warm with bootees no matter what the weather is like?

REPLY

There is no need for bootees in hot weather. The skin of the feet, like that of the hands, face, and body, constitute part of our cooling system.

BED AS PUNISHMENT

Mrs. S. writes: Is putting a child to bed during the day a good means of punishment?

REPLY

No. Bed should be used for sleeping only. If the child associates it with punishment he may rebel against going to bed at night or remain wakeful for hours.

TONGUE VEINS

H. R. writes: What causes redness and swelling of the veins beneath the tongue?

REPLY

Inflammation could be responsible, but are you familiar with the normal appearance of these veins? They usually look prominent and engorged.

PREMATURE GRAYING

R. F. C. writes: Can gray hair in the 20s be corrected?

REPLY

If there are only a few, they can be pulled out. Otherwise, do what the older gals do: Resort to rinses or dyes.

NEW LANDMARK FOR FRESNO

POLITICAL BRIEFS

Second Offices Open For Reagan Workers

The second Reagan for Governor Headquarters in Marin has been opened in Mill Valley, announced Paul R. Haerle, chairman of the Marin County Ragan for Governor Committee.

Mill Valley headquarters at 7 Throckmorton Avenue will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, he said. Mrs. George Wickham and Mrs. Daniel Mahl will direct activities.

BACKS PROP. 3

Assemblyman William T. Bagley (R-San Rafael) today urged voter approval in November of Proposition 3, the "open space" proposal.

The measure would permit a lower assessment ratio for lands devoted to farm use or left undeveloped and in their natural state. Bagley said Proposition 3 "is almost our last chance" to preserve some of the state's fast dwindling rural and unspoiled acreage.

DRIVE SLATED

The Mill Valley Democratic Club will open its Dollars for Democrats drive Saturday in Lytton Square and other locations to solicit contributions. Fritz Dunnbier is chairman.

FINCH AIDES

Edwin V. Grundstrom of Novato, Marin County chairman for Robert Finch, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, today announced appointment of community chairmen for Finch.

BROWN BOOSTERS

Mrs. Olive Lewis of San Rafael has been named campaign coordinator of the Marin Committee to Re-Elect Governor Brown.

"We need volunteers, many of them, to help us in the all-important job of re-electing Pat Brown," said Mrs. Lewis at Democratic headquarters, 1417 Fourth Street San Rafael.

Girls' Joyride Causes Trouble

Three Novato girls, aged 16 and 17, skipped school yesterday, went for a spin in a borrowed car and shortly after 11:30 a.m. crashed into El Camino Motel at 1203 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

None was injured, but the car, lent by a 16-year-old friend, was heavily damaged as were shrubs and a wall of the motel.

The three girls took off on foot, but two soon had a change of heart and surrendered to police. The 17-year-old told police the car's brakes failed at Mission and Lincoln avenues and that rather than run into the rear of a car stopped for a red light, she turned onto the sidewalk and into the motel.

The driver was cited for driving without a license and the owner of the car was to be cited for allowing an unlicensed driver to use it. The girls were then told to go home and caught a bus back to Novato.

Two Nazis Given Life Sentences

OLDENBURG, Germany (AP)—Two former Nazis accused of responsibility for the death of 11,000 Jews were sentenced today to life imprisonment.

Erich Kassner, 56, and Fritz Manthei, 68, were convicted of three charges of mass murder.

Job Services Unit Transferred

Marjorie Ward and her employment services unit, which is now attached to the county personnel office, will be transferred to the Community Work Training Program, Marin County supervisors decided yesterday.

The move was recommended by Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella. He said the employment service unit would be more effective as part of a larger unit involved in the same problem areas.

Bernard Engel, chairman of the Marin County Council on Religion and Race, asked that the vacant second position on the unit be filled immediately.

Lynch Says He Opposes Prop. 16

MONTEREY PARK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch announced today his opposition to Proposition 16, the anti-obscenity initiative on the November ballot.

"I have based my opposition to Proposition 16 on both my own legal experience and knowledge and on the recommendations of my Advisory Committee on Obscenity," Lynch said.

He said the committee, made up of law enforcement officials and prosecutors, and his staff have drafted other anti-obscenity proposals. Lynch explained:

"In the next session of the legislature, we will seek new laws with a two-fold aim:

"To incorporate into California law the new strict rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court regarding obscenity;

"To prevent the sale of obscene material to juveniles."

He said Proposition 16 has seven serious defects and conflicts with the U.S. Constitution.

Contact Lenses Fitted On Dog

CHICAGO (AP) — Fritz's friends thought he was acting a little snooty. He never acknowledged their presence until they were directly in front of him. Now Fritz has contact lenses, and they've made a new dog of him.

His master, Howard Goodrich, mentioned to his optometrist that the 11-year-old dachshund had been giving him the cold shoulder.

The optometrist fitted Goodrich with contact lenses, and he decided to prescribe the same thing for Fritz, commenting, "it's not as crazy as you might think."

Fritz was fitted for the lenses yesterday.

Honest Novato Man Turns In Lost Purse

Thanks to the honesty of a Novato man, a San Francisco woman will regain her purse.

Jack August Reinagel, 51, of 650 Hancock Street, Novato, at 12:30 p.m. yesterday found a woman's purse, containing $1.10 and various papers, in front of 925 Diablo Avenue. He turned it over to police, who notified its owner, Ella H. Steenson of San Francisco, that she could claim it at the police station.

Museum Group Picks Godino As President

Richard V. Godino, of Mill Valley, assistant Marin County counsel, has been installed as president of the Marin Museum Assn.

Other new officers installed are Mrs. Frank J. Keaton, first vice president; Holbrook Mitchell, second vice president, and William W. Kirsch, third vice president. Mrs. Douglass Lathrop will remain corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Karl Zipf will remain as treasurer.

Scouts Set Sign

Boy Scout Troop 46 of Kentfield highlighted a recent trip to Meadow Lake with erection of a five-foot by eight-foot sign designating the historical significance of the lake area. The sign was made in Fairfax and erected with the approval of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

False Paternity Charges Brought

Lorene L. Toncroy, about 30, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on two counts of falsely naming a man as father of her child in a criminal non-support action.

Plea entry was scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Tuesday. The defendant, a registered nurse formerly of Stinson Beach and now residing at Garberville, Humboldt County, is accused of wrongly naming a Santa Clara man as father of her 2-year-old daughter on June 1, 1964, and again May 6, 1966.

Four Mens Suits Cost Six Months In Jail

William James Prince, 42, of Oakland, was given six months in county jail yesterday in Marin Superior Court for petty theft by a convicted felon.

Council To Sign For Demolition

The San Rafael City Council will hold a special meeting at 9 p.m. today to award a contract for demolition of the old city hall, City Clerk W. C. Cornwell announced late yesterday.

Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael was low bidder on the job at $4,385 when bids were opened Sept. 19, but award of contract was held up to allow time for removing furniture, which is being sold by City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen.

The San Rafael City Council will be host to the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen at a meeting in the city hall tonight, with its own special meeting following.

Poise Classes Slated

Two six-week yoga and poise classes will start Oct. 5 at the Mill Valley Community and Youth Center. Beginning class will be from 11:30 to 12:30 p.m., and intermediate class from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. Instructor will be Mary McIlwain. The classes are sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Department.

Relief Families Aren't Getting Vitamins In Milk

WASHINGTON (SS) — American families on relief are not getting the proper vitamins in the nonfat dry milk that takes the place of fluid whole milk in their diet.

It will take an amendment by Congress to a 1944 law to permit fortification with vitamins A and D of all nonfat dry milk, the AMA's council on food and nutrition points out in the Journal of the American Medical Assn.

Some nonfat dry milk going overseas in the Food for Peace program already is fortified with vitamins A and D through cooperation between the Agency for International Development and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

It has become commercially feasible to fortify dry milk with vitamins without affecting its taste or stability, the council says.

"An existing nutritional deficiency can be made more grave by supplementing a diet with foods lacking the nutrient in short supply," the council explains. "Quiescent inadequacies can become full-blown deficiencies if additional protein, minerals and calories are provided in the absence of adequate vitamin intake. This could be anticipated with both vitamins A and D."

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration agrees that vitamins A and D are needed in nonfat dry milk, which means that the 1944 U.S. Public Health Service Milk Code would have to be revised by Congress.

Chamber Gets Clean-Up Costs

A proposed paint-up, clean-up program for Mill Valley stores may cost $200 to $250 for each store, directors of the Chamber of Commerce were told Tuesday night.

The estimate included paint, labor, and a fee of about $100 per store for color consultants Palmer and Connie Fields of Woodside.

The board asked the Fields to submit a formal contract for their services to the chamber for its consideration. The six-month program would treat the Lucust-Miller and Throckmorton-Downtown areas separately, board president Charles J. Francis reported.

Automobile Stolen

A 1960 Plymouth station wagon belonging to Larry Counts of 55 Roque Moraes in Mill Valley was stolen Tuesday afternoon from Fourth and Cijos streets, San Rafael police said today. Everett Counts, the owner's father, said he left the key in the ignition.

MARCH OF DIMES CAMPAIGN LEADERS

Mrs. Melvyn L. Hammond (left), and Mrs. Walter F. Johnson have been appointed campaign directors of the 1967 March of Dimes in Marin County. This will be Mrs. Hammond's 20th year, Mrs. Johnson's 16th, in working for the charity which has turned from its successful effort to wipe out polio and is waging war on birth defects. The two volunteers will mail out a whopping 52,000 individually addressed mailers to Marin residents in the campaign, and hope to surpass last year's total of $31,000.

Hurricane Inez Bypasses Caribbean Tourist Mecca

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) —Heavy seas smashed onto the white sand beaches of the Virgin Islands today as Hurricane Inez 120-mile-an-hour killer winds bypassed the Caribbean tourist mecca.

The big storm churned past 80 miles to the south of St. Croix, saving her full fury for an unknown target. The Weather Bureau picked Haiti and the Dominican Republic as good prospects.

Puerto Rico, stung by biting winds as Inez approached, was warned to expect gusts of up to 70 miles an hour and flooding in low-lying areas.

The storm brought death to the French sugar-and-banana islands of Guadeloupe Tuesday.

Official reports to Paris said five persons were believed killed and many injured.

The storm's center was expected to come no closer than 60 or 80 miles to the south coast of Puerto Rico.

"Just where the storm will hit next is uncertain," said a Weather Bureau spokesman. "But she could easily hit Hispaniola and break up in the mountains."

Hispaniola—an island made up of the Dominican Republic and Haiti—is west of Puerto Rico.

Call Is Isolated At City Prison

SAN FRANCISO (AP) — Norman Call, convicted of murdr and conspiracy to commit murder in the Dow Wilson slaying, has been isolated from other prisoners in the San Francisco jail.

Call was moved to a separate cell in the county jail yesterday after his secret testimony to the grand jury Monday night.

After Call's testimony, Deputy Dist. Atty. Walter Giubbini was asked if Call had named the trigger man in Wilson's shotgun slaying April 5.

Giubbini answered, "Yes, he did," but did not identify him.

Call, a Sacraento painting contractor, is one of six men arrested in the killing of Wilson, secretary of the AFL-CIO Painters Union San Francisco Local.

Latest to be arrested in the case is Painters Union District Council 16 Secretary Ben Rasnick. Rasnick was arrested Monday in his Oakland office by San Francisco police.

Hitchhiker Charged With Possession

Brian E. Casey, 21, no known address, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a charge of possession of marijuana.

Judge Peter Allen Smith appointed the public defender's office to represent him and scheduled plea entry for this afternoon. Brian was arrested by California Highway Patrol as a hitchhiker Sept. 24.

Knife Studied In Girl's Death

KENILWORTH, Ill. (AP) — A rusty knife found near the beach home where Valerie Percy, 21, was beaten and knifed to death is being studied by the Chicago police crime laboratory.

The knife, with a three- to four-inch blade, was found yesterday on a bluff overlooking a public beach next to Charles H. Percy's private beach.

Valerie was fatally beaten and stabbed to death Sept. 18 in the family's lakefront home. Percy is the Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Air Strike Is Postponed For 12 Hours

NEW YORK (AP) — The AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union announced today it was postponing its schedule strike against American Airlines for 12 hours "in view of progress" made during all-night negotiations.

The strike postponement was announced by a union spokesman just 45 minutes before the strike was to start at 6:45 a.m. EDT.

The TWU represents 12,000 nonoperating employes, but a strike would have shut down the entire American Airlines system and idled all 28,000 company employes.

Soon after the union announcement, American issued a statement saying that negotiations were continuing and that "all flights will depart on sched' ule during the negotiations."

Tons Of Garbage Moved From Bay

HONG KONG (AP) — The Hong Kong Government's scavenging fleet removed 503 tons of refuse from the colony's picturesque harbor in July, slightly less than in June.

The government said the refuse consisted mainly of timber, domestic rubbish, straw, fruits and vegetables.

Johnson Prods U.N. Toward Space Treaty

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — President Johnson, declaring that "the security of all men may well be at stake," has made a personal plea to shake loose bogged-down United Nations' efforts toward a U.S.-Soviet agreement governing the use of outer space.

A space treaty is "a matter of the highest common interest," the U.S. chief executive said while touring this spaceport with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard Tuesday.

"I earnestly hope the Soviet Union — whose space achievements have been great — will feel as we do that the rapid evolution of space technology makes early conclusion of a treaty governing the use of space a most urgent matter," Johnson said.

Major areas of disagreement between the United States and the Soviet Union in the United Nations space treaty efforts include reporting outer-space activities, equal access to each other's equipment and installations on the moon, and military hardware in space.

The United States proposes compulsory reporting of outer-space activities, while the Soviet Union wants voluntary reporting.

Soviet officials have accepted in principle a U.S. proposal that nations grant each other equal access to space vehicles, equipment and installations on the moon and other celestial bodies at all times, but Russia wants to make the timing of such access subject to an agreement among the parties concerned.

Russia also objects to a clause in the U.S. draft treaty which says nations may use both military personnel and equipment in the peaceful exploration of space, claiming the words "military equipment" is not well enough defined.

Marin Students Study Far Away

Five students from Marin County are among personnel from Stanford University who have left to spend six-month terms on campuses in Austria, France and Italy.

Richard N. Atkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Atkins of 57 Vallejo Way, San Rafael, has gone to Semmering, Austria, and John L. Pasqualetti, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Pasqualetti of 15 Poplar Drive, Kentfield, to Florence, Italy.

Recently arrived on the Tours, France, campus are Drew W. Sullivan, son of Mr. Joseph M. Sullivan of 25 Idlewood Road, Kentfield; Louis A. Highman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Highman of 123 Surrey Lane, San Rafael, and Michele D. Slavich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Slavich of 1 Tamalpais Avenue, Belvedere.

German Films Belie Predictions Of Death

That is the bleak prophecy, which film critics proclaimed for years as the nation's moviemakers seemed to struggle in vain to haul their business out of the postwar doldrums.

There was bitter irony in the prediction as well. For the post WWI era in Germany — the gay twenties — witnessed a blossoming of film greats in the country that boosted Germany to the pinnacle. Marlene Dietrich, Emil Jannings and Conrad Veidt and outstanding directors like Fritz Lang and G.W. Pabst are names from that era which have gone into the annals of motion picture history.

In contrast, the situation during the past decade provided good reasons for critics to utter that German filmmaking had been packed in a coffin and was headed for its final resting place. There was a conspicuous lack of big names, big hits — and big money.

Then, just as it seemed the balloon might burst, the industry suddenly got a new lease on life and now it appears that movies in Germany are making a mighty comback.

The breakthrough, in large part, is being attributed to such bright, new faces as the There is Ulrich Schamoni, whose motion picture "Es (It)," the story of a teenage couple in love but unmarried, which suddenly finds an "it" on the way, also won a federal German film prize this year. Finally comes Viktor Schamoni, the only one of the brothers who is not a director and instead goes for camera work.

Another bright prospect in the Schamoni Brothers. There is director Thomas Schamoni, who was awarded this year's top national prize for short films with his production of "Charly May."

Another of the Schamonis, Peter, also first and foremost a director, grabbed the Silver Bear Award at this year's Berlin Film Festival with his "Schonzeit fuer Fuechse (Closed Season for Foxes)." future of Germany's rekindled movie industry is Vlado Kristl, also a director. Kristl's latest effort is a film called "Der Brief (The Letter)," A Kafka-like production which tells the story of a man who finds a letter and who decides to personally deliver it to its addressee. After a long search, which is spelled out in a series of surrealistic episodes, he has success. But when the letter is opened, the contents turn out to be his own death sentence.

The manuscript for "Der Brief" has already been awarded a prize and the film itself is rated a strong possibility of capturing more honors.

One of the striking features of Germany's movie comeback is the spirit of teamwork among its new crop of able, young men. Thus, the four Schamoni Brothers have all taken acting roles in Kristl's film, and one of the scenes in which they appear may be peculiarly indicative of what's happening with German moviemaking.

The first balloon flight in America was made by Jean Pierre Blanchard in 1793 from Philadelphia to near Woodbury, N.J., in 45 minutes.

Desert Hides Railroads' Graveyard

From all over the nation, worn out engines, freight cars, coaches, tank cars and cabooses are brought to a 48-acre yard just outside of town. There they line up on four 1,200-foot tracks to wait their turn to be dismantled.

A crew of 40 men tears up the outdated cars, burning the wood and salvaging most of the metal. Most of the freight and passenger cars now being scrapped were built in the 1930s and 1940s.

All the cars are completely checked when they arrive by way of the nearby Southern Pacific Railroad main line to make sure there are no hoboes asleep in them.

Not Exactly Towering

Berkeley Campus Tops Peace Corps Parade

BERKELEY—Peace Corps recruits at the Berkeley campus of the University of California continue to set the pace for volunteer service among students throughout the country.

New figures reflecting late spring recruiting drives indicate that the Cal students are signing on in increasing numbers either for foreign service in the Peace Corps or in the Corps' domestic operation—Vista.

Toward the end of the current school year, the Peace Corps reported that Berkeley had become the first U.S. campus to provide more than 1,000 applications for Peace Corps service in a single year.

As of May 1, the Berkeley campus also had the most volunteers—95—for any institution. (University of Minnesota, with 70, and the University of Oregon, 50, were next.)

Peace Corps spokesmen said the ratio of applicants from the Berkeley campus had remained relatively constant throughout the year, with six male applicants for every four female applicants. They pointed out that this is about the same ratio as that for college seniors who are the Peace Corps' prime source of manpower.

Of the mare than 19,000 Americans who have joined the Peace Corps since 1961 the state of California leads all others with nearly 2,700 having service overseas.

Vista is enjoying a new popularity, too. College students are volunteering for service in Vista at twice the rate they did last year, according to the anti-poverty agency.

Between 2,000 and 3,000 students have applied to live and work as volunteers for Vista among the nation's poor as a result of a five-week end-of-the-year recruiting effort on 240 campuses. There are now 2,300 volunteers in Vista, of whom some three-fourths come from the colleges.

Culture Center To Be Put Up

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) —The nation's largest Indian tribe, the Navajos, are going to establish a culture center on the huge reservation.

The Navajo Culture Center will seek to preserve the legends, history, mythology, songs, stories and other data pertaining to the Navajo past.

FEEDING TIME — Young carp literally boil around the bottle in the Max Planck Institute research tanks, in an experiment that may provide new food supplies for mankind's population explosion.

Alienation And Learning Ability Linked

LOS ANGELES — The ability to learn is directly affected by belonging to an organization—feelings of powerlessness result in low learning ability and lack of interest in learning.

These are among the chief conclusions reached by Melvin Seeman, UCLA professor of sociology, in an article that poses the question: "How do the feelings of isolation, helplessness and alienation come about, and what is their consequences?"

"To the extent that a man feels powerless to control his future, he will not learn as well what he needs to know to affect it," Seeman said.

Feelings of self-reliance and power are tied up with belonging to an organization — union, business or professional association—and with how actively one works in it, having some control over its destiny.

To the degree that one values and expects to achieve goals, he will want and will try to learn material relevant to achieving them.

In his article, "Antidote to Alienation — Learning to Belong," published in "Transaction" by the Community Leadership Project of Washington University in St. Louis, Seeman describes the process of alienation in terms of "mass theory."

"Historically and structurally the old roots and close relationships have practically disappeared and been replaced by anonymity and impersonality in social and personal life, and by bureaucracy and mechanization at work.

"Psychologically this must result in alienation. Alienation can take a number of forms: feelings of powerlessness, rootlessness, lack of standards and belief, and 'self-estrangement' (having no clear idea of your personality or place, not even 'belonging' to yourself).

"Alienation in turn results in alienated behavior, such as political passivity, racial and religious prejudice, taking part in movements that promise to usher in the millennium (but have little immediate or practical effect) and the like."

Examining mass theory and social learning theory together, Seeman found agreement between them that feelings of powerlessness (a form of alienation) inhibit knowledge. He then tested the supposition that a connection between powerlessness and low learning ability was generally true among all people and in many different situations.

Based on studies conducted in a hospital and a reformatory, among workers who were unorganized and some who were members of unions, and in different nations, Seeman found that the connection between organization membership and powerlessness was as true in Sweden as in the U.S. and that the connection between powerlessness and learning held true through many different kinds of organizations and learning situations.

Fishy Bottle Baby Idea Is Working

HAMBURG, Germany (GF) — A new method to speed up the growth of carp, a favorite fish on the German menu, has been developed by researchers near here at the Max Planck Institute for Cultivated Plant Breeding.

Dr. Reinhold von Sengbusch and co-worker Dr. Christoph Meske, a zoologist, who devised the system, use a special diet which is fed to the fish by baby bottle. The diet consists of 50 per cent worms and 50 per cent mosquito larvae mixed in water, and the fish just love it.

Normally, carp require 15 pounds of food to gain one pound and 20,000 times their own weight in water to grow up. With the special diet, the fish gain a pound on two pounds of nourishment and only require 10 times their own weight in water.

The doctors originally set out to cross-breed carp with other fish in order to get a variety with fewer bones, and they have also had success here.

One of the biggest problems has been the bottle feeding. To achieve the most rapid growth carp must be fed nights also and the cost of hiring nightwatchmen to do the feeding would be prohibitive.

To solve the problem, the doctors are devising a system to hold several baby bottles at the water's surface, allowing the fish to serve themselves.

By maintaining water temperature at 75 degrees(fahrenheit), the temperature at which carp generally spawn, the fish also reproduce more rapidly in the Max Planck aquarium.

Dr. Sengbusch is director of the institute.

Big Squeeze

PARIS (UPI) —Metal tubes, used extensively in the United States for toothpaste, hair creams and cosmetics, are used in Europe for a wide variety of food spreads like jelly, fish and meat spreads, catsup, mustard, caviar, mayonnaise, cheese and butter.

By A Dam Site

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) —Fallout shelters are where you find them. The Oregon Civil Defense agency says the state's largest public fallout shelters are located in the generating areas and passageways of three huge Columbia River dams.

Camping Saves Vacation Money

More than 600,000 Portuguese camp out under the tents every year out of a total population of nine million, the National Camping Federation announced recently.

They are joined every year by about 150,000 foreigners, most of them French, who spill into the 84 camping grounds run by the government and the municipanities.

"The cost of life makes the head of the family think twice before he goes to a hotel," the Camping Federation explained. "A little tent often solves the problem.".

The federation said the camping population will pass the million mark in 1967, and that by 1970 Portugal will be equipped with 250 grounds.

Worshippers Ride Bicycles Up To New Delhi Temple's Door

NEW DELHI (AP) — Some American cities have drive-in church services, but New Delhi has a "bicycle-in" Hindu temple.

Situated curbside on a quiet, tree-lined residential boulevard, the small temple is visited each day by hundreds of Indians who stop for a moment of prayer as they bicycle to work.

One office worker recently said he was praying for the speedy recovery of a relative who was ill. A businessman said he was asking guidance for a major transaction he was to make that day.

A few hundred years ago when the temple was built, it was an isolated spot in the dusty plains several miles from Old Delhi, on the banks of the Jumna River.

Then Delhi became the capital of India and the temple was caught up in the city's sprawling suburbs. But in India these miniature temples are not disturbed, so this temple blocks a sidewalk and pedestrians must take to the street to get around the structure.

Two Hindu holy men take turns caring for the temple and ministering to the worshippers. They sleep on a cot nearby. Each morning they pour water over the stone gods inside the tiny domed structure, then collect the water in a jug.

A worshipper is given a few crystals of sugar and a spoonful of the water to drink, in the belief that this will have a curative effect. In return, he usually throws a few coins at the feet of the gods — Lakshimi, the goddess of wealth, the Hanuman, the monkey god and commander-in-chief of the god Rama's army.

The concrete platform in front of the temple has room for about three worshippers to kneel in prayer at a time. The holy men sit off to one side in silent meditation except when giving sugar and water.

Many bicycle commuters do not stop to pray. But as they pass the temple they stop pedaling, coast a while — and nod in the direction of the gods.

Cutting Tree Costs Man's Life

AUCKLAND (AP)—A farmer at Whenuapai, near Auckland, lost his life because he chopped a tree that grew too close to power lines near his home.

Millington went inside the house to telephone for help but when he ran outside again he struck the power line. The 11,000-volt current acted like a cauterising knife and decapitated him.

At the inquest, an Electricity Department engineer said Millington need never have bothered about the tree himself. The electricity authority concerned would willingly cut down trees without cost where there was a danger of power lines being damaged.

Target Signs

MELBOURNE (AP) — Farmers in Victoria are hanging targets beneath local road signs. The practice has discouraged marksmen from shooting at road signs. Australians traveling in the country often carry rifles to shoot rabbits and kangaroos.

International Youth Event Stars Talent

BAYREUTH, Germany (GF) — A bright crop of the world's young talent, with outstanding honors going to a Bulgarian chamber orchestra, a French poet and a U.S. author, has concluded this year's edition of Bayreuth's International Youth Festival, held in conjunction with the Wagner Festival.

More than 400 participants from 24 nations took part in the worldwide talent show.

Though no official ratings are given, the chamber orchestra from Sofia under the direction of Kamen Goleminov was the audience's obvious favorite. The group played Samuel Barber's "Adagio," five themes for strings by Paul Hindemith, Bach's E major violin concerto and Bela Bartok's 6th string quartet.

French poet Jean Ikelle Matibe scored a hit with the audience in readings of some of his verse. The youngest poet to participate was Germany's 23-year-old Ulrich Raschke, Frankfurt, who read his 20-part cycle "Karneval."

The Bayreuth event is designed to permit the cream of the world's younger talent to show its stuff and also serves as a "people to people" program.

Dog's Owner Bites Victim

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — City patrolman Boyce McCall said it was one thing when he was bitten by man's best friend. But a man-sized bite from the dog's owner was something else.

McCall testified in city court that the dog bit him on the leg as he arrested Roscoe W. Callaway.

"And when I got him in my cruiser, he (Callaway) nearly bit my finger off," the officer added. The leg was all right, but McCall showed the judge a finger that was swollen to twice its normal size.

Callaway paid a $10 fine for drunkenness.

New UCLA Medal Will Honor Islamic Scholar

LOS ANGELES—The Giorgio Levi Della Vida Medal has been established at the University of California, Los Angeles, to honor outstanding scholars of Islamic civilization, it was announced by Chancellor Franklin D. Murphy and Professor Gustave E. von Grunebaum, Director of UCLA's Near Eastern Center.

The bronze medal, which carries a cash price of $1,000, is named after 79-year-old Giorgio Levi Della Vida of Italy, one of the great humanistic scholars of the world.

"To our knowledge, this is the first and only award in the field of Islamics," said Chancellor Murphy. "UCLA through its Near Eastern Center, has become a leading center for the study of Islamic history and culture. It is highly appropriate, therefore, that we recognize excellence in this field."

The recipient will be selected by a committee appointed by Chancellor Murphy. He will deliver a special lecture at UCLA and participate in a scholarly conference—the proceedings of which are to be published as a separate volume in a special series. First award will be made next spring.

Giorgio Levi Della Vida, who was recently given an honorary doctorate by the Sorbonne, represents in his work a direction which UCLA's Near Eastern Center believes Islamic studies should take, Professor von Grunebaum said.

Della Vida left Italy for political reasons under Mussolini to spend almost a decade of exile at the University of Pennsylvania but has since returned to the University of Rome. His activities there center on the Arab heartlands of Islam but extend far beyond into the Sematic cultures of the ancient, medieval and modern Near East.

His work, recognized by membership in the Italian national academy and many other learned societies, bears with equal force on sthe history of Muslim Iran and Turkey. He also displays a familiarity with classical antiquity and Christianity both Eastern and Western, as formative influences and partners of Islam in its history of almost 14 centuries, Prof. von Grunebaum pointed out.

In bygone days farmers turned hogs into freshly planted fields to trample into the ground the seeds.

Radioactive Aerosols Aid Lung Research

Special to the I-J

LOS ANGELES—Radioactive aerosols may now be used to scan the lungs for evidence of bronchial disorders and emphysema.

Drs. George V. Taplin and N. D. Poe of UCLA's Laboratory of Nuclear Medicine developed the new procedure.

The patient inhales harmless, minute quantities of radioactively tagged materials such as albumin and colloidal gold. Plots of the distribution of the materials are then made by a sensitive machine, which scans the lungs for radioactivity.

In normal lungs the material is distributed evenly throughout the lower respiratory tract. If the airways are partially obstructed by disease, the aerosol material is deposited relatively heavily at the site of the obstruction.

The new procedure may help solve some of the problems of diagnosing and evaluating obstructive bronchial disease. X-ray visualization of the bronchial tree requires installation of large amounts of radiopaque material into the trachea (windpipe), which may be hazardous to patients with severely impaired lung function.

X-ray examinations usually do not show abnormalities in the small branches of the bronchial tree near the outer edges of the lung. The aerosol technique is entirely safe and readily demonstrates the absence of aeration (due to obstruction) in areas normally served by these bronchi.

The new procedure appears to be particularly useful in studying such diseases as bronchiectasis, emphysema and tuberculosis. It may also help spot early lung cancer originating in the bronchial tree near the lung's outer edges.

State Department Peps Up Its Communications

By J. PAUL WYATT

WASHINGTON (UPI) —If there's a revolution in Latin America or sudden trouble in other areas of the world, it is more than likely the State Department will hear about it almost instantaneously.

Since the Cuban missile crisis in 1962—when Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev looked down the American nuclear barrel and backed off—the State Department and the White House have tightened up the government's worldwide communications system.

For example, an urgent message from Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge in war-torn Viet Nam, 11,200 miles away, can be placed in Secretary of State Dean Rusk's hands within a few minutes.

Or if war through miscalculation or stupidity threatened to engulf the United States and Russia, the Chiefs of State could get in quick contact over a so-called "hot line" linking the White House and the Kremlin and iron out the difficulty.

The hot line—a teletype system—was installed by mutual agreement after the Cuban missile clash between the late President John F. Kennedy and Khrushchev.

The State Department now maintains some type of fast contact with every one of its 273 foreign service posts around the globe. Chief means of communication are the teletype, radio, and the telephone.

Backbone of the network is the teletype system. It is either leased from private firms or borrowed from the defense department, which owns its own circuits.

Like the world's great news services, the State Department divides its world communications system into parts, about 12 in all. Each part has its own relay point connected directly with Washington. Within the parts are subdivisions where smaller relay points forward messages from low-volume posts. These messages are later dispatched to the major relay points.

The relay points make possible short and inexpensive circuits and guard against the possibility of a less important embassy monopolizing the circuit as sudden crisis grips another country.

In the case of Saigon, messages from the U.S. Embassy there are received first in Manilla, which is connected directly with Washington. The time it takes to flash an urgent message depends on the equipment used. It can be manual, electro-mechanic or electronic.

Backstopping these are decoders — either men or machines, depending on the urgency of keeping the contents secret. This consumes little time unless the messages are voluminous.

The State Department uses another mode of operation called Telecon. This, for example, ties Washington directly to Saigon, thus bypassing the Manila relay point.

In Paris and at some other relay points, special computers replace human operators and move the traffic from the busy European posts to Washington even more swiftly.

In Latin America, the State Department leases all of its circuits from International Telephone and Telegraph Co. (ITT). The relay station for Latin America is Washington. Hence, if the U.S. Embassy in Rio De Janeiro has a message for the embassy in Buenos Aires about 1,200 miles to the southwest, it will be routed to Washington for relay to Buenos Aires.

Other major means of communication are the telephone and radio.

RUTHLESS MASTER — Turbaned Hakin Khan oversees the excavation of a ditch he has contracted to dig, while his laborers push the dirt-laden donkeys up a steep grade. Few dare to quit the ruthless Khargars under pain of death.
(UPI Telephoto)

Laborers' Life Is One Long Ditch Faced By Constant Death Threat

By MAX VANZI

KARACHI (UPI) — For thousands of Pakistani laborers life is the digging of an endless ditch on a lifelong job that few dare quit without risking death.

Their bosses are West Pakistan's ruthless Kharkars, labor contractors whose business is excavation and whose methods combine classical slave-driving and a shrewd capacity to avoid the law and exploit ignorance.

Under the eyes and hired guns of Kharkars, an estimated 30,000 to 40,000 men swing picks and shovels the year around, six days a week, 16 to 20 hours a day. They dig canals, pipeline ditches or whatever excavations are ordered across the mountains and plains of their developing country.

Kharkars are Pathan Mountain men who have come down from the Hindu Kush and Great Karagoram Mountains bordering Iran to Pakistan's flatlands —the Punjab plains, the Indus Valley and the hot sands of the Sind Desert.

Their title comes from the Pushto word meaning donkey drover and even today a Kharkar's importance is judged by the number of his donkeys, used to haul away the earth from the ditches and tunnels he has contracted to dig.

The gangs of 30 to 150 men who toil for the Kharkars are also Pathans, recruited from wherever the Kharkars find them, in their mountain villages or in the work camps of the lowlands.

A Karachi businessman and provincial legislator, himself a Pathan, explains that the Kharkars choose their workmen carefully. They are expert, he says, at judging "if a man's health is good and if his spirit can be broken to the point where he'll become a slave."

Once in the employ of a Kharkar, "few have broken away." Trusted lieutenants who go armed with rifles keep watch over the gangs.

If a man tries to escape, "he's beaten the first time they catch him. If he tries again, he dies."

The unwary ditchdigger who signs on with a Kharkar work gang is promised the law's minimum wage of 63 cents a day. But the salary, he soon discovers, often works against him.

In the lonely, far-off camps of the Kharkars, workers are encouraged and often required to spend Friday, the week's one day of rest, gambling in rigged card games. When a man's few rupees in hand are gone, he gambles on the Kharkar's credit.

Losses multiply. The debt to the Kharkar grows. Friday's debts become payable in 100 to 120 hour work weeks for a lifetime of digging for the Kharkar's profit.

Because the rugged ways of the Pathans are taken for granted among more advanced Pakistanis, few take notice of the Khargars' cruel profession and the law is seldom invoked to check his methods.

Organized labor in Pakistan is strictly an urban affair. One Karachi labor leader, asked for his views on Kharkars, said he'd hardly heard of them and knew nothing of how they operate.

As it is among the lawless Pathan tribes in the mountains they come from, life is cheap in a Kharkar work gang.

The Pathan legislator in Karachi says a work camp quarrel will end in death as often as not with the loser "tossed into a hole, covered up and forgotten."

A Kharkar gang of 40 men working on a 10-mile, 30-foot-deep water main ditch on the outskirts of Karachi is as isolated as a gang working a hundred miles from the nearest village.

This correspondent, visiting the Karachi camp recently, was the first visitor the Kharkar or his men had seen in a month.

Asked if he has had trouble in his camp recently, the Khargar replied, "No, because the police never come here."

Resting in his tent while his men worked in 100-degree heat, the Kharkar, Hakim Khan, said his workmen present few problems. None have tried to escape in 12 years of working for him.

Ironclad Bar To Be Updated

PERTH (AP) — The hotel at Marble Bar, Australia's hottest spot, is to be modernized — and air conditioned.

It's the Ironclad Hotel, only drinking spot at Marble Bar, a town of a couple of hundred people, 1250 miles north of Perth. There, the shade temperature goes up to 120 degrees Fahrenheit, and in 1923-24 was over the 100 degree mark for 160 successive days.

Now the hotel has changed hands, and the new owners have announced plans to air condition three bars and the lounge, and add some air conditioned motel units.

New owners of the Ironclad, J. A. Johnson and Sons, are pioneers of the tin-mining revival in the Marble Bar district.

They say that to preserve the hotel's character, they will retain the corrugated-iron exterior walls which have been seen by many in documentary films on Australia. But they plan to paint the corrugated iron.

Lebanese Add School Of Arts

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A School of Fine Arts has recently been inaugurated in Beirut. It is attached to the Lebanese University and includes about 100 students.

Antoine Nahas, the new school's director, says teaching standards in the school are comparable to those found in European faculties.

The subjects taught are architecture, painting, decorative arts and dramatic art, he said.

Skills taught in the school range from historical knowledge of various architectural styles to measuring the strength of reinforced concrete and the construction of metal skeletons, Nahas said.

Resentments Playing Part In Many Traffic Accidents

NEW YORK (UPI) —"Resentments" are a big cause of traffic accidents, according to a man whose job it is to advise legislators, law enforcement and safety officials on problems arising from the growing popularity of motorcycles and scooters.

"Too many drivers have resentments," says William T. Berry, Jr., executive director of the Motorcycle, Scooter and Allied Trades Assn.

"The truck driver resents the auto, the auto driver resents the compact and foreign cars and the small car drivers resent the motorcyclists. Meanwhile, all are competing for space. The sooner they all realize that a legal vehicle operated in a legal manner by a legally licensed driver has every right to the road, the sooner we'll all enjoy good, safe travel."

Berry, who expects to log more than 100,000 miles in 1966 testifying before legislative groups, attending traffic safety conferences and fulfilling speaking engagements, says: "The use of the road must be harmonious for all vehicles. There is a great job to be done to educate automobile drivers that motorcycles and scooters also have a right to the road."

The motorcycle group recently adopted a resolution favoring separate licenses for motor-driven two-wheel vehicles and Berry is now working with the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators in developing uniform standards to guide the states in training examiners. Many states doubled their motorcycle registration last year and, with at least another 40 per cent increase forecast for 1966, it shouldn't be long before special licenses are required in most states.

In addition to licensing, Berry finds that the question of protective headgear currently is getting the most attention. He says the Association is vigorously promoting the voluntary use of safety helmets for motorcycle riding of any distance or duration. He feels that the helmet question for motorcycling is similar to the seat belt issue in cars.

Love To Love

DALLAS (UPI) —Love came to Love Field in 1966. One of the groups arriving at the Love Field Dallas airport was "Love," a five-man recording group.

Novel Nursery School For Cerebral Palsy Children

POMONA, Calif. (AP) — The emotional needs of the cerebral palsy child and his family are the prime concern to the team of experts conducting a dramatic nursery school program at Casa Colina.

Launched in October 1963, the preschool nursery directed by Mrs. Dorothy Robinson is an educationally planned, cooperative, family-oriented program.

"There is much more normal than abnormal in these children," says Dr. Perry. "But too often the normal phases of their development are neglected in the concentration on the abnormal."

The children in the school at Casa Colina are happy, laughing youngsters.

Dr. Annabel J. Telberg, another member of the team of specialists working with these children, points out that the neuromuscular limitations of the cerebral palsy child, or those similarly affected, prevent normal preceptual learning.

A normal child with full physical capacity learns to fit into his surroundings as he turns his head and moves his body during early development. A baby with impaired movements doesn't make this adjustment, she points out.

Thus, one of the physical aspects of the prescool program is teaching these youngsters "where they fit in space." This is done by learning to bounce, playing games, walking or crawling within lines and other training.

Cerebral palsy is an insult to the brain which controls the direction of movement. It arises in the prenatal, postnatal or early development of a baby.

Occasionally, a traumatic accident involving the brain of an infant, such as a fall from a crib, will result in cerebral palsy. Dr. Perry states.

Considered a stable lesion of the rain, cerebral palsy is nonprogressive. However, difficulties can be progressive as the child attempts to meet the demands of society.

While 60 per cent of the cerebral palsy victims have varied degrees of mental retardation, some victims are extremely brilliant and have overcome their handicaps to become noted scientists, lawyers and educators, Dr. Teberg stresses.

Most of the teaching aids used in the Casa Colina nursery school have been used in similar projects at the University of Southern California at Los Angeles and other research centers.

However, the program in Pomona extends beyond the physical habilitation of the child. It reaches into the social realm of his family and community life.

"It is important to make the parent comfortable with his child — and visa versa," states Dr. Perry. "A youth senses a concerned and confused parent and becomes tense himself.

"These parents must realize a CP child's potention — and limitations — and be neither too protective nor too demanding."

To accomplish this, mothers work in the nursery school one day a week and parents are brought into team conferences to study the progress of their child.

Mrs. Robinson has also organized a parents' group that can freely discuss mutual problems.

Classes in the nursery school are limited to 15 with two sessions operating at present. Mothers, Casa Colina volunteers, occupational therapists and physical therapists assist the teacher.

Youngsters accepted at the nursery school are referred by family doctors and accepted by Casa Colina on the basis of probability of being benefitted by the program, Dr. Perry states.

The youngest patient is 16 months, which is about as early as a child can be guided, the doctors feel. The upper limit is kindergarten age. All children live at home with their families. Last year, seven children were "graduated," four into regular schools and three into special schools.

In addition to the two doctors and the teacher, the team includes a psychologist, occupational therapist and physical therapist. They meet weekly to analyze the program and review the status of their young patients.

Case histories record significant progress for most youngsters.

Doctors Try High-Pressure Oxygen

By JUDITH RANDAL
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — Doctors are trying a new line of attack on disease — high pressure oxygen.

They are using boiler-like tanks — similar to the caissons employed in underwater construction — for experimental treatments.

When a patient is placed inside one and given pure oxygen to breathe, the effect is to step up the "fire power" of this vital gas so that more of it reaches his blood and tissues than at sea level pressure.

Doctors aren't making any "breakthrough" claims. But controlling the pressure and composition of the atmosphere could give them a new weapon against the three major killers—heart disease, cancer and stroke.

At recent international meetings in Rome and at Duke University Medical Center, Durham, N.C., it was reported that sessions in high pressure oxygen had:

Upped the recovery rate after heart surgery from 40 to 85 per cent in babies who had to have the operations before they were a year old. The tank was used as an operating room.

Prolonged the survival of laboratory animals with experimentally induced heart attacks. This implies such treatment also benefits people who have had coronaries.

Made cancer tumors more susceptible to radiation therapy, doing the work of six weeks in six hours.

Restored speech and eliminated paralysis in some stroke victims treated within a few hours of the attack—an indication that oxygen treatment may minimize brain damage.

Kept tissues and organs fresh for more than 25 hours, bringing the possibility of "transplant banks" a step closer.

There are other ways to put pressure on disease. Take carbon monoxide poisonig—the asphyxiation anyone risks running a car motor in a closed garage.

The colorless, odorless gas is lethal because it strips the bloodstream of oxygen. In Scotland, where coal fire heat in poorly ventilated homes leads to a lot of this poisoning, victims rushed to pressure chambers have quickly revived. They responded faster than with oxygen alone because oxygen at normal pressure does not permeate the tissues.

An oxygen bath under high pressure has also proved lifesaving in some cases of gas gangrene. A few years ago, for instance, a 16-year-old boy hurt in an accident developed an infection in his injured leg that drugs couldn't control.

Just as surgeons were going to amputate, the boy was taken to Mount Sinai Hospital in New York which then had only a small experimental pressure tank. The bacteria threatening his life were an oxygen-hating species.

"I had my doubts," Mount Sinai's Dr. Julius Jacobson recalls. "That early unit wasn't ever meant to treat the sick and wasn't as safe as the one we have now. If we'd run into trouble, there would have been no way to open the door quickly without giving the boy decompression sickness—what divers call the bends."

Fortunately, luck held. After a few hours in the tank, the boy's temperature fell from 103.6 degrees to a near normal 99. The wound which had been an ominous blue blushed a faint, but healthy, pink. Although the scar required extensive skin grafts, the boy walks on that leg today.

Patients in danger of losing their toes because of circulatory failure have had similar good results. The high pressure oxygen quickly banishes pain and gives nearby blood vessels time to become alternative routes of supply.

High pressure oxygen is not really a new idea. Medical interest dates back to the 1600s and European doctors used pressure chambers to treat tuberculosis over a century ago.

However, results were disappointing and so little was known then about the treatment and prevention of the bends that most other medical uses of the method weren't explored until after World War II.

Despite recent more promising developments, the experts have reservations about the treatment. For one thing, no one is yet sure how beneficial it really is. Cancer patients, for example, do seem to get better when irradiated in a pressure chamber, but there are some indications that the disease later has a greater than usual tendency to recur.

Earliest Man More Artistic Than Thought

HAMBURG, Germany (GF)—"Ice age art in the North Sea area" is the name of an exhibition on the Island of Helgoland which is creating a stir among historians and archaeologists. The exhibition seeks to offer proof that human art was produced much earlier than heretofore believed.

According to most authorities the first art works came toward the end of the Paleolithic period with the appearance of Homo sapiens. So-called neanderthal and pre-neanderthal man among others, were supposed not to have been artists.

The Helgoland exhibition features several sculptures made of flint which, according to Professor Walther Matthes, of Hamburg University's prehistoric and early history departments, call for a revision of the generally held view.

The sculptures were discovered capsuled in stone deposits, which had remained undisturbed since early and middle paleolithic times.

This makes them tens of thousands of years older, for example, than the famous cave paintings in Altamira, Spain.

Some experts have dismissed the flint sculptures as nothing more than freaks of nature. But there is evidence that men at least worked on the flint and proponents point out that it would have been unusual for Nature to have lumped all its "freaks" at the one spot where the figures were found.

Supporting the contention that early humans made the figures is also the fact that several stone tools, dating from the same period, were discovered with them. Nearly 850 examples of the sculptures, each about seven to 15 inches tall and depicting animals as well as men, are on display at the exhibition.

Friday Most Common Day For Accidents

BONN, Germany (UPI) — The rate of traffic accidents on Friday is about 25 per cent higher than on other weekdays.

A survey of industrial accidents, however, revealed that Monday has the highest rate of factory mishaps.

Civilian Named Air Force Chief

SANAA, Yemen (SP) — A civilian has been appointed commander of Yemen's fledgling air force, according to a decree issued by Prime Minister Hassan Army.

The civilian is Aly el Kobatty, 35, the most experienced Yemeni pilot in the country, and until recently the only one in Yemen.

Kobatty will command 31 Yemini pilots and air technicians who recently returned from training in the Soviet Union.

Kobatty has been chief pilot of Yemen Airlines for the past seven years, flying antiquated twin-engine transports. The airline also employs foreign pilots.

Kids Concert

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Symphony Orchestra was one of the first orchestras to provide concerts especially for youngsters.

The orchestra gives 15 special concerts a year, with an average annual attendance of over 30,000 grade school children.

THE MODELS — Buildings strongly resembling Mayan structures would be part of a plan to modernize the St. Georg district of Hamburg. The plans have drawn both strong approval and protest.

Hamburg Modernization Brings Praises, Protests

HAMBURG, Germany (GF)— A corporation of Hamburg builders has presented a possibility for modernizing one of the city's remaining old districts. But it does not represent the last word on what or what may not happen to the district, called St. Georg.

The designers, to begin with, drew up the project to encourage entries in an international architect competition, which will probably wind up in October.

Many Hamburgers, after viewing the model, decided the design would really be an improvement on the present St. Georg and are now advocating construction. These say the complex, which bears a resemblance to the old Mayan pyramids, would represent progress.

Their proposal, however, has brought a storm of protests. The opposition charges that construction of such a massive apartment complex would destroy the skyline view of the city from the banks of the Alster, a large mid-city lake. St. Georg lies between the lake and the heart of the city.

According to the plans, the five towers would run up to either 62 stories or 425 feet. There are no other buildings in Hamburg currently near comparable height.

Opponents also argue that living in the complex would condemn residents to anonymity and thereby work negatively on their personalities. Proponents, however, point out that the complex would contain everything from schools to museums and bars, enabling residents to live a fairly normal city life.

Salt-Water Days Return To New York

NEW YORK (UPI) —The smell of the sea, at least figuratively, is penetrating Manhattan as far inland as Fifth Avenue this fall with the showing of an extensive collection of whaling memorabilia at the Hallmark Gallery.

The exhibit of material from the museum of Mystic Seaport, Conn., traces the origin and history of the whaling industry in New England by means of prints, models, charts, diagrams, old whaling logs and explanatory text. Included in the free display, which runs through Nov. 22, are all the tools used for whaling, a section on the art of scrimshaw —carvings of small objects from bone or ivory —and a full-scale interior of a whaling vessel.

75-Year Old Fit For Gymnastics

PERTH, Australia (AP) — Nickoli Iwanoff, a Bulgarian aged 75, is the star turn at the gymnasium of the Perth Young Men's Christian Association.

Many a middle-aged man who believed himself fit, has had to change his mind after watching the wiry little Bulgarian somersaulting his way through an amazing series of exercises.

"We had not seen each other for 25 years but father had not changed one bit," Ivan said. "One of his first needs was a set of parallel bars and directions to the nearest gym."

Hong Kong Births Found Decreasing

HONG KONG (AP)—Hong Kong's birth rate dropped to a record low of 27 per 1,000 in 1965 because of wider use of contraceptives, the Hong Kong Family Planning Association reported.

The previous low recorded in the colony's 3.8 million population was 29 per 1,000 registered in 1964.

NO BURRO, BUT — Future prospectors on the moon will have to do without the conventional Wild West prospector's trusty mule, but they'll have things the Forty Niners never dreamed of, to search for minerals on Luna. Among them is the battery-powered rock core drill being tested by a space-suited employee of the Martin Co. (UPI Telephoto)

Lunar Prospector Due Some Unique Tools

By WILLIAM E. HOWARD
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — Spacemen are testing what every explorer will need on the moon—a handy-dandy set of geological tools.

The novel part of the equipment being developed for the Apollo project is the tool box. It can be turned inside out.

This feature is to provide explorers with something in which to carry back samples of lunar rock and surface material. The tools will be left behind.

Altogether, the kit holds 16 tools, varying from a battery-powered drill for taking core samples of rock to a weighing scale. The scale is needed so that the samples won't exceed 80 pounds and overload the astronaut's spaceship.

Designers of the tools have come up with a "multi-purpose scoop" that can function as a spade, a hoe or a scoop by adjusting the blade. It has a handle so the astronaut doesn't even have to lean over.

There is also a "multi-purpose" hammer for chopping and picking samples.

The power drill is intended for biting through hard basalt or pumice rock—the type of material some scientists now believe the surface is composed of after viewing pictures returned by Russia's Luna 9 Robot spacecraft.

Scientists who will be analyzing the samples when they are returned to earth are concerned about the exact location of where they are obtained. So the proposed tool box contains a surveying instrument called an orthogonal clinometer and sun gnomon. With this device the astronauts can calculate their lunar landing craft.

The tools and box were developed by the Martin Co., Baltimore, for the space agency's Manned Spaceflight Center near Houston. They weigh 62 pounds on earth but will weight only 10 pounds on the moon because lunar gravity is only one-sixth that of earth.

Right Number, Wrong Body Shop

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Workers at an automobile repair shop here answer the phone with the words, "body shop."

Several workers reported apparent wrong phone numbers when their response brought silence and a disconnect signal.

The learned the repair shop phone number was similar to that of a local mortuary. They quickly changed the wording of their telephone response.

Prowler Proves A Real Stinker

NEWTON, Kan. (AP) — A woman telephoned police in the wee hours of the night to report a prowler outside her window. Two officers went to the scene.

They found the prowler but quickly backed away and made no arrest. It was a skunk.

Welfare Has Failed To Cut Into Charity

NEW YORK (UPI) —Large government appropriations for social and welfare needs has not cut down on the charity of the private American citizen, says the American Association of Fund-Raising Counsel.

The Association says U.S. citizens contributed $1,243,000,000 in 1965 to support private philanthropies for social welfare programs.

67th ANNUAL GRAPE FESTIVAL

SAT. OCT. 1st •Sponsored by SUNNY HILLS GUILDS of MARIN

It's Grape Festival Time Again

Come to the fair!

And no more gay and colorful fair is there in all of the Golden State than the Sunny Hills Grape Festival. As traditional and American as homemade apple pie, this delightful country-fair setting brings a full day of gaiety and fun . . . from hundreds of balloons, clowns, popcorn, and candied apples to the more than 50 gaily decorated booths selling their wares—the handicraft and creative talents shown in the products made by more than 1500 Sunny Hills guild members who have labored the year round for this spectacular event.

Since the turn of the century Marin residents have flocked to Grape Festival to buy the products of the guilds and community organizations whose common goal was helping Sunny Hills.

In 1901 the festival, which was then just a garden party, was held on the San Rafael estate of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Foster, prominent early-day residents. Then the booths sold tea, candy, ice cream anl lemonade, and featured solos and recitations. Net proceeds for this fashionable event amounted to $370.

The Kent estate in Kentfield became the locale for Grape Festival in 1903 and there it continued for 43 years.

Grapes were strongly featured at the early festivals and were contributed from the vineyards of the Kent estate. Today you can buy grapes at the festival, but they are not a main feature.

In 1947 and 1948 Grape Festival was held at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, and in 1949 it settled on the campus of Sunny Hills in San Anselmo where it remained until last year when construction of new Sunny Hills buildings forced Grape Festival officials to seek other locations.

Last year the Sunny Hills Guilds governing council set up booths at Marin Town and Country Club. This year Grape Festival will bring its colorful country-fair setting to the modern decor of Northgate Shopping Center in Terra Linda.

Year after year new items are added to the hundreds of products featured by the 38 guilds of Sunny Hills. Plastics and resin have brought a whole new world of creative articles to the Serendipity Booth operated by the Tiburon Guild. New hobby materials have been used to develop fabulous Christmas decorations, the products of Marinwood Guild. And each year the popular decorated straw hats of Ross-Brookwood Guild sell out long before festival gates close.

The guilds featuring homemade baked goods and other foods and canned goods are adding new recipes to their stock of old favorites, making it more and more difficult for their products to last beyond mid-afternoon.

All products are sold to benefit Sunny Hills Home in San Anselmo, a United Crusade agency devoted to care and treatment of adolescent children with social adjustment problems. From the early festival days where the proceeds were $370 to the present time when proceeds exceed $30,000, Sunny Hills has considered the annual Grape Festival a vital arm of its financial support.

This year's Grape Festival will be Saturday, Oct. 1, at Northgate Shopping Center. Doors open at 10 a.m. and close at 5 p.m. Admission is 50 cents per person, and children under 12 will be admitted free.

Conservative Fashions Still Outsell Mod Garb

Mods and surfers may be getting the headlines and certainly contributing to the excitement of the men's fashion picture, but when the cash register receipts are tallied and the inventories taken at the end of the fall season, there will have been sold more clothing, furnishings and shoes styled traditionally than any other single fashion category.

Natural shoulder clothing still outsell the continental, regimental rep ties and button down shirts will be in much greater evidence than polka dots and granny-prints with contrasting white collars and cuffs. And classic wing-tip brogues and genuine moccasins will still be in demand when the Mod style toes and heels have given way to another fashion fad.

The solid national preference for the traditional is reflected in the Fall fashion previews of the major shoe and clothing manufacturers. The new Florsheim line, for example, not only shows a greater number of traditional patterns, leathers and colors, but several styling innovations directly influenced by familiar favorites.

Florsheim stylists, starting with a classic genuine moccasin, have created a shoe that is as appropriate for business or dress occasions as for casual hours by fashioning the shoe with a double front and a loop strap.

Florsheim has significantly lightened up a new group of classic brogues, too — actually made them flexible by using special insole and outsole leathers.

Absolutely the latest in coats—from the all-purpose right up to the dressy styles. A full spectrum of colors, suitable for the Petite Miss and the Petite Woman, in sizes 5 to 13.

You Dream A Lot About Birds? Emotional Immaturity Hinted

WASHINGTON (SS)—Do you see horses and dogs or birds and crocodiles in your dreams? If it is birds and crocodiles, your maturity could be somewhat suspect.

The provocative hypothesis that the kinds of animals people dream about are a clue to their maturity has been revived by psychologists Robert L. Van de Castle of the University of North Carolina School of Medicine.

He found in studying 4,000 dreams from 801 college students, mostly from the University of Denver, that the women dreamed more often of mammals, while the men dreamed of lower animals.

The sexual difference was significant, said Dr. Van de Castle. After birds, the men seemed to prefer thick-skinned or hard-shelled animals, including crocodiles, crabs and turtles. Women, on the other hand, saw dogs and horses nearly twice as often as the men.

In number of animal dreams, the sexes were equal, each spending 7.5 per cent of their dreaming time in animal fantasies. But 48 per cent of the animals that men dreamed of were non-mammals, while the figure for women was only 30 per cent.

The animal most favored by men was the bird, with its obvious symbolism. "My off-hand impression," said Dr. Van de Castle, "was that these were people looking for freedom—or for ways of escaping."

The psychologist discovered a further sexual difference, also fraught with implications: only women ever dreamed of vultures, and only men of hawks.

Does this mean college women are more mature than college men? Too little is known about animal dreams to draw any conclusions, said Dr. Van de Castle, but he pointed to some related studies that should "please the 'weaker sex."

Two separate Rorschack (ink blot) studies have linked perception of mammals with emotional maturity. In both, these subjects who saw the higher animals in the ink blots had a greater degree of autonomy and independence. They were also less likely to yield to the pressures of group conformity.

Even more striking is the case of a male patient in therapy whose dream, as he improved psychologically, evolved upward from dead plants to live plants, then to small animals, mammals, statues of people and finally to real people.

Dr. Van de Castle does not know of any other case like this one, which was reported by Dr. Medard Boss some 10 years ago in his book, "The Analysis of Dreams," but that may only indicate the shortage of information on the subject, he said.

The psychologist, however, did hold out some consolation to men. One thing seems sure about animal dreams—they decrease in number each year of a child's life until he reaches adulthood.

Dusty's A Mixed-Up Horse; Mom's A Goat

DALHART, Tex. (UPI) — Dusty, who got a bit mixed up at an early age, has been raised on goat's milk. But she is a horse.

Dusty was born early in 1966 and her mother died. One of the goats owned by her owner, Fred Presley, took over raising her and Dusty's diet was goat's milk until she weighed around 300 pounds and was weaned to feed.

Indian Treasure Trove Dug Up In Manhattan

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI) — A group of Kansas State University students who spent the summer digging, literally, for a better understanding of prehistoric Plains Indians, hit pay dirt in the heart of 20th Century civilization.

In a protected horseshoe of Wildcat Creek, an area rimmed with Manhattan residences, apartment houses and business establishments, the students recovered about 200 artifacts, plus hundreds of pieces of pottery (pot shards), and uncovered the partial outline of a large pit house, one of a much larger settlement believed to lie in the area.

Dr. Michael B. Stanislawski, assistant professor of sociology and anthropology, said the site probably dates from between 1,200 and 1,500 A.D.

Stanislawski called it "an unusually rich find." The pit house lies 10 to 18 inches below the earth's surface and appears to have been large enough for more than one family.

The Indians apparently dug a foundation, a few inches below the surface of the earth, used four or five large poles to hold up the roof, and then used a framework of branches plastered with clay.

Early in August, the crew halted digging operations, finished mapping the excavations, cleared the site and retired to the laboratory to study what was uncovered.

Iron has been manufactured since about 3000 B.C. but was not used in any quantity until after 1500 B.C. when the Hittites discovered how to make steel.

France Has Special School For Leaders

PARIS (UPI) —If ever France could be said to have a "ruling class" the alumni of the Ecole Normale Superieure would probably best fill the bill.

The Ecole Normale is like all the Ivy League colleges, the Harvard Business School and the Foreign Service Institute in Washington, D.C., all rolled into one.

Premeir Georges Pompidou is a graduate. So is author Jean-Paul Sartre, the founder of existentialism. So are many of France's leading scientists, diplomats, artists and civil servants.

The aim of the Ecole Normale is quite simple. It operates for the express purpose of turning out the men who will govern France and shape its artistic and scientiifc life. With this aim in mind—and helped by a handsome subsidy from the government itself—it operates under conditions which would make the principal of a regular French university drool.

At the Sorbonne, Paris' regular university, classes are so crowded that often a good fifth of all the students trying to get in can't cram into the lecture room.

At the Scole Normale classes are kept down, where possible, to around 20 students. The professors who take them are the cream of the crop, in many cases the leading intellectuals of France.

PREPARING FOR GRAPE FESTIVAL

Drinking Drivers Handed Sentences—To Classrooms

The "School for Alcoholism Prevention" is seeking to help persons with unknown or unadmitted alcohol problems.

Municipal judges "enroll" defendants in a series of four classes as a condition of probation for alcohol-involved convictions. The only persons assigned are those the judge feels will benefit.

"The most important facet of the school is that we deliberately aviod the question whether the people assigned to it are either alchoholics or are in danger of becoming alcoholics," says John Richardson, chair- County Council on Alcoholism. man of the Contra Costa

Most defendants assigned to the classes have been arrested for the first time for drunkenness or have low offense records.

There have been no repeaters among defendants assigned to the school thus far, says Richardson.

Each class emphasizes a different theme, such as medical aspects of alcoholism, social-ppsychological impact, Alcoholics Anonymous and similar programs.

Volunteers By The Hundred Set The Great Grape Festival Stage

The "Big Show" will go on next Saturday, but in order to make the 67th Annual Sunny Hills Grape Festival possible hundreds of volunteers have set the stage.

In addition to some 1,500 Sunny Hills Guilds members who work the year round preparing their products for the Grape Festival, about a dozen community groups and organizations occupy booth space to sell their wares to benefit Sunny Hills Home in San Anselmo.

Students from San Francisco Theological Seminary operate the familiar hot dog and hamburger concession called Vic and Oscar's. Ladies of the San Rafael Methodist Church sell their homemade potato salad, Tamalpais Rainbow Girls sell their delicious cup cakes, and girls from Sara Dix Hamlin School serve ice tea and cookies.

The Girl Scouts take care of the coke booths and Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority of San Rafael sells grape juice. Doll clothes and scraps for quilts are featured by San Rafael Rainbow Girls, and the Phi Beta Phi sorority sells settlement wares and weaving. Delta Zeta sorority operates the popular used book booth, girls from San Domenico College handle lost and found, and a group of ladies from Tiburon feature homemade cakes at the Tiburon cake booth.

Mrs. Charles Johnson, chairman of this year's Grape Festival, said: "Preparing our products for sale in the booths at Grape Festival is only a part of the big job it is to put on this colorful event each year."

Mrs. Johnson pointed out that the problem of finding suitable land has faced the Guilds since Grape Festival grounds were destroyed when the new Sunny Hills complex was built. "This year we were fortunate to have the outstanding cooperation of Coldwell, Banker and Company, M&T, Inc., of San Francsico, and Northgate Merchants Assn. who have provided about three acres of land for our use."

Mrs. Johnson also emphasized the volunteer efforts of many Marin businessmen who have contributed to the staging of the festival.

Fabian Bobo, of Bobo Construction Company, provided heavy equipment and an operator to level the land adjacent to the City of Paris. Neil Shooter of A&J Shooter, Inc. set about

Magnetic Force Drives Sub

(Special to the I-J)

SANTA BARBARA—An experimental 10-foot submarine which draws its power from electromagnetic forces in the sea has successfully cruised for 12 minutes in Santa Barbara harbor.

The unmanned, torpedo-shaped craft moved silently three feet below the surface at a speed of one and three-quarter knots. It has no propeller blades or water jets or any other moving parts.

Swimming jubilantly beside it were its creators, mechanical engineering students at the University of California, Santa Barbara, and their professor, Stewart Way, who called the experiment a complete success.

Nudging the splashing students with its nose, like a friendly dolphin, the EMS-1 cruised as directed: in circles and in diagonal and straight lines. It was steered by manual adjustment of its rear rudder.

Five lead-acid storage batteries in the sub provide current for a coil which produces a magnetic field in the sea. The same batteries send a current through the water, perpendicular to the magnetic field.

"A 'Lorentz force' is thus produced, propelling the sea water toward the rear, and driving the boat forward," Professor Way explained. "The water acts as the armature of a direct current electric motor."

Detailed study of frictional and electrical losses and the electromagnetic thrust principle is now underway.

Professor Way believes that an electromagnetic submarine may be feasible as a cargo carrier, with a 20-knot cruising speed and a power utilization efficiency rate of over 75%.

Businessmen Give Aid To Sunny Hills Event

planting grass on the grounds, and Paul Schelier of Scheller Construction Company, loaded a dozen of his men to building some 50 permanent booths for Grape Festival. Riley Wingate of Marin Builders Supply contributed materials and help for the booths, and Joseph Redmond of General Building Contractors, built the fence which surrounds the Grape Festival grounds.

Brig. Gen. Rollin B. Moore, commander of the 349th Military Air Lift Wing at Hamilton Air Force Base, has arranged for trucks and men to help transport the newly built booths to the grounds. Terra Linda Lions Club members helped assemble them.

Wiring was contributed by Larry Tresch and A. H. Tresch of Tresch Electrical Company, grounds maintenance equipment was loaded by Forster and Kroeger Landscape Maintenance Company, and McPhail's, Inc. will provide service equipment for the booths.

Western California Telephone Company provided a telephone for Mrs. Johnson to conduct Grape Festival business. Parking will be handled by members of Boy Scout Troops 67, 72, and 76, Marin County Sheriff's Posse, and San Anselmo Rotary Club. The American National Red Cross will provide a first aid station, along with volunteer nurses and trained first aiders, California Ambulance Company will contribute ambulance service, and Marin Medical Group will provide a stand-by doctor.

All of these Marinites are volunteering their services and equipment for the 67th annlad Sunny Hills Grape Festival. "Without their assistance," added Mrs. Johnson, "there simply would not be a Grape Festival, and we are indeed grateful to each and every one of them."

West's Coyotes Move Back To Tennessee

FAYETTEVILLE, Tenn. (SP)—The Coyotes are the ones that are raiding Elk Valley melon patches here, but the farmers are the ones who are howling.

Officials estimate that 25 coyotes may be roaming the hills, and no one knows how the natives of the Old West got here. Game and fish officials speculated that some one might have brought them in originally as pets or as prey for dogs.

Old West Note

SIERRA BLANCA, Tex. (UPI) —The Texas Highway Department has added a topical note from the Old West to its roadside parks: at one of the rest and picnic areas near Sierra Blanca, the tables and benches that back on the traveler are shaded by roofs in a teepee design, with bright decorations on them.
